

NEW-YORK, April 16.

By the ship Sufan, captain Collins, arrived yesterday in 46 days from Ireland, we have received papers to the 21st of Feb. Although these papers are not so late as those received by an arrival at Baltimore, we observe they contain several articles which have not been published here.

her into port, when the captain of the Leander produced his passports from the British government, and was suffered to proceed.

The hon. WILLIAM PINNEY, Esq; of this state, is appointed minister extraordinary to the court of St. James's.

LONDON, February 17.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Mr. Secretary Fox was introduced between Lord Henry Petty and Mr. Whitbread, and took the oath, and then took his seat on the Treasury Bench.

Lord Henry Petty said he did not wish to do anything that might be considered as taking the house by surprise; and he would therefore give notice, that to-morrow he should move that the house do adjourn till Monday, and on Monday he should move for the joint account between Great-Britain and Ireland.

Mr. Lee moved for a return of all the writs that have issued from the court of King's Bench and Common Pleas in Ireland, for the last four years.—Ordered.

Act of Union with Ireland.

Mr. Alexander said, he rose for the purpose of asking for an explanation from a right hon. gentleman opposite to him, relative to an expression which lately fell from him on the subject of the Union with Ireland. Such an opinion given by a person in his present situation, had given rise to many conjectures, and considerable agitation in another part of the kingdom; and it was extremely important that the public mind should be satisfied as to whether any measures were likely to be hereafter adopted.

The speaker said, the hon. member was wholly irregular in making an allusion to any thing that passed in a former debate. However, gentlemen are at liberty to make any explanation they may think proper.

Mr. Secretary Fox said, he was ready to give any explanation that should be required of him. That he thought the words he had used were very clearly unfor paying certain honours to the marquis Cornwallis, a member then took occasion to notice the share that noble person had taken in bringing about the Union, and he (Mr. Fox) in allusion to what has been said, gave that opinion as to the measure which he had ever entertained. But when, he said, he gave an opinion upon a thing which had already been done, he said nothing prospectively. He knew very well it was not every bad measure that could be repealed.—From what he said it could not be inferred that he wanted the repeal of the measure, which he always considered a bad one—and indeed every body must perceive, that of all measures, the repeal of which was not connected with the enacting of it, it was the act of Union. It did not follow, from any thing he said, that the repeal of this act was a thing which he should recommend.

Mr. Alexander said his object in alluding to this subject was to quiet the public mind, which had been in a state of considerable agitation.

Lord St. Vincent's intended command, we understand, is not to interfere either with lord Keith or lord Gardner. His Lordship, it is said, is to hoist the Union Flag at the main, with the same powers that were formerly exercised by lord Howe.

It is said that his Royal Highness the Duke of Clarence will immediately hoist his flag as admiral of the white, and take command of the second division of the channel fleet, under the earl of St. Vincent.

DUBLIN, February 20.

The Duke of Bedford is expected to arrive about the second week in March.

The Courier which arrived this day, confirms the appointment of Mr. Curran to the office of attorney-general for Ireland. It also states that Mr. Foster was to resign his situation on Tuesday.

Lord Hutchinson has not yet accepted the chief command in this country.

Captain Aborn, from Cayenne, informs, that when he arrived there, which was on the 5th of January, he found an embargo lying on all neutral vessels, in consequence of a division of the Rochefort Squadron being expected; and that this Squadron had sent into Cayenne the British ships Robert, Blase, Hero and Flora, part of a convoy bound to the West-Indies with provisions, &c. The embargo was taken off the 19th March.—N. Y. paper.

A Charleston paper of April 2, says—"Capt. Phillips, from Havana, informs us, that intelligence had reached that place, the day before he sailed, of the expedition under general Miranda having left New-York, and had excited some apprehensions among the Americans. An embargo was talked of, and a 74 gun ship was ready for sea, having her sails bent. Intelligence had also been received of the ship Leander's having been twice boarded by British cruisers; the first time in the Mona passage, when they stated that they were bound to St. Domingo, and were suffered to pass. The second time she was boarded, they made the same statement, but from the latitude in which she was, it was evident that was not her destination, and the British commander proposed sending

Some time since in making an excavation before one of the gates of Stuttgart, the workmen discovered the bones and teeth of an elephant. The largest of the teeth is six feet long. Six years since, in digging at a little distance from the same place, were also found the skeletons of 14 elephants, which appeared of a different nature from those we now know. At the side of the bones of the elephant were found the bones of a rhinoceros. Here are ample materials for conjecture on the antiquity, the flooding and the changes of the globe. [London paper.]

OGDEN'S CASE.

We learn by a letter from New-York, that the court over-ruled the plea in abatement of Mr. Ogden's counsel as to the illegality of the testimony submitted to the grand jury, and put the defendants to plead upon the indictments. [Phil. paper.]

Extract of a letter from London.

"Between the Swan Inn, in Birmingham, (Eng.) and St. Martin's church, there is an open, bold space of ground, occasioned by the removal of the old thambles and a number of small houses, in the middle of which the inhabitants of that town are about erecting an august pillar to the memory of the late lord Nelson. Already more than two thousand pounds sterling are subscribed for the purpose. Nearly 100,000 have been collected in the kingdom, at different churches, chapels, and meeting-houses, for the relief of the relatives of the seamen who fell at Nelson's victory—although not many more than 500 persons are said to be objects of this charity."

Neptune, Taylor, of Philadelphia, 15 days from Port-au-Prince. The Neptune mounts 16 guns, and 65 men, and has on board a cargo of 700,000 weight of coffee. Accounts by this arrival state, that the ship Leander, capt. Lewis, with gen. Miranda, was at Jacquemel. Capt. Lewis and Mr. Smith, had arrived at Port-au-Prince, where they were raising recruits. The ship Emperor, of New-York, failed a few days before the Neptune—she cleared out for Louisiana; but it was believed she was destined to join the Leander at Jacquemel. The object of the expedition was not publicly known. [Times.]

Accounts by the America, from Rio Pongo, confirm the reports of the arrival of a French Squadron on that coast. They were stated to consist of one 74, a 50 gun ship, three frigates and a brig; had captured the Favourite sloop of war, and a brig; were scouring the coast, and, it was supposed, would take possession of Goree. The Arab sloop of war had failed for the Isles de Los, and it was expected would fall into their hands.—[Ibid.]

MESSAGE

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States.

During the blockade of Tripoli by the Squadron of the United States, a small cruiser, under the flag of Tunis, with two prizes, (all of trifling value) attempted to enter Tripoli, was turned back, warned, and attempting again to enter, was taken and detained as prize by the Squadron. Her restitution was claimed by the bey of Tunis, with a threat of war in terms so serious, that on withdrawing from the blockade of Tripoli, the commanding officer of the Squadron thought it his duty to repair to Tunis with his Squadron, and to require a categorical declaration whether peace or war is intended. The bey preferred explaining himself by an ambassador to the United States, who, on his arrival, renewed the request that the vessel and her prizes should be restored. It was deemed proper to give this proof of friendship to the bey, and the ambassador was informed the vessels would be restored. Afterwards he made a requisition of naval stores to be sent to the bey, in order to secure a peace for the term of three years, with a threat of war if refused. It has been refused, and the ambassador is about to depart without receding from his threat or demand.

Under these circumstances, and considering that the several provisions of the act of March twenty-fifth, one thousand eight hundred and four, will cease in consequence of the ratification of the treaty of peace with Tripoli, now advised and consented to by the Senate, I have thought it my duty to communicate these facts, in order that congress may consider the expediency of continuing the same provisions for a limited time, or making others equivalent.
