THE LXIXth Year.

REPORT

Of the Committee appointed to inquire into the causes and extent of the late commotions in Baltimore.

(Concluded from our last.)

My dear Sir— I have nothing but business to give you from this quarter as to our plan. John H. Thomas I have seen, and express much regret at being obliged to go to Virginia to-morrow or next day with his wife, who he says is very sick. He read me a letter from Col. Lynn, from which I am very much inclined to think Lynn will be with you, as he has pressing engagements at home. Robert M'Pherson I am told, is sick, and Sprigg has engaged no other. The plan is here public, and I believe Geo. B. and others have named the very day for execution. When the scheme was first mentioned to me, I stated my objections to it, believe to you as well as to others. The very same reasons which I urged against it, Cobb and Kilgour on Sunday, my brother-in-law urged to me here, enforced by others, which on the whole I have thought irresistible. I presume none have entered into the plan supposing for a moment that there could be any danger after the battle was over; upon conversing with my brother, he became clearly of opinion, that to fire on the affluents before other means of putting them out of the house have been used, would be unlawful and subject us to the punishment of law. Thus in protecting the laws, we should be violating them. To wait until they should have entered would not do, because the numbers would overpower us; nor do I consider this as a part of the plan developed to our bodies with a democratic judge to direct democratic jury, as to the law, he confided in conviction of murder as far more than probable.

I consider myself to have been engaged in the risk in the battle only, and nothing good this. I consider you to be acting in the same purpose, and therefore hope you will take the advice of Harper, and of those in whom you most confide. This I ask your own sake, and of those friends who have not taken the same view of the subject as I have. My opinion is formed upon authorities that I have looked into with my own eyes, and if such were not my opinion would not act contrary to his. Under the circumstances, I have concluded not to go to Baltimore, as I could not act in full plan. I hope you yourself will take a full view of the subject. If the mob should pull down the pews in George-town, mayor or the magistrates may and will induce to do their duty. We shall then under the authority of the law, and the feelings of the people will go along with us; this will seem too much like a plan to provoke an attack, that we may take into our own hands the sword of justice, and you know that this the law will not allow.

With respect, Sc. &c. Your obedient servant, A TANEY Frederick-Town, July 24.

Frederick-Town, July 24, 1812. Sir—It was my intention to have myself the pleasure of calling on you a few days since at the Court House, but was prevented by indisposition. I know the manner in which you have been treated. If I be of any service to you at any time you command me. I will lose my life for you. OTHO H. W. LUCKETT A. C. Hanson, Esq. Montgomery Court Houle, Md.

(NO DATE.) George-Town, Thursday Morning Dear Sir—The day before yesterday I gave you a rough sketch of part of the observations for the first paper. Having no letter from Mr. Allison, and none of the apparatus having arrived, I wrote to him to send on people and come himself. I expect his day. I had made an arrangement with you to print the paper, if we should be reduced to the necessity of resorting to any other face than our own. But last evening he manifested his retraction of the accommodation; assigning as a reason, that the matter, in whose buildings the office is, was fearful it might injure him at the press. I suppose the true reason to be, that as it is a very timid man and holds the situation of a clerk in the Bank of Columbia, afraid of meeting the displeasure of Malton. Still he offers every facility by his types and hands, and loaning a press to be taken down and used elsewhere. From I can learn, a wonderful apathy prevails among the Federalists respecting the Federal Republican, and some have contracted aversion to its publication, left they were involved in inconvenience or broils. The state of things radically different from what was impressed on me ever before.
