FOREIGN.

From the British National Register

Declaration of the Archbishop of Constantinople, and Patriarch of the Greek Church, in favour of the Modern Greek Testament, printed by the British and Foreign Bible Society.

Extract of a letter from the Rev.
Henry Lindsay, Chaplain to the British Embassy at Constantinople.
British Palace Constantinople, Jan. 12, 1815.

I enclose for the Society a Paper from the Greek Patriarch of Constantinople. What gave occasion to it was this: Upon making inquiry relative to distributing either gratis or by purchase, the Modern Greek Testaments, which the Society had entrusted to my care, I was generally given to understand that the Greek Priests would do all in their power to thwart and render ineffectual any such distribution. I determined therefore to go at once to the Patriarch, and if possible, procure his sanction. Accordingly I got translated a large Extract from the "Summary account" of the Society which I left with him, together with a Copy of the Modern Greek Testament.
When I next saw him he told me that he considered the object of the Society highly laudable, and presented me with the enclosed Declaration.

As the present Patriarch is considered a person of great literary attainments, the opinion of so competent a judge respecting the version adopted by the Society, may be thought in itself satisfactory; but I conceive the Declaration may be also extensively as full, if the Society should think proper to print and prefix it to each Copy of the Roman Testament which may hereafter be issued. I have been credibly informed, that many Greeks have scrupled to purchase, or even receive the Scriptures without such such authority; and I understand that the persons acting for the Society of Zante, are of opinion, that the sale of the Testaments, transmitted there, has been materially retarded by those scruples.

TRANSLATION.

Cyril, Archbishop of Constantinople, New Rome, and Ecumenical Patriarch.

Our lowliness notifies by this present Patriarchal Declaration, that, having examined accurately, and with the necessary attention the Edition of the New Testament in two languages, Hellenic and Romaic published in England by the Society there established, of British Typography, by John Tilling at Chelsea, in the year one thousand eight hundred and ten of the incarnation of Christ our Saviour, we have found in it nothing false, or erroneous; wherefore we have judged right to give permission for it to be used, and read by all pious, united and orthodox Christians, to be sold in the Bookseller's shops, and to be bought freely by all who wish it without any one making the least hesitation; for the manifestation of which, this our present Patriarchal Declaration has been issued.
In the thirteenth day of the month of December, 1814.

CATHOLIC PETITION.

Dublin, June 20, 1815.

The following is a copy of a new petition, as read by Mr. O'Connell: To the Honourable the House of Commons in Parliament assembled.

We, the Roman Catholic people of Ireland, again approach the Legislature with a statement of grievances under which we labour, and of which we most respectfully, but, at the same time, most firmly solicit the effectual redress. Our wrongs are so notorious, and so numerous, that their minute detail is quite unnecessary, and would indeed be impossible were it deemed expedient.
Ages of persecution on the one hand, and of patience on the other, sufficiently attest our sufferings, and our submission. Privations have been answered only by petition—indignities by remonstrance—injuries by forgiveness. It has been a misfortune to have suffered for the sake of our religion; but it has also been a pride to have borne the best testimony to the purity of our doctrine by the meekness of our endurance.

Like the great type of our adoration, we have not merely been the passive victims of unjust infliction, but we have even endeavoured to expiate the cruelty of our oppressors.
We have sustained the power which spurned us—we have verified the arm that smote us—with a gratitude always superior to our privileges; we have lavished our strength, our talent, and our treasures, and buoyed upon the prodigal profusion of our young blood, the triumphant ark of British liberty.

We approach, then, with confidence, an enlightened legislature.
In the name of nature, we ask our rights as men—in the name of the constitution, we ask our privileges as subjects—in the name of God, we ask the sacred charter of unper-secuted piety as Christians.

Are securities required of us? We offer them—the best securities a throne can have—the affections of a people. We offer faith, that was never violated—Hearts that were never corrupted—Valour that never crouched. Every hour of peril proved our allegiance, and every field of Europe exhibits the example.

We abjure all temporal authority, except that of our sovereign—we acknowledge no civil tie, save that of our constitution—and for our lavish and voluntary expenditures, we ask a reciprocity of benefits.
Separating as we do our civil rights from our spiritual duties, we earnestly desire that they may not be confounded. We "render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's," but we must also "render unto God the things that are God's." Our church could not descend to claim a state authority, nor do we ask for it a state aggrandizement; its hopes, its powers, and its pretensions, are of another world: and when we raise our hands to the state, our prayer is not that the fetters may be transferred to those hands which are raised from us to heaven. We would not erect a splendid shrine even to liberty on the ruins of the temple.

In behalf then, of five millions of brave and an insulted people, we call on the legislature to annihilate the odious bondage which bows down the mental, physical, and moral energies of Ireland; and, in the name of the Gospel, which excludes all distinction, we ask freedom of conscience for the whole Christian world.

Mr. Charles Phillips having been declared the author of this composition, several members spoke highly in his praise; and Mr. O'Conner moved the following resolution: That the heartfelt gratitude of the Catholic Board, be presented to the splendid and patriotic friend of Ireland, Charles Phillips, Esq. Barrister at Law, for the exertions by which he has served and ornamented the cause of our common country.
This vote of thanks was passed with acclamations.

Glasgow, Aug. 12.

There is one commercial house in the city which pays 4000l. a year for the postage of foreign letters.
Ten tons of silver, the property of a single house in the city has been lately melted down for exportation.

We are glad to learn that cotton goods continue in great demand—Manchester was never known to do more business than it has for some weeks past. The Americans have assisted greatly in clearing the markets, and we may hence be satisfied, that the stories of the progress of the cotton trade in the U.
S. are not authentic.

We are assured, says a Paris Paper, that it is proposed to declare the pictures and statues in the Louvre, the European Museum, and to consider the collection as the common property of the nations, confided to the custody of the Parisians. These things from the churches shall be transported
