

performed for two days, and that many prisoners were taken.

[The preceding London papers, here alluded to, and which contain the account of an Austrian victory in Poland, have not reached us.]

In Germany we learn by advices brought on Saturday by an Austrian messenger who left Heligoland on the 7th inst. that the archduke Charles, so late as the 28th ult. continued on the Regen between Chaim and Stollwang, where he was joined by the divisions of general Klenau and Bellegarde, and the corps of reserve under gen. Norman.

The divisions of generals Hiller, St. Vincent and Kienmayer, had also joined him, and thus augmented the army under the immediate command of the archduke to 160,000 men.

Wurtzburg is reported to have been occupied by a detachment under count Klenau, and it was added that another corps had taken possession of Dresden. We know not what degree of credit to attach to these reports, but hope they will prove correct.

At all events, we trust that Buonaparte will shortly have to repent for his temerity in having advanced so far, leaving in a manner the formidable army of the archduke Charles in his rear, and in this hope we are encouraged by all the private advices received, the safe conveyance. The emperor of Germany, we are happy to find, is not in the least dismayed by the result of the first operations in Bavaria. His imperial majesty has issued a proclamation from Lintz, in which he calls out the second or reserve militia of Austria, intending to place himself at their head.

The Hungarian insurrection army has been assembled at Presburgh, and every measure of his government evinces a determination and energy corresponding with the danger which menaces his throne.

Private advices state, that the insurrection in Hestia, (Jerome Buonaparte's dominions,) has become very formidable. One account says: "Grumberg, Lambach, Mawburg, and some other places, the people had disarmed the military, and hanged several of the government agents charged with the execution of the obnoxious decree. Some squadrons of horse which had been sent to the camp at Hanover, and a division of infantry, which had been ordered to Elze, have been recalled by forced marches. The spirit of discontent is not confined to Hestia, it extends through Hanover and Brunswick, Wetteravia and Thuringia, and only waits a favourable occasion to burst into action. Col. Doenberg, of the Westphalia rangers, directed the malcontents; there are reports of his arrest; but other accounts represent him at the head of a numerous and well organized force."

PHILADELPHIA, JULY 14. We are enabled to state as a positive fact, that an American gentleman in Amsterdam has written to his friend in New-York, to delay his arrival there from Amsterdam, that he had received a letter from general Armstrong, our minister at Paris, advising him to remit his money to England or America without delay, as he (gen. Armstrong) had finally made up his mind to leave France immediately and return to America." [Free. Jour.]

A letter has been received in this city, via Aguirra, dated Cadiz, May 30th, 1809, which confirms the accounts of the Spanish and Austrian success—repeats the evacuation of Catalonia by the French—and says that such was the distress of the French troops in Andalusia, from the plague, that they had solicited relief in medicines from the Spanish government. [Political Reg.]

The citizens of Massachusetts are about to establish a Bible Society in that state, for similar purposes with those already established in Pennsylvania and Connecticut.

The Rev. Mr. Jeremiah Atwater, President of the Middlebury College, in Vermont, a gentleman of distinguished literary talents, elected Principal of the College at Carlisle, Pennsylvania, in the room of the late Rev. Charles Nesbitt.

WINCHESTER, (VA.) JULY 7. Within a few weeks past, a mine has been discovered on the lands of Mr. William Davis, of Frederick county, (Va.) which, from a trial experiment, promises to yield an immense quantity of silver of the purest kind. The writer of this communication has seen two specimens of silver produced from this mine, which is pronounced by competent judges to be as pure metal as any in the world. It is said by the proprietors, that from two pounds four ounces of the ore, they have produced the value of two dollars eighteen and a half cents. From this calculation, it is expected, that every ton of ore, in its natural state, will yield about 1500 dollars. The proprietors expect to be able to melt down about a ton in weight every 24 hours. The bank, it is believed, contains an almost inexhaustible quantity of ore. Mr. Daniel Vansice is the gentleman who has made the chymical experiments, and has become a partner—I this day heard him declare, that he would not take ten thousand dollars in cash for his interest.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 19, 1809.

FROM LISBON.

From the (Phila.) True American of Friday last.

LAST evening arrived Capt. Massit, from Lisbon, which he left on the 6th of June, in company with the ship Paragon, arrived at New-York. He informs that it was reported and confidently believed at Lisbon, that a treaty of alliance was concluded between England and Russia, from whence it is expected that the Russians will take a part against France. It was further said that after the first defeats of the Austrians, Buonaparte advanced towards Vienna, and when within 50 leagues of it, was attacked by the Austrians, who in turn obliged the French to retreat.

Capt. M. further says, that Marshal Wellesley, having incorporated the English and Portuguese troops, by putting them by companies alternately, to make up his regiments, marched to Oporto, and demanded the surrender of the town, which Soult obstinately and peremptorily refused, when Wellesley prepared for an assault, which Soult perceiving, fled from the town and crossed the river on a bridge of boats, which was prepared to be blown up as soon as he had crossed, but by some mistake or accident, fire was put to the train and blew up about 1000 of the rear of the French army, and 500 of the citizens who were taking their flight with them. Soult and the remainder made their escape, as the English could not cross the river for sometime.

When capt. M. left Lisbon, it was said and believed, that there was not a Frenchman in the kingdom of Portugal, but such as were prisoners, the others have fled to Spain as fast as their legs would carry them.—And it was said that the Spaniards were gaining ground every where, both in numbers and in conquests over the French, who were retreating every where, being worn down with fatigue, famine and disease.

London papers to May 20, have been received at Newfoundland; their contents are said to be very favourable to the Austrians.

Arrived at Portland, Maine, on the 6th inst. brig Freedom, capt. Tatem, 20 days from St. Croix. In lat. 23, 19, N. long. 67, 31, W. was boarded by his Britannic majesty's frigate Latona, with the French frigate Felicity, in tow, which they had captured the day before. The force of the two frigates was about equal; but the resistance of the French must have been feeble, as they had only 3 killed, and the Latona, none.

We learn with extreme regret, (says the Connecticut Gazette of Wednesday last,) by a gentleman who left Lebanon on Monday, that his excellency governor Trumbull was so ill as to be despaired of by his physicians.

Instructions have been received by the collector of Norfolk from the Treasury Department to allow the admission of ships of war of Great-Britain and France, as well as all other nations, without restrictions. [Fed. Gaz.]

The Bagging Factory, at Frankfort, (K.) was lately destroyed by fire, with all the spinning apparatus, looms, &c. near 8000 yards of bagging, and about 8 or 10 tons of hemp. It is stated that there is no doubt of its having been burnt by some villainous incendiary.

The captain of the brig Thetis, arrived at N. York, reports that he passed in the Mississippi, a number of vessels from Cuba, bound to Orleans—having 3000 passengers; slaves not permitted to be landed.

On the 25th ult. a flock of sheep, 47 in number, were killed by lightning on the farm of colonel Robert Prebles, near Shippensburg, Pennsylvania.

Count Rumford has recently married the widow of M. Fercey in Paris, by which nuptial experiment he obtained a fortune of 8000l. per annum. This is evidently the most effective of all the Rumfordizing projects for keeping a house warm.

A Gold Mine has been discovered at Pafamaquoddy. A lump of native gold, weighing upwards of 14½ ounces troy, found by a little boy on Soward's Neck Beach, has been taken to the mint and assayed, its quality is more than 22 carats, which is the standard of the gold coins of the United States and Great-Britain. [Fed. Gaz.]

On Tuesday the 7th ult. the first piece of Artillery, a six pounder, was cast at the Virginia Manufactory of Arms, and was used to announce the anniversary of American Independence. The machine for the making of Cannon has been prepared and put up under the inspection of Mr. Fox, of George-town. It is said to be excellent and ingenious.—Mr. Fox is to receive five thousand dollars from the state for his services.

Appointment by the President.

Thomas English, of Philadelphia, to be consul of the United States, at Dublin, vice J. Wilson, deceased.

A curious Fact in Natural History.

Mr. James Kerr, of the neighbourhood of Chambersburg, (Penn.) lately discovered in the heart of an oak tree he was splitting up to make shingles of, a live frog! From the growths of the tree, around the small cavity which contained this little animal, it is evident that it had remained there confined, without the possibility of receiving either air or food, for ninety-two years! The tree shewed no signs of decay, except that the cavity, (which was barely sufficient to contain its prisoner,) was somewhat the colour of the frog. When first taken out it appeared to be dead, but in a short time gave signs of life and hopped. [Am. Daily Adv.]

At a meeting of the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania, on Monday, July 10, 1809, John Redman Coxe, M. D. was appointed the Professor of Chymistry in that University in the place of Dr. James Woodhouse, deceased.

A Petersburg (Russia) article, copied into the Journal du Soir, narrates an event which strikes the soul with horror and bids humanity weep: Three persons, who had been exiled into Siberia for supposed or actual crimes, went out one day a hunting and lost their way, inasmuch that they could not discover any traces of a human dwelling. Famine, that unrelenting and cruel scourge of animated nature, impelled the three, a father, his son, and a father of a family, to cast lots whose frame should furnish subsistence to the survivors, which was done. After the first victim was consumed, they cast lots a second time, and the son was the only survivor. He was found by some hunters to whom he accidentally related the horrid detail. The government of Siberia sent him to Petersburg to give an account of this singular and distressing narrative. Xe

A serious accident took place in Baltimore a few days since. A gentleman of that city purchased at a bottling cellar a couple of bottles of cider, took them home himself, and used them in his family. A few minutes after, he, his wife, brother, and others, who had partaken of the cider, were all taken extremely ill, and seized with violent fits of vomiting, and then purging, which nothing for a time could stop. A physician being called in, and the cider suspected, he broke the bottles, and found in their bottom a thick, close adhering sediment of Arsenic. The owner of the bottling cellar being informed of what had happened, expressed the greatest regret, and supposed he had purchased the bottles of an apothecary, as he was in the habit of doing others in the same line of business, of buying from whoever would sell. This ought to be a caution for the future against purchasing bottles that have been used for any medical purpose whatever.

DIED, in England, Lord Dunmore, formerly governor of Virginia.

—, in Philadelphia, on the 30th ult. in the hundred and ninth year of her age, Susanna Warder, formerly the wife of Virgil Warder, who was one of the house servants of William Penn, proprietor of Pennsylvania.

This aged black woman, (a daughter of one of his cooks,) was born at his mansion-house, in Pennsbury Manor, in March, 1701, being the same in which he left the province on his return to England.

At that time, Philadelphia, now the largest city in the United States, was a wilderness, the inhabitants of which were chiefly Indians, of the Delaware and other tribes.

Sufanna was tall and stait in her person, graceful in all her deportments, agreeable in her manners, and temperate in her speech and mode of living.

Her memory was good, and her sight, which improved towards the close of her life, remarkably clear; but of late time she became hard of hearing.

The Penn family, respecting her faithful services in the time of her youth, allowed an annual sum to support her comfortably, when she was not able to work, to the end of her days.
