REMONSTRANCE TO WINTER.

BY J. MONTGOMERY.

AH! why, unfeeling Winter! why Still flags thy torpid wing? Fly, melancholy season, fly, And yield the year to Spring. Spring—the young cherubim of love; An exile in disgrace, Flits o'er the scene, like Noah's dove, Nor finds a resting place. When on the mountain's azure peak, Alights her fairy form, Cold blow the winds—and dark and bleak, Around her rolls the storm. If to the valley she repair For shelter and defence, Thy wrath pursues the mourner there, And drives her weeping thence. She seeks the brook—the faithless brook, Of her unmindful grown, Feels the chill magic of thy look, And lingers into stone. She woos her embryo flowers in vain, To rear their infant heads;— Deaf to her voice her flowers remain Enchanted in their beds. In vain she bids the trees expand Their green luxuriant charms;— Bare in the wilderness they stand, And stretch their withering arms. Her favourite birds, in feeble notes, Lament thy long delay; And strain their little flammering throats, To charm thy blasts away. Ah! Winter, calm thy cruel rage; Releate the struggling year; Thy power is past, decrepid sage! Arise and disappear. The stars that grac'd thy splendid night Are lost in warmer rays; The sun, rejoicing in his might Unrolls celestial days. Then why, usurping Winter, why Still flags thy frozen wing? Fly, unrelenting tyrant, fly— And yield the year to Spring.

A QUAKER WOMAN'S SERMON.

DEAR FRIENDS—There are three things I very much wonder at:—The first is, that children should be so foolish as to throw up stones, brick-bats and clubs into fruit trees to knock down the fruit; if they would let it alone, it would fall itself. The second is, that men should be so foolish and even wicked, as to go to war and kill one another; if they would only let one another alone, they would die of themselves. And the third and last thing, which I wonder most of all at is, that young Men should be so unwise as to go after the young Women; if they would only stay at home the young Women would come after them.
