Annapolis, February 23.

"DIED, on the 14th instant, aged thirty-three years, at Summer-Hill, the seat of Mr. BRUCE J. WORTHINGTON, JOHN G. WORTHINGTON, Esq; the patient fortitude and resignation with which he bore a painful illness for many years, evinced the confidence and assurance he had of a happy futurity, and of receiving the reward of a short and well spent life in the bosom of his Saviour. The rectitude and fidelity with which he discharged the duties of his profession gained him at an early age the confidence of the public; and the merits and many virtues of this truly amiable young man are best told in the distress of his relations, friends, and a numerous acquaintance, to whom his amiable and conciliating manners had endeared him. His remains were respectfully deposited in the family burying ground on the Friday following."
