Annapolis, July 9?

By's late frival at Boston, London papers to the Este these papers furnish numerous details. Difof the army down to that date. The articles of equilation of the forz of Aboukir, appear under the Afer but little from those already published. Strong reaforcements of Turkilh thips and troops have joinrenforcements of a urkin imps and troops have joins the British, and more troops are to proceed imme-lately from England for the same purpose. Letters from Toulon mention the sailing of Gantheaume's squidron on the 25th April, having on board 4000 troops, for Egypt. Nine sail of Spanish ships of the Ere, in two squadrons, is said to have escaped from the said to the Mediterraneau. The differences Breff, bound to the Mediterranean. The differences between England and the Northern powers appear in a train of amicable adjustment. Sir Hyde Parker has been recalled, and the command of the Baltic fleet inferred on lord Nelfon. The Elbe has been detared open to all nations. Peace has been concluded between Denmark and Tunis. Not a syllable on the Ebject of the negociation between France and Great-Britain in the late papers. Under the Paris head of May 13, mention is made of the arrival of the Maryhad at Havre.
