

Extract of a letter from Petersburg, July 31.

"We have now got the French ambassador, general Savary, and suite, and lord Gower. On the 5th Aug. there is to be a grand masquerade at the palace of Peterhoff in the celebration of the peace. Every thing is to be on the first scale of magnificence. The general opinion on 'Change is, that the emperor is much displeas'd with the conduct of the late English government, and at present we know he is very unfriendly to the English here. How matters will end—God only knows. His imperial majesty has just been down at Cronstadt inspecting the fortifications, which have been put in the strongest possible state of defence."

It affords us much satisfaction to find that the American government has not been so far influenced by the senseless clamour excited in that country, as to adopt the passions and violence of the mobs on the banks of the Chesapeake.

The letters from the fleet mention, that it was not the intention of lord Cathcart to make his final summons to the government of Copenhagen, until all his batteries were finished, and the place completely invested. This could not be effected until the 22d, and the final summons would probably be made on the 23d.

National Rank.—Upwards of 300 years ago (in 1505) that important officer called the master of the ceremonies who officiated for Julius II. ranked the powers of Europe in the following manner.

- 1 The Emp. of Germa-14 Holland,
- 2 King of the Romans, 15 Denmark,
- 3 France, 16 Republic of Venice,
- 4 Spain, 17 Duke of Britanny,
- 5 Arragon, 18 Duke of Burgundy,
- 6 Portugal, 19 Elector of Bavaria,
- 7 England, 20 Elector of Branden-
- 8 Sicily, 21 Elector of Saxony,
- 9 Scotland, 22 Archduke of Auf-

- 11 Navarre, 24 Grand Duke of Flo-

Russia, Prussia nor Sweden, do not appear in the catalogue: and the Papal sovereign, who presided over the College of princes, has now, in a manner, withdrawn from the political hemisphere.

DRESDEN, July 23.

It is reported here, on what is believed to be good authority, that the French marshal Ney will be appointed commander in chief of the whole Saxon army; which army will be entirely new organized.

COPENHAGEN, August 18.

Since the landing of the English upwards of twenty spies have already been apprehended, some dressed as peasants, and others in womens cloaths. Yesterday the English commenced in the road to bombard the castle and the Three Crown Battery. Their bombs are of the same description as those on the 2d April, 1801; that is most pitiful, most of them burst in the air.

Our fleet of bomb vessels were out this morning, and have done them considerable mischief. We are in high spirits, and entertain no doubt of their being defeated.

They were allowed to land undisturbed in order to surround and destroy them.—[Hamburgh Correspondent, Aug. 22.]

DENMARK, August 20.

The Prince Royal has given orders rather to burn the fleet, in case of extremity, than to suffer them to fall into the hands of the enemy. When Mr. Jackson, it is said, gave him twelve hours to take his final resolution, he did not employ so many seconds in positively rejecting his propositions.

General JOHN SHEE, of Pennsylvania, superintendent of Indian affairs to be collector of the port of Philadelphia vice gen. Muhlenburg deceased.

General JOHN MASON, of the district of Columbia, to be superintendent of Indian Affairs vice gen. Shee, appointed collector of the port of Philadelphia.

LARKIN SMITH, Esq. of Virginia, to be collector of the port of Norfolk, vice TH. NEWTON, sen. Esq. deceased.

—We are desired to state, that a Stone is placed in the hands of Dr. Ott, which possesses the wonderful power of extracting poison of every kind. This Stone will be used under the direction of Dr. Weems, and without charge. It was brought from India by a gentleman of New-York, who purchased it from a native, after having seen the efficacy of its power demonstrated in extracting the poison of a scorpion that was permitted to bite the then owner. The owner of this very valuable stone, dining in company with some gentlemen who were conversing on the peculiar power of a stone owned by a lady in Virginia, related the above account, and has since most generously sent his Stone to a gentleman in town, to be used for the benefit of such of his fellow citizens as may be so unfortunate as to require it. The Stone is black, about an inch in length, and in shape somewhat like a bean. [Wash. Fed.]

—The commissioners appointed by the respective states of New-York and New-Jersey to ascertain the boundary line between the two states, after being in session at Newark about nine days, have separated without coming to any determination but to disagree. The commissioners of New-Jersey presented a formal written claim to Staten-Island—to one half of the river at the Narrows—to Ellis's and Bedlow's Islands, and to one half of the river as far as New-Jersey extends along its shores! This is quite as much of modesty as we could well expect from New-Jersey. It is hardly necessary to observe that our commissioners decided upon an adjournment when this trifling claim was offered. [Amer. Cit.]

COMMUNICATION.

A standard was presented on Saturday afternoon by Miss Mary Chase, (daughter of the honorable S. Chase) to the troop of "First Baltimore Hussars," commanded by captain William B. Barney, in the presence of a large and brilliant assemblage of spectators. The troop having been drawn up, in full uniform, before the house of the judge, Miss Chase appeared in a dress of white satin, decorated in the Hussar style, wearing an elegant military cap, embroidered in gold, with nodding plumes; captain Barney advanced towards her, and saluted; when, holding the colours in her hand, she addressed him in these words:

SIR, Permit me to present you with a standard for the troop you have the honour to command. Admiring the patriot ardour displayed by the FIRST BALTIMORE HUSSARS, I derive a high pleasure from the anticipation, that a banner, worked by my hand, will ever proudly wave where honour points and duty leads the way. Should a war, which Heaven avert, prove the only resource of our country against foreign aggression, when the trumpet sounds, may the angel of victory hover over the gallant defenders of our rights, and their achievements in the field of fame, be crowned with a glorious and lasting peace!

To which captain Barney replied: MADAM, As commander of the "FIRST BALTIMORE HUSSARS," I receive with the highest sense of patriotic gratitude the very elegant standard, you have honoured them in presenting.

In the event of a war, were any other incentive than duty necessary to their exertions in defence of their insulted country, this proof of your approbation would of itself, be a sufficient stimulus to stimulate their hearts with courage, and nerve their arms with strength. Be assured, that in time of danger it will ever prove their rallying point; with it they will conquer, or around it nobly perish.

Accept, madam, the salutation of the troop. Captain Barney saluted again, upon receiving the standard, and delivered it to cornet M'Kim. The troop then paraded twice before the judge, where Miss Chase stood; the officers saluting as they passed.

The colours are richly worked in gold, on a white lustrous ground, relieved with a serpentine border of crimson velvet, and ornamented with gold fringe and tassels. The beauty of design, and execution displayed in the performance, evinces at once the taste, ingenuity and patriotism, of the fair artist. One side of the flag discovers an eye, from which its centre, rays diverge emblematical of the divinity; motto "non alius regnat," "Jehova is our king." On the reverse is exhibited, an elegant gold cypher of the United States, encircled by seventeen stars—Motto, "Unita virtus fortior," "Virtue united is invincible." Each corner of the flag represents a grenade or bomb on fire.

The colours are attached to a golden arrow and suspended from the staff in the Roman style: the whole surmounted by the American Eagle, with expanded wings, grasping in its talons a silver globe, representing the world. The eagle wears a breast plate, on which, by order of the troop, the following inscription has been engraved.

"Presented by Miss Mary Chase," Anno 1807.

"May this manifestation of female patriotism never be forgotten, while amor patriæ shall be esteemed a virtue."

By the arrivals from St. Thomas, we learn, that the news of the capture of Copenhagen by the British had reached that place. The British had commenced capturing Danish vessels. [Phil. pap.]
