

POET'S CORNER.

SELECTED.

TIME.—A POEM.

BY SELICK OSBORN.

Mov'd by a strange mysterious power,
Who hastes along the rapid hour,
I touch the deep-ton'd string;
E'en now I saw his wither'd face
Beneath yon Tower's mouldering base,
Where mossy vestments cling.

Dark roll'd his cheerless eye around;
Severe his grisly visage frown'd,
No locks his head array'd;
He grasp'd a Hero's antique bust—
The marble crumbled ino dust,
And sunk amidst the shade!

Malignant triumph fill'd his eyes—
"See, hapless mortals, see," he cries,
"How vain your idle schemes;
"Beneath my grasp the fairest form
"Dissolves and mingles with the storm,
"Thus vanish mortal dreams.

"The works of God and man I spoil,
"The noblest proofs of human toil
"I treat as childish toys;
"I crush the noble and the brave,
"Beauty I mar—and in the grave
"I bury human joys!"

Hold, ruthless Phantom! hold! I cry'd—
If thou canst mock the dreams of pride,
And meaneer hopes devour;
Virtue beyond thy reach shall bloom,
When other charms sink to the tomb;
She scorns thy envious power.

On frosty wings the Demon sped,
Howling, as o'er the walls he sped,
"Another year has gone!"
The ruin'd spire, the crumbling tower,
Nodding obey'd his awful power,
As Time flew swiftly on.

Since Beauty then to Time must bow,
And Age deform the fairest brow,
Let brighter charms be yours;
The female mind embalm'd in truth,
Shall bloom in everlasting youth,
While Time himself endures.

SKETCH FROM NATURE.

CALLING the other day to see a friend, I found that during my absence he had been made happy by the birth of a son, the first child which his lovely partner had blessed him. With an honest ardour he insisted on introducing me to the apartment of his wife. The laws of custom gave way to the desire of friendship, and I attended him. With pensive look and downcast eye the tender mother sat smiling upon the Babe; her cheek had lost its wonted dye; but upon seeing me it was tinged with a momentary flush—what interesting softness! A most enchanting languor hung upon her frame; the tear of tenderness shone in her eye while still she smiled on her babe. As the father entered the room he stole a glance towards his treasure; he thought himself unnoticed—it was the look of love and tenderness ineffable—it was all the feeling mind can possibly conceive. She chid him for bringing me to witness her situation—it was the chiding of love—he answered with a kiss. Imagination brought this scene home to me; I before felt that purest of pleasures which proceeds from seeing others happy; but when ELIZA'S image, (which is always with me,) was viewed in this light, I was lost, and 'ere I was aware, I found the most generous tear that flowed from the source of sensibility, trickling down my cheek.

Such is the inexpressible pleasure which a sympathetic mind derives from mutual love.

FRENCH GALLANTRY.

A Paris paper says that the Archduchess Maria Louisa had a little dog and a bird, which she had brought up herself.—Her room was ornamented with tapestry of a plain but elegant pattern. On leaving Vienna she bid adieu to her little dog, her bird, and her favourite apartment, and appeared much affected. Immediately after her departure, the Duke of Neufchatel took care to have the little dog, the bird, and the tapestry, removed, with great expedition and secrecy, to Paris, so that upon her arrival in that city, she was shewn into a room which seemed exactly the same as that she had left at Vienna.

NEGRO AQUILA.

RAN AWAY from the subscriber, living on Elk Ridge, in Anne-Arundel county, State of Maryland, on the 7th of July, 1810, a very dark mulatto man, named AQUILA, about 24 years of age, six feet high, thin faced and small eyes, spare make, had short wool, floops a little, speaks slow and tolerably plain, his voice rather flat. Had on when he went away, a ticklenbury shirt and trousers, a pair of double sole shoes, nailed and much worn, a white half worn, one white woollen coat, worn plain and soiled, half worn; I make no doubt but that he has other cloaths, and will change his name, as he is an artful villain I purchased said negro at the sale of Richard Marriott, deceased, who lived in the neighbourhood of the Indian Landing, have understood that he has been seen going into that neighbourhood. I will give the above reward to any person bringing or securing said fellow in any goal, so that I get him again, including what the law allows, out of this state, or Twenty-five Dollars taken any where within this state, so that get him again, paid by N. B. All masters of vessels, and other are forewarned harbouring or carrying off said negro at their peril, as they will be dealt with according to law.

Twenty Dollars Reward.

ABSCONDED from the subscriber, on yesterday morning, a negro man named SALOMON RONGERS, 22 years old, 5 feet 8 9 inches high, black smooth skin, fine set teeth, and round face; had on when he went away a blue cloth coat, thin cotton waistcoat and dimity trousers, a tolerable good hat, a shoes and stockings; he also took other cloath with him that are not recollected. I am informed he went up to Baltimore in one of the Annapolis packets. He has two brothers living in Baltimore, who call themselves James and John Richardson, they are men, the former is employed in a furn yard, and the latter as waiter to some gentleman in the city. Solomon is also well acquainted with a free black man named F. Williams, who keeps a dray, and with the family of a mulatto man named Jerry Wa with some or other of these people I am certain he may be found. I am inclined to believe that when interrogated he will say that I gave him permission to look out for another master, but the fact is not so, he went entirely without my knowledge or consent. And I will give the above reward to any person who will apprehend and lodge him in Baltimore goal, so that I get him again, all legal expenses if brought home.
