In the London Courier of the 27th of August, it is confidently asserted, that Lucien Buonaparte, feeling himself insecure while in the reach of his brother Napoleon, "has actually applied to the king of Sardinia and to Mr. Hill, the British envoy at Cagliari, for passports for himself and family, to go to the U. States of America."

Reparation for the attack on the Chesapeake.

The facts stated in the following letter (says the United States Gazette,) may be relied upon, and we venture to say will not be contradicted by our administration:

"London, 20th Aug. 1808.

"DEAR SIR,

"Finding that the negotiation between Mr. Rose and your government has led to various misrepresentations, and that the American people are yet wholly uninformed of the terms of reparation which Great-Britain was prepared to offer for the attack on the Chesapeake, I think it proper to communicate to you the following sketch of those terms, that your countrymen may be enabled fairly to judge of the disposition of his majesty's government to make honourable terms for the unwarrantable outrage committed by Mr. Berkley.

"After expressing his majesty's deep regret for that transaction, and his unqualified acknowledgment of the principle, that ships of war of neutrals are to be free from search, Mr. Rose was empowered on the part of Great-Britain,

- To reimburse all the expenses of repairing the frigate—
- To restore the men taken from her—
- To grant pensions to the wounded—and to the wives and families of the killed."

FROM HALIFAX.

The following interesting articles are copied from Halifax papers to the 30th ult. received by an arrival at Bolton:

HALIFAX, Sept. 27.

On the 25th arrived his majesty's ship Eurydice. She left Plymouth, England, on the 17th of August, arrived at Oporto on the 24th—off Lisbon on the 31st, and on the morning of the 1st inst. took her departure for this place.

BATTLES IN PORTUGAL.

SURRENDER OF THE FRENCH ARMY.

On the 9th of August, near Malta, there was a partial action between the British army, under the command of sir Arthur Wellesley, and the French under gen. Junot, in which the former lost 400 men and two field officers; one of whom it was said was c. l. Lake, of the 29th regiment, which, with the German legion, suffered severely. On the 21st a general action took place; Junot's army was completely defeated, with the loss of 5000 men, in killed, wounded and prisoners; our loss was 800. On the night of the 22d, "an agreement for the suspension of hostilities between the British and French armies, preparatory to an arrangement of a convention for the evacuation of Portugal by the latter," was entered into. On the 30th the convention was completed: Junot and his army were to march out of Lillon with the honours of war, and to return to France in British transports, which were assembling in the Tagus. The French, while the outlines of the convention were in discussion, urged that the Russian ships should be permitted to return home, which was refused, and their surrender, we have no doubt, was made early in the present month. Junot's army at the time of its surrender, amounted to sixteen thousand men.

The following copy of a letter from Sir A. Wellesley to capt. Malcolm, of his majesty's ship Donegal, was received by the Eurydice:

Camp at Howella, 23d August, 1808.

SIR,

I have the honour to inform you that an agreement for the suspension of hostilities, between the British and the French armies, preparatory to an arrangement of a convention for the evacuation of Portugal by the latter, was signed last night by the direction of the commander in chief.

The commander in chief has directed me to inform you that he has received orders to send to England all the horse ships now in Portugal, with the exception of those which will have brought out the 18th light dragoons; and he concludes you will receive orders from the admiral to send them to England without loss of time.

He wishes however that all the other transports, whether in the Mondego river, at Oporto, or off Mondego, should be brought to the mouth of the Tagus, without loss of time, and he has desired me to request, that you will give directions that they may be sent to that station.

I have the honour to be, &c.
 (Signed) A. WELLESLEY.

To capt. Malcolm, H. M. ship Donegal.

French and Dancing Schools.

MR. ST. MARGUERITE offers his services to those ladies and gentlemen who are desirous of being instructed in the above branches of polite education. His terms to those who undertake to learn only French, or dancing, will be ten dollars per quarter, but those who choose to take lessons in both, will be received at fifteen dollars the quarter.
