NORFOLK, FEB. 27.
A friend has examined our Lisbon papers lived by the Norfolk, captain Seaward, which we noticed in our last, and informs us their contents are not interesting to American readers. They are principally occuied with official acts of Government, and resses to the armies.
The few articles which these papers contain may be embraced in the following short mary.

In Catalonia, the Marquis Campoverde Spanish Commander, had been attacked M'Donald; the French were routed and ged into the mountains. There had been eral minor affairs, between detachments the two armies, in which the Patriots succeeded in repelling their invaders.
The Spanish army on the frontiers of Mu-and Andalusia, were attacked in its posion on the 3d of November, and after a obstinate conflict, succeeded in main-ing them. On the 7th the French fer-an attack, retreated with precipitaion.

In Estramadura, the Spanish General Belleros, continued in the vicinity of Le-ga, and in some partial actions with the mb had gained advantages.
The department of Occana in New-Castile been entirely evacuated by the French, that province while occupied by the rench, and others, which they occupied, were constant y harassed, and their for-g parties and convoys cut off.

of New-York (the north part of Pennsylv-nia, the States of Kentucky and Ohio, and the territories of Michigan and Indiana will be supplied with goods through this channel; and in return will send off the surplus produce of those countries, which are now of little value to them.—The country being favourable for raising almost all kinds of Grain, Cattle, Hemp Flax, &c. great quantities of the produce of these fertile countries will find its way to the New-York Market.
All the great leading waters which head near to the Lake will be improved; and the several portages situate between the waters, which fall to the south and into the Lakes, will be turned, when once the Canal is begun, and a reasonable prospect of being completed.
The principal rivers that head near to the great Lakes which are now much in use are the Alleghany, French Creek, Muskingum, Scioto, Miami, Wabash, and the Illinois; the latter leading near to the fourth end of Lake Michigan will be the most natural route into the Mississippi, by way of the Lakes, to supply that extensive country with goods.— Through this channel also, great quantities of fur and skins will be taken to the New-York Market. Upper Canada also, being settled principally from the Eastern States, will prefer to trade with their countrymen, and will vend a great portion of their produce by way of this Canal. When once this water communication is completed, it will be the great chain which will unite the western inhabitants with their brethren in the Atlantic States, who will have but one common interest; and it will give a spring to industry and enterprise heretofore unknown by our western inhabitants, far beyond what we at present can conceive of.

As the tract of country now contemplated for a canal is far the most practicable that can be found in the U. States to connect the western with the Atlantic waters, we may cherish the hope, that there will be but one sentiment on the subject, that when the plan is laid before your state legislature, or before the congress of the U. S. local prejudices will not be suffered to rise for the delaying or embarrassing a work of such great national importance."

PROPOSALS
BY JONAS GREEN & GEORGE SHAW, For Publishing, & Subscription,
A MUCH ADMIR'D WORK, ENTITLED,
AN ESTIMATE
OF THE RELIGION OF THE FASHION-ABLE WORLD.

THIS much admired tract is reported to be the production of the celebrated Hannah Moore, of whose zeal for religion, and ability to explain and enforce its doctrines her avowed works furnish an undeniable proof. It is not designed as an answer to the cavils and sneers of the infidel, but being addressed to those who profess to be, and may have persuaded themselves that they are, christians, displays with admirable beauty of language & force of argument the essential distinction between the mere profession and the systematic practice of christianity—between that system of mere moral duties, those "barren generalities," to which we are wont to pay our homage, and that comprehensive system of faith and doctrine which was revealed by the blessed Redeemer of man, and every part of which we, as his disciples, are equally bound to embrace and observe. This publication commences with a view of the present state of religion among a considerable part of the fashionable world, and contrasts the notions so prevalent in this "our day," with the opinions and practices of purer ages of christianity, when religion, such as it taught in the gospel, was the study, the delight and practice of christians of every order of society; and when to expound its doctrines, to sofer its truths, and to animate to its observance, was not deemed to be exclusively the business of the professed divine, but was the pleasing employment of the man of letters, the statesman, the civilian and the accomplished gentleman. It proceeds to unfold, as well the causes as the consequences of the present decline of vital religion, the lamentable blindness and error of those who profess to be of the disciples of Jesus, and yet "would be wise above what is written, of those who would make a religion for themselves and in so momentous a concern would set up a standard of right and wrong of their own formation," instead of accepting with humility that divine standard which has been set up for them. It teaches to avoid alike the dangerous extremes of too much reliance upon the forms and ordinances of religion, and an utter disregard of them, and will turn us with an answer to those who would exalt morality at the expense of religion, and would make the whole substance of the latter to consist in a punctual discharge of our social obligations, and perhaps now and then, an ostentatious display of our liberality; it will not endure that a right faith will furnish an apology for a vicious life, nor admit that a christian life can grow upon a wrong faith. It declares that christianity must be embraced entirely if it is received at all, it must be taken without mutilation as a perfect scheme in the way in which God has been pleased to reveal it. There is no breaking this system into parts, of which we are at liberty to chuse one and reject another. There is no separating the evidences from the doctrines—the doctrines from the precepts—believe from obedience—morality from piety—the love of our neighbour from the love of God.
