

On Saturday se'night the new bridge erected over Hoopack river, Schaghticoke point where Chace's bridge formerly stood, was completed; on which occasion, there was an elegant entertainment given, to a large number of the citizens of that place, and the adjacent country; the day was spent with great decorum and cordiality. The bridge received the name of the Union bridge, and the point the name of Frankfort.

NORFOLK, December 31.

The following intelligence is extracted from papers received by the schooner Fame captain Webb, arrived here yesterday, in eighteen days from St. Kitt's.

BASSETERRE, November 29.

A small schooner from Anguilla arrived here on Wednesday last, with intelligence that a French frigate, a brig, and two other vessels, had arrived there early on that morning from St. Martin's, with troops for the purpose of invading this island. We have since had no vessel from Anguilla; but by one which arrived this morning from St. Bartholomew's, we learn, that the French had effected a landing and committed many acts of barbarity. A fire was seen there on Saturday night, supposed to be of the house which the French had committed to the flames. His majesty's frigate Lapwing arrived here on Friday last, being appointed to this station; she sailed again the same evening, it is supposed to Anguilla.

The second October packet sailed from Falmouth the 28th October, and arrived at Barbadoes in 22 days—previous to her sailing, accounts had been received from France of the arrival of Lord Malmesbury, whose reception was with demonstrations of joy. An escort had been sent from Paris, to conduct him to that capital, and it was the expectation of all that his mission would have the desired effect.

Dec. 2. By a letter from Martinique we learn, that his majesty's ship Regulus, of 44 guns, has arrived at Barbadoes; she was sent out with dispatches for the commander in chief on this and the St. Domingo stations; on her passage she was fired into, in the night time, by a Spanish frigate, who took her to be a transport; the Regulus answered with two broadsides, by which 14 Spaniards were killed. The Don then struck his colours, and confessed that war had been declared at Cadiz two days before he sailed. The Regulus has conducted her prize into Barbadoes. The truth of the above intelligence may be depended on.

Dec. 6. On the 23d ult. a dispatch boat arrived here from Anguilla, giving an account of an attack having been made on that island by a French frigate and a brig, on board which were a number of troops. At the time of the arrival of the boat, none of his majesty's ships were at this island; on the 25th his majesty's frigate Lapwing, captain Barton, arrived and sailed the same evening for Anguilla, taking on board the master of the boat as a pilot. The winds being far to the northward she did not reach Anguilla till late at night on the 26th—signals having been made at St. Martin's of the Lapwing's approach, the troops were all embarked, after having burnt the town, murdered numbers of the inhabitants and loaded their vessels with the plunder. At 1 in the morning of the 27th, the Lapwing ran within pistol shot of the frigate and brig, which were endeavouring to make their escape at the mouth of the harbour, when an action commenced which continued 1 hour and 52 minutes. Favoured by the darkness of the night, the French frigate made her escape through a narrow channel between a small island and Anguilla;—the Lapwing having had her pilot killed on the first broadside would not venture through. At day break both vessels were seen at anchor near St. Martin's; on the Lapwing's approach, the brig in attempting to warp to the frigate which had her rigging much cut, was fired on so heavily by the Lapwing that she was destroyed and most of the sailors and soldiers drowned: the frigate, after one broadside from the Lapwing, struck her colours, and proved to be the Decious of 26 guns. The brig mounted three 24 pounders. There were 128 soldiers and sailors killed and wounded on board the Decious, and 189 made prisoners. She was so much damaged in the action, having nine shot holes through the bottom, that after keeping possession of her for two days, captain Barton finding it impossible to get her into port from her leaky condition; and two French frigates of 44 guns each, being in chase of him about eight miles to leeward, after taking out all the prisoners, the Decious was blown up, and all the plunder consigned to the deep. The Lapwing arrived in this road the night after, having no other man killed in the action but the pilot.

It is to be regretted that the Lapwing did not arrive at Anguilla in time to frustrate the designs of the French, and prevent the depredations committed; but we believe there never was a case where an expedition was so completely destroyed and the hopes of an hostile power entirely blasted, as in this. The gallantry and good conduct of captain Barton and his brave crew are so manifest, that the bare narrative of such an event is so much honour, as to render unnecessary any encomiums.

On the 23d of December, at lat. 37, 20, and long. 72, 30, W. spoke the sloop Martin, of Fredericksburg; Henry Towle, master, from Martinico.
