Grand Lottery, Baltimore,

AUTHORISED by the general assembly of the State of Maryland, a scheme of which is the most brilliant ever devised for the citizens of the United States, containing besides a large number of other good prizes

- 1 prize of 30,000 dollars,
- 1 do. of 15,000 dollars,
- 3 do. of 10,000 dollars,
- 2 do. of 5000 dollars,
- 8 do. of 1500 dollars,
- 7 do. of 1000 dollars,

of two blanks to a prize, and the lowest prize is twelve dollars. The scheme contains only 21,500 tickets; 10,000 of which are actually sold to a company of gentlemen in New-York, to whom the managers have obligated themselves to commence the drawing in the city of Baltimore, on THURSDAY the 1st day of DECEMBER next, and to draw 500 tickets per day.

Tickets and shares are now selling in a variety of numbers and very rapidly, at TEN Dollars and a HALF each, for a short time, at
G. & R. WAITE'S.

Truly fortunate Lottery office, corner of Market and Charles streets Baltimore.

The grandeur of the scheme of the above lottery, together with an assurance from the managers that it will positively commence drawing on the 31st day of December next, have been a sufficient inducement for the subscribers to come to the city of Baltimore for the express purpose of facilitating the sale of the tickets.

G. & R. WAITE.

One of the above will personally attend the drawing daily, to take down the numbers correctly as will also one of their clerks.

The next New-York lottery will not commence drawing till April next—tickets of which lottery may be had at Waite's offices, No. 64 and No. 38 Maiden Lane New-York.

Distant adventurers accompanying their orders with bank notes, of any description to either of Waite's offices, in New-York or Baltimore, may have tickets and shares forwarded to any amount with the utmost punctuality, and the earliest advice sent them of their success. All prizes sold by G. and R. Waite, will be paid by them.

INVOCATION TO POVERTY.

[WRITTEN BY CHARLES FOX.]

OH POVERTY! of pale, consumptive hue!
Thou delight'st to haunt me still in view;
If still thy presence must my steps attend,
At least continue, as thou art—my friend!

Whene'er example bids me be unjust,
False to my word, or faithless to my trust,
Bid me the baneful error quickly see,
And shun the world, to find repose with thee.

When vice to wealth would turn my partial eye,
Or interest shut my ear to sorrow's cry;
Or courtiers' customs would my reason bend,
My foe to flatter, or desert my friend:
Oppose, kind POVERTY! thy temper'd shield,
And bear me off, unvanquish'd from the field.

It giddy fortune e'er return again,
With all her idle, restless, wanton train;
Her magic glass should false ambition hold,
Or Av'rice bid me put my trust in gold;—
To my relief, thou virtuous Goddess, haste,
And with thee bring thy daughters, ever chaste,
Health, Liberty, and Wisdom—sisters bright,
Whose charms can make the worst condition light!
Beneath the hardest fate the mind can cheer,
Can heal affliction, and disarm despair!
In chains, in torments, pleasure can bequeath,
And dress in smiles the tyrant hour of death.

THE CARELESS COUPLE.

JENNY is poor, and I am poor,
Yet we will wed—so say no more;
And should the harm you mention come,
As few are marry but have some,
No doubt but Heav'n will stand our friend,
And BREAD, as well as CHILDREN lend.
So fares the hen in farmer's yard,
To live alone she finds it hard,
I've known her weary every claw,
In search of corn among the stub,
But when in quest of nicer food,
She clucks among her chirping brood;
With joy I've seen the self same hen,
That scratch'd for ONE could scratch for TEN.
These are the thoughts that make me willing
To take my GIRL without a shilling;
And for the self same cause, dye see,
JENNY's resolv'd to marry me!

THE CHINA ASTER.—

A FRAGMENT.

"I PLANTED it with my own hands," said my little sister, holding up a withered China aster, plucked up by the roots; I covered it, from the sun; I watered it night and morning—and after all, wiping her eyes with the corner of her frock, "And after all it is dead."

Alas! how many are the occurrences in life, thought I, which resemble Mary's flower! too easily believing what we wished, we adopt some trifle, and laying it, as it were, in our bosom, love it as a daughter. Fancy prints it in gay colours; increasing in beauty, we see its little leaves expand, and trace its progress with anxious solicitude, from the swelling bud to the blow; and then, when we expect to enjoy it, reality tells us, "after all it is dead."

How often does an only son engross all the care of his parents, and wind himself round every fibre of their hearts; to cherish the idol, every wish is on the stretch; to indulge it are all rarities of art and nature provided; sleepless nights and anxious days are their lot; add to! when they hope to see the end of their labours, struck by the hand of disease, or debased by the contaminating touch of vice, the agonized parents find all is dead.

And how sanguine are the expectations of those relatives and friends who possess a lovely girl, endowed with all the charms of beauty and goodness! how do they exult in her very idea! she was the solace of their calamities, and the staff of dependence for their declining years; friendship rises in her defence like a wall, and affection nourishes her like the mild spring. Ah! to how little purpose! The canker-worm of love plays upon the delicate root of this sweet sensitive, and the scorching winds of disappointment drink up its moisture; the hands of affection and friendship are united in vain to support it; for

The deep drawn oft repeated sigh,
Hath caus'd health's blushes to decay;
The tear that moisten'd beauty's eye,
Hath worn its lustre quite away.

It languishes and dies; and regret bitterly weeping raves round the lovely fallen, and exclaims, After all, it is dead.
