

the first surrender of part of the Dutch fleet, as stated in the Gazette, sailed up the Texel with eight sail of two deckers, and moored his ships along side the remainder, the whole of which, viz.

Eight sail of the line, and every other ship in the Texel, have surrendered!

The following is the official notice sent to the lord mayor, Lloyd's coffee-house, and to the members of administration:

Admiralty-Office, September 10,
Ten minutes past one.

Lieutenant Collier has just arrived with an account of the surrender of the Dutch fleet, consisting of one of 74 guns, five of 68, two of 54, two of 44, one of 32, and one of 16, without firing a gun.

We stated in our paper of yesterday, that a French journal of a late date had been received in town, containing an account of the total defeat of general Joubert's army, by marshal Suwarrow. We now learn, that this paper, the only one in town, is in the possession of government.—The battle is said to have taken place at Novi, a town in the Genoese territories, ten miles west of Tortona, and twenty-two north-west of Genoa.
