I request that all our head men will have an eye on the young people, and prevent them from doing on the young people, and prevent them from doing mischief by trespatsing on the United States, that they might have no complaint against us, or any grounds to make war on us; so that if a war should become it must be their own faults and grounds it must be their own faults, and not ours; happen, it must be shell distributed, and not ours; awar of usurpation on their parts, and felf-defence on ours—then we shall find friends enough to assist

Several talks have come from the governor of Penfacola to this country, touching peace, but they do not contain a just and equitable talk, as they all connot contain a june peace will come on bye and bye : but we must not be in a hurry—for the future good or bad state of the country will depend on the peace that may be made. This nation must be firm, and that may be made. I the hand, fo that lying talks cannot divide it.

I will get supplies into the land at some place, in fpite of all opposition; but we must not be still. The Spaniards draw all their force to where they hear I spaniarus draw an eneri force to where they near I am—but they do not make war on me only, but on the name of Murkogee. It is I that hold forth the name of Murkogee against them all, and I will not let it go; I will not throw away the talk you gave me at the last meeting of the nation at the Wekywa, when you appointed me director-general of Musko-Every Red Brother that loves his country, his wite, his children and parents, ought to hold fait each other, and have but one talk among us. I now call on the warriors and young men, whose hearts lead them to turn out in defence of their country, to follow me to Picolara, where I am going to join thole already gone.

You now fee that col. Hawkins could not fay before me what he told you all last winter; I formerly told you so: I told you he dare not see me, after the lies he had told, and the mischief he had tried to make. I told you that he would run away as foon as I came near him. You now fee it was true.

I desire that you will give this talk out at the Square, then send it to Apuithla Mekko, or Tame King, that he may give it to his people, and the Upper towns may hear of it, as my talk: also let the white people have copies of it.

Your brother, W. A. BOWLES. Director-general of Muskogee.

THE person who borrowed the 3d and 7th volumes of Shakespeare's Works from the fubfcriber, will much oblige him by returning them. C. JACKSON.
