

MARYLAND GAZETTE.

[LXVIII YEAR.]

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 27, 1811.

[No. 3349]

An application to me, the subscriber, in the records of Anne Arundel county court, as one of the associate judges of the third judicial district of Maryland, by petition, in writing, of Dennis Iglehart, of Anne Arundel county, praying for the relief of sundry insolvent debtors, and the several supplements thereto, and a schedule of his property, and a list of his creditors, in order to ascertain them, being annexed to his petition, and the said Dennis Iglehart being satisfied by competent testimony that he is now in actual confinement for debt, and prayed to be discharged from said confinement on the terms prescribed by said acts, I do therefore hereby order and adjudge, that the said William Applebee, be discharged from his confinement, and that by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in the Maryland Gazette three months successively, before the fourteenth day of April next, he give notice to his creditors to appear before the county court of said county, at ten o'clock in the morning of the third Monday of April next, to shew cause why the said William Applebee should not have the benefit of the several acts of assembly of this State for the relief of insolvent debtors, as prayed.

Given under my hand this 23d day of August, 1810.

PROPOSALS
FOR PUBLISHING, BY SUBSCRIPTION,
A MUCH ADMIR'D WORK, ENTITLED,
AN ESTIMATE
OF THE RELIGION OF THE FASHION-ABLE WORLD.

THIS much admired tract is reputed to be the production of the celebrated Hannah Moore, of an ardent zeal for religion, and ability to explain and vindicate its doctrines, her avowed works furnish an enviable proof. It is not designed as an answer to those who profess to be, and may have fancied themselves to be, christians, distinguished by the beauty of language & force of argument the essential distinction between the mere profession and the systematic practice of christianity, between that system of mere moral duties, the "harmless generalities," to which we are apt to pay our homage, and that comprehensive system of faith and doctrine which was revealed by the blessed Redeemer of man, and every part of which we, as his disciples, are equally bound to believe and observe. This publication commences a view of the present state of religion among the fashionable part of the fashionable world, and traces the notions so prevalent in this "our age" with the opinions and practices of purer ages of christianity, when religion, such as it is in the gospel, was the study, the delight, the practice, of christians of every order of society, and when to expound its doctrines, to affirm its truths, and to animate to its observance, was not deemed to be exclusively the business of the professed divine, but was the pleasing employment of the man of letters, the statesman, the civil and the accomplished gentleman. It details to unfold, as well the causes as the consequences of the present decline of vital religion, & lamentable blindness and error of those who profess to be the disciples of Jesus, and yet would be wiser above what is written, of those who would make a religion for themselves and so momentous a concern would set up a standard of right and wrong of their own formation, and of accepting with humility that divine standard which has been set up for them. It teaches to avoid alike the dangerous extremes of too much laxity upon the forms and ordinances of religion, and an utter disregard of them, and will furnish us with an answer to those who would exult in the expense of religion, and would brags the whole substance of the latter to consist in a punctilious discharge of our social obligations, perhaps now and then, an ostentatious display of liberality; it will not endure that a right religion will furnish an apology for a vicious life, nor that a christian life can grow upon a wrong religion. It declares that christianity must be confessed entirely if it be received at all, it must be taken without mutilation as a perfect scheme in which we are at liberty to chuse one and reject another. There is no separating the evidences from the doctrines—the doctrines from the precepts—the love from obedience—morality from piety—the love from the neighbour from the love of God.

CONDITIONS
This work shall be printed in 1 vol. on a paper with good type—miniature edition. It shall be put to press as soon as practicable. The price shall not exceed seventy-five cents.
