BICHMOND, DEC. 27. I have a tale of horror to tell; prepare to ear of the most awful calamity that ever langed a whole city into affliction. Yes, Richmond is in tears : children have loft heir parents, parents have lost their children. efferday a beloved daughter gladdened my eart with her innocent smiles; to-day she yes, it has pleased Almighty God take her from me. O! sir, seel for me, and for me only ; arm yourself with forti-telling you that you have to feel also for Yes, for it mutt be told, you also re the father of an amiable daughter, now te my beloved child, gone to join her moer in Heaven.

How can words reprefent what one night, bour of unutterable horror, has done to trahelm a hundred families with grief and pair. No, sir, impossible. My eyes held last night what no tongue, no pen can cribe-horrors that language has no terms teprefent.

Lat night we were all at the theatre ; ery family in Richmond, or, at least, a very representation of them, was there—the see was uncommonly full—when, dreadful mlate, the scenery took fire, spread rapid-above, ascending in volumes of flame and cke into the upper part of the building, bence a moment after it descended to force affage through the pit and boxes. In two autes the whole audience were enveloped but, fcorching fmoke and flame. The his were all extinguished by the black and flowhering vapor; tries, shricks, confund and despair succeeded.
