FOR SALE,
THE RISING-SUN FARM.
By virtue of a decree of the honorable the Chancellor of Maryland, subscribers will sell at public sale, Saturday the 27th of April next, on premises, all that valuable tract of called Part of Howard's First Ches-and known by the name of the Rising Sun, situate on the road leading from Annapolis to Baltimore, 10 miles from the former, and 30 miles from the latter, containing about five hundred acres of kind land, full one half woods heavily timbered, containing hickory, oak, chestnut and poplar. The property adjoins that of Thomas P. long, Esq., who has used the place paris to considerable advantage, and well watered. The improvements are ably good, with a great abundance of choice fruit, &c. &c. Any person wishing to view the land previous to the day of sale can see the same by applying to Augustus Gambrill near the premises. The terms of sale will be a credit third to be paid in six months, one third in twelve months, and the remaining third in eighteen months; the purchaser giving bonds with good security bearing interest from the day of sale.
When the whole of the purchase money is paid a good deed will be given, by William H. Baldwin,
Augustin Gambrill,
Thomas Worthington,
Trustees.
The editor of the Federal Gazette will please insert the above advertisement twice a week till the day of sale, and forward his account to the office for collection.

good people of this state that such was not the case in Democratic times! Back Records might then have been brought up. More anon!

Arrived off this port on Saturday last, His Britannic Majesty's frigate Niger, of 32 guns, Captain Jackson. She saluted the town by a discharge of 17 guns, which was returned from the City Battery.
This vessel came passengers the honourable HENRY BAGOT, minister to this country; his lady and suite.
They landed on the following day, under a salute from the ship, and on Monday proceeded to the seat of government. This ship sailed from England on the 26th of January.

The Rev. Henry L. Davis, has been appointed Vice-Principal of St. John's College.

The editor of the Hagers-town Light, in noticing the charges raised by a few turbulent democrats against the conduct of the legislature when acting upon the bill to incorporate Frederick-Town, makes the following remarks: Now gentle reader, peruse the following section, extracted from a law for the incorporation of Hagerstown, drafted, presented, advocated, and approved by—John T.
Mason, Esq.!!! the late democratic candidate for United States Senator, and UNANIMOUSLY sanctioned by our present democratic state senate.—

And be it enacted, That the free white male citizens of Hagerstown, of the age of 21 years, and wards, AND PAYING TAX in the said town, be authorized to elect, on the second Monday in April next, and on the same day annually afterwards, five discreet persons inhabitants of the said town, and not under the age of 25 years, and being single in life, or for life, of a freehold estate, situate in the said town or its additions, as commissioners of the said town.

Reader, here you have a fair sample of the conduct of the pretended guardians of the people's rights—Judge for yourself—judge whether there is any coincidence between the conduct of these "guardians of the people," in 1813, and their language, in 1816—judge whether the men who could join heart and hand in the passage of the law from which the above section is cited, are sincere in their denunciations of one of a similar nature, proposed by their political opponents. 'Tis absurd to suppose so—it is only interested as a political finesse to subvert some favourite scheme preparatory to next fall's contest.

MR. HARDIN,
Of Kentucky, in a late debate upon the taxes, or state of the nation, adverted to what are denominated "the aims of the war." Thus:
"The fisheries partly lost—the West India trade gone—that to the East crippled—the islands of Passaguaneydy lost—this was what we had gained. But we were told we had got national honour—very true our army and navy had fought bravely, they had gained honour, but we lost the distinction between the Army and Congress and the President. With much more he ad-verted to the several blunders and mismanagement which characterized the conduct of the war. He said Mr. Congress, Mr. President, and Messrs. the Secretaries of State and War had not gained much glory on these occasions. They had the old negroes portion, who complained that of the crop "massa has share, overseer has share, but poor Jim got none." Congress and the President, he thought, had come off like Jim—(a loud laugh from all parts of the house.)

He remarked that there were two kinds of patriotism—one of a frothy kind, which was generally the noisy kind—and the other, that firm and undeviating pursuit of the general good, which regarded not little interest of self, of faction, or of party.
He stated that the direct tax, though nominally only three millions, would take five out of the people's pockets. He knew the contrivances of the Collectors—many of them—one half of them were scoundrels, rascals, knaves, cheats. He had been frequently employed to detect and punish their roguery—Most of them literally followed the old man's advice—"My son, you are now going to leave me—Get rich, honestly if you can, but get rich."

From the Baltimore Telegraph.
JOSEPH GALE'S MAN.

The Aurora, on the authority of letters received from Washington, is now daily employed in opening a system of fraud, corruption and unblushing venality, which it will be almost incredible to state. The length of these communications, prevents us from inserting them entire. It is doubtless known to our readers, that at the request of the Post-Master General, an enquiry into the concerns of the Post-Office, has been set on foot by the House of Representatives. A committee has been appointed to investigate these matters, who have been for some time employed in this business.
Several clerks in the Post-Office department, have been examined by this committee, who have been discharged for revealing some instances of fraud, pecuniary and corruption in that department. The following is an extract from the publication in the Aurora:

GENERAL POST OFFICE.
Extract to the Editor—dated Washington, March 11, 1816.

As I anticipated in mine of the 7th, capt. Bestor, Mr. Edwards, & Mr. Howard, have been removed from office by the post-master general Mr. Meigs. I gave you some account of Bestor before; of Mr.
Howard, I will barely mention that he was one of the five, of the rifle corps, who pushed forward to meet Gen. Ross's advance, at the time the British approached to attack Baltimore; and that to one or the other of these five gallant little squad, is to be ascribed the fate of general Ross, and the consequent salvation of Baltimore. Others are rewarded with silver cups and swords—here we see how he is rewarded—he was highly recommended by Baltimore, to the administration here, after he had partially recovered from the wounds received in action, on that memorable occasion. His moral department is unimpeachable, and his capacity as a clerk is not questioned; yet, notwithstanding, he has been dismissed from office, only on giving testimony in an investigation of public peculation.

The writer goes on to remark, that ever since these dismissals from office have taken place, the clerks in the Post Office, have been suddenly afflicted with a loss of memory. The editor of the Aurora, declares, that letters addressed to him from Washington, have arrived with broken seals, and that they are so clumsily re-closed, that "it appears as if all detection was disregarded."

In the mean time, we learn from the same authority, that a caucus has been held at Washington, for the election of a President, at the house of Alderman Joseph Gales, editor of the National Intelligencer.
These are the words of Duane's correspondent:

"The editor of the National Intelligencer has held a caucus at his house also; this is understood to be in favour of Mr. Monroe, and if there should be any conflict among these magnates about the future king, what may come out of it cannot be anticipated, but the magnates of the Georgian chief, are as ferocious as drunken Cherokees, and the Virginian magnates appear to deliberate upon the means best adapted to resist by amicable means, dispositions so ferocious. Whether this now will produce any effect, time alone can determine."

Thus we see that while the freeborn sons of America are amused with the exercise of a right so sacred as that of electing their chief magistrate, they are moved and directed by the editor of the National Intelligencer. He has already had the insolence to nominate his candidate, and the representatives of millions of free men will meanly condescend to become instruments in his hands for the election of Mr.
Monroe. As if they were proud of their tame servility, they will be found assembling at the house of this dignified character, to receive his instruction how they shall play their several parts in this electioneering farce. They meet we presume at the house of the manager, for rehearsal. These slaves of Mr.
Gales are here disciplined to his liking. After they have been drilled by the hope of rewards and emoluments, &c. into the service of Mr. Monroe, then comes the general caucus in which this candidate is nominated—then communications written at Washington, and addressed to all the democratic printers in the Union, will be sent on to appear as editorial articles in their respective papers. These articles perhaps originally writ ten by alderman Gales, will be republished in the National Intelligencer, as evidence of the public admiration of Mr. Monroe throughout all parts of this widely extended continent.

Thus the slaves of Joseph Gales, miscalled the representatives of millions of freemen, resort to Washington to receive their six dollars a day to sell the suffrages of their constituents. Mr. Monroe deserves his election; for if a man can condescend to put his fame and his honour in the hands of Joseph Gales, if he can crawl with such reptile depravity, the presidency is indeed but a poor compensation. It is no remuneration for the entire prostration of all individual dignity and honour.

Mr. Monroe looks upon himself as a degraded man, and is at the present moment amongst his political opponents, not an object of hatred, but of scornful pity. They are mortified to find that he is reduced to that state when all generous hostility must cease, and compassion become a virtue.

she will marry at the age of 31, and will be a fool at 45.

July.—The man will be fair, he will suffer death for the wicked woman he loves. The female of this month will be passably handsome, with a sharp nose, but fine bust.
She will be of rather sulky temper.

August.—The man will be ambitious and courageous, but too apt to cheat. He will have several maladies, and two wives. The lady will be amiable and twice married, but her second husband will cause her to regret her first.

September.—He who is born in this month will be strong, wise and prudent, but too easy with his wife, who will give him great uneasiness.
The lady round faced and fair haired, witty, discreet, affable, and loved by her friends.

October.—The man of this month will have a handsome face and florid complexion; he will be wicked in his youth, and always inconstant. He will promise one thing and do another, and remain poor. The lady will be pretty: a little given to contradiction, a little coquettish, and sometimes a little too fond of talking. Not fond of wine, she will give the preference to cau-de-vie.
She will have three husbands, who will die of grief: she will best know why.

November.—The man born now will have a fine face, and be a gay deceiver. The lady of this month will be large, liberal, and full of novelty.

December.—The man born in this month will be a good sort of person, though passionate. He will devote himself to the army, and be betrayed by his wife. The lady will be amiable and handsome with a good voice, and a well proportioned body: she will be twice married, remain poor, but continue honest.

After this satisfactory adjustment of fates according to months, follow many other explanations of destiny directed by different rules and founded on other principles. We have predictions according to the four seasons, introduced by the wood-cut representation of a studious old gentleman, in a cap and beard, looking through a telescope which actually touches one of the seven stars, compels the lightning to become one of the zig-zag species, and is very near eclipsing the sun.
