

war, ought we not to feel happy in pestilential contagion and vapours has not extended to those shores? A war which engendered a spark of liberty unfolding itself, has been sed and misfud until carried to the ut height of servile despotism.

PACIFICATOR.

From the FEDERAL GAZETTE.

Hewes,
THE object of my attending the meeting on Monday last, was to express my sup of the government, and detestation of principles of those who have opposed or endeavouring to raise an opposition to the s, who have or may hereafter express sentiments or give opinions favourable to the vision of them, or to that of a disunion of United States. I was there (without any previous knowledge or intimation given me of arrangement) called upon, by the chair as one of the committee to examine the report and resolutions prepared for the meeting which I hastily considered, embraced object that had urged my attendance. the next morning after a deliberate perusal of the proceedings, published in the American, I discovered that one of the resolves might be construed to cast a general reflection on the principles of all who think differently on politics to those who composed the meeting. To such construction of that resolve, I cannot continue my sanction, because I do not entertain such general opinion of the class of my fellow-citizens.

JOHN DONNELL.

12th Feb. 1809.

A similar communication from Henry Payson, Esquire, and one from James Calhoun, Esquire, in behalf of the committee, are published in the Federal Gazette of Monday evening.]

Following is one of the resolutions of the town of Boston, recently passed in town-meeting.

Resolved, That we will not voluntarily assist in the execution of the act passed the ninth day of this month, for enforcing several embargo laws; and that all those who shall so assist in enforcing upon others arbitrary and unconstitutional provisions of this act, ought to be considered as enemies to the constitution of the United States of this state, and hostile to the liberties of this people.

Advices from Petersburg, (Russia) of O. A. state, that M. Datchkows, named consul in Russia to the U States, had failed for port on the continent, to embark for country. [N. Y. paper.]

The ships Pacific and Mentor are now ready and wait the orders of government. There report, that the Hon John Quincy Adams sets to return from Washington in a few days, and embark in the ship Pacific for England.—If this is the case, these vessels can fail very soon. Mr. Adams's sudden departure from home was not known to his neighbours.—The call must have been preff. [Ibid.]

Governor Scott has ordered that the detachment from Kentucky, held in readiness the quota of that state of the 100,000 militia, to march in defence of their country at moment's warning, according to the last provision of the President, under the authority of a law of congress, wear a black leather cockade with a white metal button in the centre as a mark of distinction. [American.]

A letter from Havanna, dated the 5th Jan. received via Charleston, mentions the arrival of a Spanish 74 gun ship, with a fleet upwards of 20 sail of merchantmen from Cuba. [N. Y. Gaz.]

The sloop which some persons took from a vessel, in Providence, and endeavoured to run through the ice, got aground, was captured, and sent into Newport. [Boston paper.]

Act of a letter, dated Havannah, Jan. 12, 1809.

At this time, and for sometime past, government seizes and detains all vessels coming in port from any port or place, without having on board the usual or accustomed documents granted by the officers of the nation to which the vessel belongs, for safe conduct on the high seas; and it is general opinion that such vessels as are in port, as well as those which may hereafter arrive under such disability, will be confiscated for the benefit of the state.

General Wilkinson landed at Fort Nelson Saturday last from Annapolis, which place he left on Wednesday last in the schooner, capt. Jones, in which vessel (we learn) immediately proceeds to Charleston, on his way to New-Orleans. On the general's going up the river a federal salute was fired from fort Nelson. [Norfolk paper, Jan. 30.]

EMBARGO.

On Friday last in the House of Representatives of the United States, the question was taken on a day for removing the Embargo, and the first of March agreed to by an immense majority.—Year 73.

We were informed last evening that the Senate, on Monday last, disagreed to the raising the Embargo on the above day—two thirds of that body voting against it.

From a Boston paper of Feb. 2.

The Blockade of our Harbour.

Within a few days past, Col. Boyd, commanding the Castle, received orders from the secretary at war, to interdict all vessels from passing Fort Independence; in consequence of this edict, the acting collector has been placed under the necessity of withholding clearances to every description of vessels.

This aggravated oppression was not generally known till yesterday, when the vessels in the harbour with their colours in black, and hoisted them half mast. The circumstance has created some considerable agitation in the public mind, but to the honour of the town, has been yet unattended with any serious consequences.

We learn from Gloucester, that in consequence of some oppressive acts which were committed against the citizens by the officer of a national gun-boat, stationed at that place, they assembled in a body, and requested the property which had been there unlawfully taken by force. The commander of the boat threatening to shoot one of the inhabitants, was arrested by the civil authority, and compelled to give bail for his appearance at the next session of the judicial court.

Mr. John Quincy Adams is to be the new secretary of war. [N. Y. paper.]

Last evening a detachment of United States troops, consisting of two companies of light artillery, under captains Peters and Irvin; and part of a company of riflemen, under lieut. Armor, embarked at this place for New-Orleans. The men appeared to be in high spirits and under good discipline. [Pittsburg paper, Jan. 26.]

An ACT to alter the time for the next meeting of Congress.

BE it enacted, by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled, That after the adjournment of the present session, the next meeting of congress shall be on the fourth Monday of May next. [Approved and signed, Jan. 30, 1809.]
