

Weybosset Bridge was entirely carried away about 10 o'clock. Every vessel in port, with two exceptions, were driven from their anchorages. Thirty-five sail, including 4 ships (one of them over 500 tons) 9 brigs, 7 schooners, and 15 and it was declared in council our commissioners and several of the principal chiefs on our side that he should not in future be referred to build a fire in any part of the United States, meaning that it should not live amongst us.

The commissioners leave tomorrow with the exception of General M'Arthur, who is dangerous.

Extract of a letter, received from an officer at Detroit, dated Sept. 1815.

If the British have given up the right of search at sea, they have this quarter commenced it on board this vessel since, several British sailors deserted, and landed about 10 miles from this place. The officers and a boats crew followed, and examined several of them, and at length got one man, who sent him on board—placed cannons on our highway, one of which fired at a citizen. The citizens flew to arms, arrested the officers and men—both agreed that one of them should be retained until the officer is now in our fort. I understand a civil prosecution is brought against him—Col. James will deliver the prisoner taken. The Indian treaty ended yesterday.

Providence, (R. I.) Sept. 22.

AWFUL STORM!

It devolves upon us, and we increase it as a melancholy duty, to present to the public a brief and general account of the awful storm which was so severely experienced in this town, on Saturday last. We are aware that a more minute and unobtrusive narrative will be expected from those whose province it is to "note the passing things of the times;" but let it be remembered, that imminent danger concludes nicety of remark, and directs the pen to state the facts, and the objects of human affection, more important than the rescue of goods and chattels. Whether we consider the violence of the storm, or the desolation which ensued, we do not incur the hazard of contradiction in pronouncing it the most sublime and tremendous elemental strife that has been witnessed for centuries by the inhabitants of this town. It seemed as if he who "rides the whirlwind and directs the storm" had permitted wind and air to combine their strength and terror to give us an impressive assurance of His power, to humble our pride and to dissipate our affections—"The angry spirit of the waters" rose in might and majesty, and the productions of nature and the fabrics of art were the victims of his fury. Had he lived a being whose bosom was tenanted by misanthropic feelings, he could have ascended some high hill, and apostrophized with the exultation of a demon the desolation which surrounded him; but he who inherits the sensibilities of the weak and the feelings, "the wild and wondrous scene."

A storm of rain from the N. E. commenced on Friday last, and continued with little intermission till Saturday morning, when the wind was from the east. Between 8 & 10 however, it shifted to the S. E. and continued to blow with increasing violence till half past eleven, when suddenly changing to the west, the progress of the calamity we now deplore was happily staid. The rain rose to an unprecedented and terrifying height, (12 feet higher than spring tides) and inundated the streets in various parts of the town. It extended in Westminster-street a considerable distance beyond the theatre. The lives of many families, particularly on the west side, were in imminent danger. Confusion and dismay were depicted in every countenance—all were eager to fly but knew not where to find an ark of safety. Vessels were forced into the streets, and threatened destruction to the surrounding buildings. Women and children were rescued from chamber windows, and men were seen buffeting in the streets, to seek a friend or secure an asylum.

Connecticut Election.

The Election in Connecticut has taken place, and the proud political character of that state remains unmoved by the machinations of democracy. The expectations made by the democrats of that state previous to the late fall election, were never surpassed by them on any former occasion: and sanguine were the anticipations of some of the jacobin editors in the U. S. on the subject, that after the election in Vermont was known to have terminated in favour of the democratic ticket by a small majority, they were so elated with the news as to believe that they now held all the states in a string, and ventured to predict that a similar result would take place at the approaching election in Connecticut. The event now speaks for itself. The Harford Mirror on Monday last states, that allowing the democrats all they claim, they will have but precisely the same number of members in the present that they had in the last legislature.

N. Y. E. Post.

Norfolk, Sept. 28.

The following particulars of the action between the U. States sloop of war Wasp, and H. B. M. sloop of war Avon, were gathered from a conversation by a gentleman on board the U. S. schooner Nonsuch, at Halifax, (N. S.) with the purser of the Avon.

The Avon mounted 18 32 pound Carronades and one long shifling 12, had a complement of 120 men; The action lasted 40 minutes. There were 22 men killed—among them the 1st lieutenant, 5 wounded men were left in the cockpit, when the Avon went down—the greater part of the crew were wounded, and many severely: It was afterwards necessary to amputate the commander's leg (Capt. James.) The Avon was literally cut to pieces—when sinking they called to the American commander, who had his boats lowering; when on the appearance of two sloops of war, he hoisted them in and bore away. The last boat that left the Avon scarcely escaped the suction occasioned by her going down. The surgeon seemed much astonished on hearing the size of the Wasp and her complement of men. She was considered by him as greatly larger, and much superior in point of force.

HUMOUR.

In the County of Dauphin, among numerous candidates, who offer for the Sheriff, are Melchior Ram, Henry Wolf and Jacob Bear; and at last comes Andrew Lion, in the Dauphin Oracle, with the following Advertisement.

To the Free and Independent Electors of Dauphin County.

GENTLEMEN,

Not having the least encouragement from friends or strangers, I beg leave to come forward in this late hour and offer myself as a candidate for the office of Sheriff. Relying solely on my own merit and particularly, as I see on the list of candidates, a Bear, a Wolf and a Ram, with several other animals too tedious to enumerate. But as I consider myself a far superior animal to any of my opponents, and am pretty certain you will be of my opinion when you become acquainted with the claim I have on your gratitude. I have been a revolutionary soldier, (and an officer if you please) suffered hunger, toil and heat, fought many bloody battles, got honourable scars, but little pay, and all this gentlemen, merely that you may vote freely on the day of election. Now I tell you plainly how I shall discharge my duty, should I be so happy as to obtain a majority of your suffrages. 1st. If writs are put into my hands against any of you, I will take you if I can, and unless you get bail, I will deliver you over to the keeper of the jail. 2d. If judgments are found against you, and executions directed to me, I will sell your property as the law directs without favour or affection, and if there should be any surplus money, I will punctually remit it. 3d. and last, if any of you should commit a crime (which God forbid) that requires capital punishment according to law, I will hang you up by the neck till you are dead, dead, dead. Now gentlemen I hope you will not forget me on the day of election—And sincerely wish you may keep out of my hands, should you honour me with the office of Sheriff.

Your fellow citizen to command.
ANDREW LION.
