THE DEAD TWINS. Mws summer, and a Sabbath eve, And bodhy was the air. I sav a sight that made me grieve, And yet the sight was fair, Within a little coffin lay Two lifeless babes as sweet as May Like waxen dolls that infants dress The little bodies were ; A look of placid happiness

Did on each face appear; And in the coffin short and wider They lay together side by side. A tose-bud nearly clos'd, I found

Each little hand within, And many a pink was atrew'd around, With sprigs of jessamine; And yet the flowers that round them lay, Were not to me more fair than they. Their mother as a lily pale, Sat by them on a bed,

Sat by them on a bed,
And bending o'er them, told her tale,
And many a tear she shed:
Yet oft she cried amidst her pain,
"My babes and I shall meet again!"
