RETALIATION.

Before government alls finally upon this important subject, it is presumed that it will consult the usage and understanding of other nations. We have thought it would not be unacceptable to our readers, to show what would happen, if we were at war with France, and Ffenchmen were found in our army or navy. The decree and extract which followspare copied from French official

Palace of Trianon, August 23, 1813 Napoleon by the grace of God. and the Constitution, Emperor of the French, &c. to all present and to come, greeting :

Different questions having been submitted to us with regard to the conditions of Frenchmen established in foreign countries, we have thought it right to make known our intentions on that subject.

By our decree of the 5th April, 1809,* we have already pronounced with regard to such Frenchmen as have borne arms against their country; and those who residing with a power with whom we go to war, do not quit its territory; or who being summoned by us, do not obey that order.

But no law has been yet laid down either with regard to French men naturalized in foreign countries, with or without our authority, or with regard to such as may have already entered, or choose to enter in future, into the service of a foreign

And as it is not our wish to con found those of our subjects who are induced from legitimate motives to naturalize themselves abroad with these whose conduct will assume the character of felony, we have resolved by these presents, to complete and make known this important branch of legislation.

For these reasons, on the report of our Grand ludge, Minister of Justice and our council of state, being heard

We have decreed and ordered, & do decree and order as follows:

Titie I. Of Frenchmen naturalized abroad with our permission. Art. 1. No Frenchman can be na-suralized without our authority. 2. Our permission shall be granted by letters patent, drawn by our grand judge, signed with our hand, countersigned by our secretary of state inspected by our consin, the prince arch-chanceitor, inserted in the buffetin of laws and registered in the imperial court of the last place of domicile of the person to whom they relate.

3. Frenchmen thus naturalized a broad shall enjoy the right or possessing, or transmitting, and or succeeding to property even when the subjects of the countries where they shall be naturalized, do not enjoy those rights in France.

The children of a Frenchman born in the country where he is naturalized are aliens.

5 Frenchmen naturalized abroad, even with our permission, can at no time carry arms against France under pain of being indicted in our courts, and condemned to the punishment enacted in the penal code, book 3d, chap. 75.

Title II. Of Frenchmen naturalized abroad without our permission. 6. Every Frenchman naturalized abroad without permission, shall incur the loss of his property, which shall be confiscated—he shall no longer enjoy the right of succession, and all the succession falling unto him shall pass to the next heir, provided he is domiciliated in France. By the 7th, 8th, 9th and 10th, it is provided that by a process insti-tuted in the Courts of Justice, such persons shall lose their titles, if they have any, together with their property attached to them, which shali devolve to their nearest heir, being French, the rights of the wife being secured, which shall be regu-

II. Those who are naturalized abroad without permission, and against whom the above process has lated as in the case of widowhood.

*Extract from the decree of the 5th April, 1809 .- 1. All Frenchmen who have carried arms, against France since September 1, 1894, are declared to have incurred the punishment of death. 2. Frenchmen in the service of any Toreign, power, are to quit such service the instant hostilitles arise between that power and France. 3. All French men recalled by this or former decrees, and spntinuing refractory and disobedient, are declared to have suffered civil death, and their extares & effects are to be confiscated.

taken place, if found in the tarrier of the Empire, shall or the first time, be arrested and conducted beyond the frontiers; it they return they shall be condemned to a period of imprisonment not less than a year nor more than ten years:

Trrpx Itt. On individuals alread dy naturalized abroad.

12. Individuals naturalized abroad at the period of the publication of the decree, may within a year, if on the Continent of Europe; within three years, if beyond that Conti-nents within five years, if beyond the Cape of Good Hope, and in the Indies, obtain our confirmation according to the forms prescribed in the present decree.

TITLE IV. Of Frenchmen in the service of a Foreign Power.

13. No Frenchman can enter the service of a Foreign Power, without a special permission, and except under condition of returning, should we recal him either by a general proclamation or a direct order,

14. Those of our subjects who shall have obtained this permission cannot take the oaths to the power which they serve, without proviso of never bearing arms against France and of quiting the service even without being recalled, should that power happen to go to war with us.

15. The permission of entering the service of a foreign power shall be granted by letters patent according to the forms presented in article se-

16. They cannot act as ministers plenipotentiary in any treaty where our interests come into discussion.

17. They must not wear a foreign cockade in countries in subjection to us, nor there appear in a foreign umirorm; they shall be authorised to wear the national colours when in the empire.

18. They may nevertheless wear the decorations of foreign orders, when they shall have received them with our consent.

19. They may not enter France but with our special permission.

20. Frenchmen entering the ser vice of a foreign power, without our permission, and remaining in it after war is declared between France and that power, shall be considered as having borne arms against us from the circumstances alone of their having continued to form part of a military corps destined to act against the French Empire or its alites.
