DEMOCRATIC SKUEKING.

Mr. M Lean, a member of Congress from Ohio in a long letter to one of his constituents, in which he undertakes to assign his reason for voting for the compensation bill, has the following paragraph :

"Of those who voted against the compensation bill, I shall say nothing further, than, that when a vote was ta ken in the committee of the whole which decided the principle of the bill as much as when the ayes & noes, were recorded, there were found but twentyone or two, I think, against the bill-yet, when their names were recorded the number amounted to near seventy. -Some must have therefore have voted against the bill, not because they believed the measure incorrect, nor because they believed it would not pass, and by voting against it, they participated equally in the benefit, without incurring any of the responsibility. The people can judge of such conduct and appreciate its merits accordingly."

This skulking ought not, and will not save the popularity of the majority According to strict justice, and according to the measure that they meeted out to us on a former occasion. I mean the land tax bill, the compensation bill is fairly and truly to be charged to the majority. On the oc-casion alluded to, I mean the land tax, the bill was reported by a committee of which Mr Madison himself was the chairman, and who, so far from intimating any dissent, gave the bill all the support in his power by speaking as well as voting in favour of it Yet was it exclusively ascribed to the federalists, because they were a majority in Congress, and might have prevented its passage, but did not It was not, then, examined into who voted for, or who against it, or who were absent, & it was, in vain stated that Mr Madison was the father of the bill; it was represented to the people as a federal measure, as a sin of the Adams administration; and they so regarded it and acted accordingly, withholding their votes from them at the next election. The hue and cry, then raised at the polls, was, turn them out, turn them out, they are unprofitable servants. If this was just then, it must be just now [N. Y. Ev. Post.]

PRESENTMENTS.

[The Grand Jury of Wilkes county, (Georgia,) at the last term of the Superior Court, amongst other things, made the following presentment :--

We lament, that on this occasion, t becomes (as we humbly conceive) duty which we owe to ourselves and to our fellow-citizens, in our corporate capacity, to express in the most decisive terms, our unqualified disapprobation of a law, recently passed by Congress, to change the mode of compensation to the members of the Senate and House of Representatives and delegates from territories. The nation just emerging from the dangers and disasters of a bloody war, a great increase of our national debt, necessarily consequent thereon; our relations with foreign nations, especially England, France and Spain; the general aspect and disposition of the European powers towards us; late alarming embarrassments of our national treasury, did not, in our opinion, warrant an increase of compensation. Nor car we view the change of a per diem compensation, into a permanent & fixed salary, as a measure congenial with our republican institutions. Without the least exertion of, imagination may be distinctly seen in this measure the strongest features of personal aggrandizement, and we fear political prostitution, which, if suffered to continue unmoleated, would quickly engender, hatch and propagate a species of proud, arrogant, and luxuriant aristocrats; no spurious brood, but their own legitimate offspring.

But it has been said by the friends of this measure, that the high price of produce, and the depreciation of money; made it necessary to increase the compensation of the members of Congress. It this be true, was it not equally necessary to bestow on the several officers of the general government an additional salary also? Why not for the same reasons (if they were sound) increase the salaries of our ambassadors, judges, and all the other public functionaries? Can any one, however avarlcious he may be, pretend that the loss incurred by the depreciation of money falls exclusively upon our Senators, Representatives and De-legater in Congress? Wherefore, according to the same mode of reasoning, diminish the wages of the soldier; or why has the evil pit-tance allowed those defends of our country's rights, who has so bravely lought our battles, soldi-lantly defended our fire sides, sacred privileges, and have so em ently contributed to our national honour and glory, been so long neglecred?

Does not such conduct, on the part of those in Congress, who yielded their support to this messure, evince a apirit of illiberality, approaching to a total want of patribtism, and deserving universal detestation.

To say the least of this law, it appears to us a strong evidence of gross indelicacy and selfishness on their part, thus, with an unequal degree of avidity, to snatch at and serve themselves with the loaves and fishes of the nation, to the exclusion of others equally deserving, and perhaps more needy and modest. They surely ought to have been just to others, before they were so exclusively liberal and generous to themselves.

Upon this occasion, we are sorry to observe that although our members in the House of Representatives seem not to have yielded their assent to the passage of the law of which we complain, yet nevertheless, from any information we have been enabled to obtain, we are constrained to say, that we have not seen or heard of any other than a weak and flimsy exertion to prevent its passage; whilst on many other occasions, far less important and interesting to the nation, we have witnessed a brilliant display of words in long laborious and tedious speech-

In the language of another (have we not reason to fear) that the love of honest fame, predominant in the revolutionary war, is changed into cupidity, disinterestedness into selfishness, and that the public good is sacrificed to personal views of ama bition. In this disgraceful situation, in our opinion, it becomes the duty of every genuine citizen, every lover of the country, to use his personal exertion for the prosperity of our common country.

We would, therefore, respectfully recommend to our fellow-citizens of Georgia, at our approaching election, to withhold their suffrages from those of our Representatives in Congress, who did not manifest a zeal becoming the occasion, against so obnoxious a measure, by something more than a silent vote or flimsy pretence. We would further respectfully recommend our fellowcitizens, also, to withhold their support from any man as a member of our state legislature, who does not give unequivocal assurance that he will oppose the re-election of any man, who has heretofore given his assent to the passage of the law, now the subject of complaint. And we, furthermore, solicit our Senators and Representatives, composing the next Congress, to use their best endeavours to procure a repeal of the law, to which we allude.

We avail ourselves of this on tunity, to express with the liveliest emotions of gratitude, our high and exulted opinion of the ability, integrity and patriotism displayed by the honourable Mr. Huger of S. C. and the other members of Congress, who zealously opposed the adoption of this little bantling of aristocracy. into the American family; and, aiso, our great esteem and respect for the disinterestedness of those members of Congress, who refused to accept of their additional compensation, and we regret that we have it not in our power to offer this tribute of respect to but too few upon this occasion.

. We return our thanks to his hononr, Judge Gresham, for his attention to business, during the present
