

PORTS CORNER

AGAINST SOLITUDE

(Extract from Byron's Gipsy.) IF solitude succeed to grief, Release from pain is slight relief;

To still her famish'd nestlings scream, Nor mourns a life to them transferr'd;

The Pelican, is, I believe, the bird so libell'd, by the imputation of feeding her chickens with her blood.

ANNAPOLIS & BALTIMORE

PACKETS.

The subscribers have commenced sending their packets regularly between the City and Baltimore, and will be happy in accommodating ladies and gentlemen who may be travelling to or from either of the above places. Of their exertions to insure safe and quick passage, it is deemed needless to speak, as the establishment is of long standing and well known.—They will therefore content themselves with observing, that nothing shall be wanting on their part, to render every thing agreeable to those who may favour them with their company. The cost of passage and fare must be paid before leaving the packet. They will not be answerable for packages and letters committed to the care of the hands.

Sensible of the liberal encouragement which they have received in,

The Grocery Line,

They present unfeigned thanks to their punctual customers, and respectfully solicit a continuance of their patronage.
The long indulgence given to many persons indebted to them, and the total disregard shewn to the repeated requests made for such persons to call & adjust their respective accounts, constrain them, though reluctantly, to state, that unless such delinquents speedily liquidate claims, legal measures will be resorted to.

They as usual have on hand a very general and well selected assortment of

GROCERIES,

Which having been recently laid in at the lowest market prices, they will be able to dispose of on accommodating terms.

PROPOSALS

For publishing in the City of Baltimore,

A DAILY NEWSPAPER,

TO BE ENTITLED,
THE BALTIMORE TELEGRAPH AND MERCANTILE ADVERTISER.

BY ALLEN AND HILL.

The subscribers, while they solicit a candid and generous public to patronize the project which they have now undertaken of establishing a daily paper in the city of Baltimore, feel with no common sensibility the delicacy and difficulty of the undertaking. Many have supposed that the citizens of the United States, are so enamored by party animosity that it behoves every patriot to frown on every new champion who enters the field of political controversy.
This hypothesis, if rigidly examined, will be found to end in this absurdity, that the condition of our country both abroad and at home, is so deplorable, that all attempts at reformation become criminal. If the national treasury is exhausted, commerce extinguished, public credit impaired, executive power enlarged while executive responsibility is lost, if our representatives in congress have so far forgotten their own dignity and the sanctity of their constitutional trust, as to declare that the will of an individual forms the law of the land; if in addition to this host of calamities, we are involved in a foreign war by which nothing can be gained and every thing is put in jeopardy—are we to be told that it is criminal to speak the words of honesty and truth? On the contrary, it is conceived that the argument points directly the other way; for in proportion to the desperation of our public circumstances, should be the zeal of our attempts to reform.

The subscribers would propose to attempt, but it would in them be the height of arrogance and presumption to say that they will be able to make their paper an interesting repository of intelligence. They have no hesitation in declaring that its character will be purely federal—by which they would be understood to mean, that neither the pride of power, or the insolence of office, shall prevent them from speaking salutary, although unpalatable truths.
Having seen our political circumstances growing hourly more desperate; as the precepts and example set by Washington have been hourly abandoned, they deem it no less a right than a duty to raise one more warning voice, and apprise their countrymen of their danger while it is yet in their power to escape.

Influenced by such considerations they respectfully solicit the patronage of their countrymen to aid their undertaking.

MISCELLANEOUS

From the Boston Centinel.

To the People of the United States.

It is no common occasion, which could have justified this address. The interest you have in the events which have taken place, while I commanded one of your armies, and your knowledge of my present situation, I presume, will render any apology unnecessary. I am now only connected with you, by the endearing ties of a fellow-citizen, and have no other relation to the government, but what is common to you all. My claims to your attention arise from the persecution I have experienced and the injustice I have suffered. Having received this persecution and injustice from your servants, for my conduct, while in your service, it is a duty which I owe, both to you and myself, to present to you a true statement of my case, to satisfy you I have been faithful to your interest, and appeal to your judgment, for a reversal of the unjust sentence, which has been pronounced against me.

Whilst I was an officer of the government, considerations of duty, and a sense of propriety prevented me from making any communication to you, in vindication of my public conduct.

I fully expected in an investigation before a tribunal organized under the constitution and laws, to have convinced you that during my military command I had deserved well of my country. But how vain have been my expectations! Instead of having been honourably restored to your confidence, I have been branded with the imputation of crimes the most wounding to the feelings of an honourable man, and authorities emanating from you have passed on me the highest sentence of the law, for acts dictated by the purest motives, and the highest sense of duty.
Although your president has remitted this sentence, it is no satisfaction to me. The remnant of a long life which has uniformly been devoted to honourable pursuits is not worth preserving in dishonour.

I am an innocent man, and as brave now as when I followed the standard of Washington over those memorable fields where the battles were fought which secured the independence of our country.

In the critical and highly responsible situation in which I was placed, I did what I believed to be my duty.
I still believe I did what I ought to have done. I am now satisfied that the calamities to our country would have been much greater, if I had pursued any other course. Notwithstanding what I have suffered, I now rejoice, that I had the firmness and courage to do my duty; & to do that which your interest rendered proper and necessary to be done. In the solemn appeal I now make, I expect to satisfy you of this truth.
The object of this address is to request you to suspend your opinion, until you have before you the statement of my case and the evidence on which it is founded. This shall be done as soon as the nature of the subject will possibly admit. A large majority of the court, was composed of young officers, recently appointed, and had seen no military service.
From their want of military experience, they were incapable of forming a correct opinion on the conduct of an officer commanding an army.
In a government like ours this appeal must be founded in propriety.
The tribunal of the public is the highest of all tribunals. In you is the sovereign power. Your determination therefore must be final and conclusive. To you then, my fellow-citizens, in the last resort I appeal, in the full conviction that your decision will prove, how cruelly I have been persecuted and how unjustly I have been condemned.
