

This is the true reason of his refusal, and his determination has been communicated to government. His Excellency did not object to the brig's being sent to sea, provided another was sent as the price for her had no objection to completing the right of two.

It is now probable we shall be favoured with the company of his "Excellency" for sometime; as the coaches gone to Washington will not find Mr. Jefferson there, they must be sent to Monticello, and Mr. Jefferson will be too circumspect to act, without the advice of his cabinet.

PHILADELPHIA, August 12.

We understand that William Duane, editor of the Aurora, has been discharged from jail by the chief justice on a habeas corpus. He was committed for refusing to find surety for his good behaviour on a conviction for a libel. This decision is in direct opposition to that of G. J. McKean, in the case of Abbott. We are informed that the chief justice said, that there would have been no doubt in his mind, of the propriety of discharging the prisoner, but for the decision of the supreme court in the case cited to; and notwithstanding that, he thought it his duty to decide as he has done.

GEORGE-TOWN, (Col.) August 11.

On Wednesday the secretary of state left Washington, with his Lady, for his seat in Virginia. Yesterday, a most unfortunate and fatal accident occurred in High-street. Mr. Smith, of Calvert county, was returning from Frederick in a chair (where he had been on a visit) with Mrs. Smith and a lovely infant of about twenty months old, and had just entered the street, when the wheel of the chair ran against a stone, and received so violent a shock, that Mrs. Smith was thrown out with the child in her arms; and by the fall the brains of the infant were ~~shot out, and he was killed on the spot, and the unfortunate mother left senseless on the ground.~~ The child immediately ran off with Mr. Smith, but was ~~seen from after, without any injury to him.~~ Thus are the fond hopes of an anxious father and mother often defeated; and in an unsuspecting moment their eyes turned into lamentations and sorrow. Mrs. Smith was conveyed to a house, and soon brought her senses—but to witness a scene of agonizing grief.

The celebrated

Worm-Destroying Lozenges,

WHICH have within seven years past cured upwards of one hundred thousand persons of both sexes, of every age and in every situation, of various dangerous complaints, arising from worms, and from obstructions or foulness in the stomach and bowels:—

This medicine bears no analogy whatever to others of similar title, so commonly complained of as operating with violence; on the contrary, the particular excellence of this remedy is its being suited to every age and constitution; contains nothing but what is perfectly innocent, and is so mild in its operation that it cannot injure the most delicate pregnant lady, or the tenderest infant of a week old, should no worms exist in the body; but will, without pain or griping, cleanse the stomach and bowels of whatever is foul or offensive, and thereby prevent the production of worms and many fatal disorders. They are particularly efficacious in carrying off all gross humours and eruptions; feverish and bilious complaints, and are the safest and mildest purgative that can be used on any occasion.

Also may be had,

Lee's celebrated Anti-Bilious Pills, for the prevention and cure of bilious and malignant fevers.

Infalible Ague and Fever Drops, for the cure of agues, remittent, and intermittent fevers.

Lee's True and Genuine Eye Water.

Lee's Corn Plaster.

Lee's Sovereign Ointment for the Itch, warranted a certain remedy, with one application, free from mercury or any pernicious ingredient.

SELECTED.

SONNETS,

BY DR. PERFECT.

HOPE.

A MYRTLE that fell from her breast
I hastily pluck'd from the ground;
Nor had I one moment of rest,
Till its beautiful owner I found.
Adieu to the regions of gloom
I cried, to all sorrows adieu!
My Phillida, let me presume
This sprig to restore to your view.
Replac'd in her bosom, the spoil
Recover'd its primitive mien;
Like me it reviv'd in her smile,
And soon appear'd gay and serene.
Then I cherish'd fond hope, the first spring of my soul,
And no longer despair did my bosom control.

DEJECTION.

INSPIR'D by a passion so pure,
I rose with the loud-singing lark,
In hope of my charmer secure,
Cross'd o'er the lawn of the park.
The smile of Aurora I hail'd,
But wanted my Phillida's smile,
Ah me! disappointment prevail'd;
In vain were my care and my toil.
Farewel to the daisy-dress'd mead;
Dejection, I fly to thy cell:
For one that's more wealthy decreed,
Is Phillida destin'd, they tell.
Cease, warblers, your sonnets; henceforward be mute,
My muse is dejected, and silent my flute.

JEALOUSY.

I GATHER'D the violet so blue,
Whose colour spoke peace to my breast,
An emblem of love the most true,
A type of my passion confess'd.
The primrose invited my view;
I lik'd not its features so pale;
Expressive of jealousy too,
I left it to fade in the vale.
Such caution 'twas needless to take,
Since Phillida, faithless—was seen,
With Colin last night at the wake,
And danc'd with the swain on the green.
Now Jealousy's poison's diffus'd o'er my breast,
Adieu to the blossoms of comfort and rest.

CONSOLATION.

THE flower of Love have ye seen,
Ye shepherds, that welcome the May,
Transcendantly beautiful of mein,
When warm'd by the morning's first ray?
So Phillida's smiles to my breast
Contentment and pleasure impart,
The sun was sunk down in the west
When I met with the pride of my heart.
As ling'ring we travers'd the vale,
Consentive her shepherd she heard;
More sweet than the rose-breathing gale,
Was her voice, when she utter'd the word.
A charming delirium stole over my breast,
As Phillida's hand strew'd the poppies of rest.

CONSUMMATION.

TWO roses twin-sisters that grew,
Of turtles a pair from the nest,
Begirt with a ribbon of blue,
The type of our union confess'd:
Dear emblems of conjugal bliss,
That courted by Phillida's smile,
And met her consent with a kiss,
Completing a truce to my toil.
Next morning our gay village band
To church my dear Phillida bore;
With pleasure I gave her my hand;
My heart was her own long before:
And now, gentle Hymen, your blessings bestow,
The turtles shall bill, and the roses shall blow.
