Extract of a letter from a gentleman in the Creek nation, to his friend at Fort Wilkinson, dated Cuffataha Square, May 12th, '98.

"At a meeting of the chiefs and warriors of this town on the 7th instant, Yawholoingo, or Hallowing King, said to the superintendent of Indian affairs, 'I have a talk: it is a short one. The northern tribes sent it to me. We have tried our strength and are contented. The bones of our old and best warriors now rot in the earth or whiten on its surface. We have made peace and hope our young ones will grow up in peace and friendship with the children of our red and white brethren, and we hope you Creeks and Seminoles will follow our example, and that you will take the talk and inform us you have done so.'"

The letter from Fort Wilkinson, containing the above, contains likewise the following, under date of May 28:

"The Spanish garrisons on the Mississippi, are undoubtedly given up to the troops of the United States. I have just received the great news by some chiefs who arrived this evening."
