PROPOSALS

For publishing in the City of Baltimore, A NEWSPAPER,

TO BE ENTITLED, THE Baltimore Correspondent,

AND Merchants, Manufacturers & Mechanics DAILY ADVERTISER.

BY THOMAS HOWARD HILL, PRINTER.

The proposed paper will be published daily (at noon) in order to circulate the earliest intelligence which may be received by the mails.

It is proper that the intended editor should declare his intentions as to the manner in which he means to conduct the publication of "The Baltimore Correspondent."

He pledges himself that it shall be held abstract from all party, and be conducted upon the most impartial principles—that it shall comprize the following articles, viz: all foreign and domestic news of the day; a regular detail of naval and military events; a correct and regular journal of the proceedings of the national legislature as also those of the different states, and all documents that may be submitted to them for consideration.

And in the absence of the above general named intelligence, he will insert useful notices of the progress of commerce, (internal and external,) of manufactures, and of mechanics, as indeed it is solely devoted to their advancement.

A price current (corrected weekly) will be inserted upon the most convenient day.

The utility of such a newspaper at the present time is most certainly obvious to those acquainted with the time of the arrival of the great mail; and as it is the wish of the editor to make the contemplated paper as useful as possible, he promises to use his utmost exertions in collecting intelligence that may be useful and interesting to those who may favor him with their support.

TERMS.

"The Baltimore Correspondent" will be printed on a half sheet super royal, at five dollars per annum, payable half yearly in advance—the paper for the country at three dollars in advance.

Advertisements to be inserted on the usual terms unless otherwise contracted for by the year.

Arrangements are now making to anticipate news by letter. January 12, 1814.

20 Dollars Reward.

Ran away from the subscriber, on Tuesday the 4th inst a negro man by the name of CHARLES, formerly the property of Mr. Gassaway Revington. He is a stout able fellow, about 30 years of age, 5 feet 10 or 11 inches high, withers very much when talking, he has a wife at Mr. William Stewart's quarters, Fingalt. His clothing when he went off was a round over jacket, made of green half thick, given to him this fall, a spotted swan-down under jacket much worn, white filled country cloth trousers, a good deal mended, coarse shoes & yarn stockings, a white hat with a broad brim; as he has other clothing he may change to suit his purpose. Charles is an old offender; in the life time of his former master, he often took these trips, and when any got acquainted on Elk-Ridge & Baltimore, he was taken up some years ago and confined in Frederick goal; he has a brother in George Town, living with Mr. Thomas Gantt. It is supposed he may endeavor to get to some of the above places, and pass as a free man. Whoever takes up the said negro, and delivers him to me, or compels him to any goal so that I get him again, shall receive the above reward. All persons are forbid harbouring the said fellow at their parish.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT

WASHINGTON, March

To give you an adequate description of Col. Pickering's Speech on the loan bill, would require the talent of an orator and painter combined. Imagine to yourself a bled hoary headed patriot, carries upon his brow the statue three score years and ten—on a pith and marrow of whose life has been spent in the service of country—one whom Washington lighted to honor—who sat in council with our great political fathers and deliberated with him upon the fittest measures to prolong the tenure and promote the prosperity of our infant Republic; imagine yourself such a man lifting up his warning voice as it were from the midst of the disastrous measures against the disastrous measure of destructive policy of the present administration, and you will have some faint idea of the effect produced by Col. Pickering's speech. It certainly has not failed to produce an effect, but I fear an angel from heaven could not produce conversion. It is truly melancholy and distressing to see such a man as Colonel Pickering, in whom we see Athenian and Roman patriotism combined, whose character is invulnerable, the envenomed shafts of calumny contending in vain against the motives of the ruin of our country. How deep must be the infatuation of the people, who write under the quill of such empirics, and still continue their confidence in opposition to the warning voice of such men as Pickering, who conducted our affairs in our days of prosperity & who dictated the consequences of a day of men and measures.

The Post Master General's dissent from his appointment of Mr. Letts.

General Post Office, Feb. 10. JOHN TODD, Esq.

My dear friend,

I reached this city on New-York after a fever which defeated my strength and was overcome by the strength of my constitution only. There is every reason to hope for a permanent recovery of my health; an event which I know would be particularly interesting to you, whom I rank among my friends. Since that period I have received from Harrisburg, the papers subscribed by the officers of your government, and by the members of your legislature, and others I find your name, recommending for Post Master in the Philadelphia, Richard Bachman. Of this gentleman's ability, industry, and capacity to discharge the duties of the office satisfactorily, I have not the least doubt. He is recommended generally by your respectable citizens, our country, and your district attorney have passed him and appointed Hon. Michael Leib to that office. As I entertain the highest respect for your members of congress, your legislature, and the officers of your government, and for the gentlemen referred to, I feel it my duty to explain my conduct; to give you the following view and statement of the reasons. On the 4th of January I received news of the death of Patton, together with the applications for the office. I received a wish that I would be appointed until a fair opportunity would be given for the dates to make good their pretensions. On the morning of the 5th, the morning of Philadelphia, I received the recommendation of members of congress, and I remarked that I would give it special consideration; that citizens had applied to (for) the office, and wished time. The day was too feeble to visit my office.
