FOREIGN.

By an arrival at New-York.

LONDON, JUNE 15.

On Monday a deputation of merchants from all the principal towns connected with West-India produce, waited on Mr. Percival and presented a representation of the lamentable state of the trade, and of the inevitable consequences of the total want of a market. They were with Mr. Percival about two hours.

A gentleman who had just visited the principal manufacturing towns in Yorkshire and Lancashire, describes the distress of the lower classes of people, from want of employment, as extreme beyond all conception or example.

Mr. Smith, the American charge d'affaires, waited upon the Marquis Wellesley at two o'clock, and had an interview of some continuance. The question of the orders in council formed the subject of the conference, but the result has not transpired.

JUNE 20.

Art of Flying.

The art of rising and moving in the air, by means of wings, continues to engage the attention of a number of persons in Germany. At Vienna, the watchmaker Degen, aided by a liberal subscription, is occupied in perfecting his discovery. He has recently taken several public flights in the Preter. At Berlin, Claudius, a wealthy manufacturer of oil cloth, is engaged in like pursuits; he rises in the air without difficulty, and can move in a direct line, at the rate of four miles an hour; but his wings are unwieldy, and he cannot turn round in them. At Ulm, a tailor, named Berblinger, announced, on the 24th of April, that he had after great sacrifice of money, labour and time, invented a machine, in which he would on the 12th of May rise in the air and fly 12 miles.

JUNE 24.

The following bulletin of the state of his majesty's health was yesterday exhibited at St. James:

"Windsor Castle, June 23.
His majesty continues as well as he was last week."

[Signed as usual.]

The Moniteur of the 19th has the following note on the assertion of Mr. Percival, in parliament, that for six months the French army in Portugal has received no pay:

"The English believe that France is unable to pay her armies because it has been said the army in Portugal received no pay for six months."

"This has been the case, because it was not thought proper to send the money intended for this purpose through Portugal; and besides it could have answered no end. But 10,000,000 were reserved at Valladolid for this object."

"Such, however, are the elements of the calculations of the English government."

A vessel arrived on Saturday from the coast of Holland. The passengers state, that the prohibitory system continues to be rigorously enforced, and that fresh failures are daily taking place among the most respectable commercial firms.

Paris, June 18.

His majesty the king of Spain has set out on his return to his dominions.

June 8.

Their majesties arrived at the Thuilleries this evening, as well as the king of Rome. At 6 P. M. the cannon fired to announce tomorrow's fête.

To-morrow is a rejoicing day to all France, and all the towns of the empire will vie with each other in celebrating the baptism of the king of Rome. Edifices and monuments are every where building to perpetuate the remembrance of this great day. The bishops have published circular letters to invite the people to pray to God for blessings on the infant. Every where young girls receive marriage portions with soldiers distinguished for their bravery. Games will take place, horse races, foot races, &c. The shipping will be decorated, and bells and cannon will be heard all day.

Heligoland, July 21.

† Latterly we have had two or three arrivals from the adjacent rivers, by which Hamburg papers to the 11th inst. have been received. These mention that all the Danish troops have been called out, and ordered to hold themselves in readiness to march at the shortest notice. From this it would appear that Denmark intends to take an active part in the expected change of parties in the north of Europe, but whether, in case of a rupture between

France and Russia, she may join the former or the latter power, is not certainly known; conjecture, however, and the opinion of persons who have been in Holstein, give reason to think she will become the ally of the latter.

His Majesty's ship Horatio, Lord George Stuart, commander, sailed two days ago, with the greater part of the squadron stationed here, again to attempt an attack, if possible, on the enemy's flotilla, consisting of nine sail of sloops of war and gun-boats, which are stationed in the coasts between the islands, and the main land, near the mouth of the river Ems. A number of vessels of this description are also lying in the Elbe, Weser, and Jaldie; principally, it would appear, for the purpose of preventing all communication with this island. Almost all the Danish gun-boats stationed in the Eyde, Elbe, &c. have been sent to the Baltic through the Holstein canal.

Numbers of persons suspected of having had correspondence with a British port continue to be arrested on the opposite coasts, and are generally marched off to Hamburg, to be tried by Davoust, the gov. gen. of the Hanseatic towns. Several have been sentenced to be shot.

His majesty Gustavus Adolphus, still remains in the island, in private lodgings.

Hamburg, June 11.

The baptism of the king of Rome was celebrated here with so lively and universal joy, that it was difficult to suppose it more profoundly felt by any other town of the grand empire. No accident interrupted the pleasure of the day, and thanks to the wife measures of the authorities, order prevailed every where.

Vienna, June 7.

As the introduction of cotton into France, from the Levant is to cease on the 1st of July, the transports through this city have ceased. They write from Turkey, that it appears the harvest of cotton will be extremely productive this year. This intelligence has caused the price of cotton to fall.

Banks of the Danube, June 9.

The greatest activity prevails at this moment at Trieste. The merchants feel the immense advantages ensured to them by the imperial decrees relative to cotton and other merchandise from the Levant. Dispositions have already been taken by the French consuls and commissioners, to prevent the conveyance of goods by Macedonia and Bosnia from receiving any damage or delay. The merchandise is conveyed upon horses and by caravans. Many French and Italian merchants have established counting houses at Trieste; several Greek houses have also been established there, where, for the future, they will find more favourable opportunities for continuing their commerce; because these houses speculate exclusively in goods from the Levant. It is even probable, that those who hitherto have conducted the interests of the French, Italian and German houses in their bargains for cotton, will successively remove to Trieste, where they may profitably employ themselves in that branch of commerce which they have chosen.

[Moniteur, June 19.]

Constantinople, May 10.

According to intelligence from Schumla dated 28th April, the grand vizier had some days before hoisted the horses tails, which is the signal of the order given for the troops to march from their winter-quarters, and join the camp. The army immediately under his command will daily receive reinforcements from the Romelia and Narrolis. His principal force will nevertheless consist in troops from Romelia whose constancy can be depended upon with some security.

The detachments of Russian troops, which were posted upon the right bank of the Danube, continue to pass by degrees to the left side. They destroyed Nicopolis previous to quitting it. There is still in Sillifria, a Russian garrison of 1200 men. Those which remain at Rudschuck for the defence of that fortress, and maintain the communication with Guirgwo on the opposite bank are estimated at about 5000 men. Gen. Sals has his head-quarters at Crajova. It appears that the environs of Widden are free, and in general we now observe the greatest silence relative to the Servians.

The fleet destined for the Black Sea has begun to go out of the bay of Bujukderr, and it is believed that the captain Pacha will shortly sail with the other ships of war which are to form a part of it.
