THE SOJOURNER.
THE PLEASURES OF LIFE.
As I far as the fill of my door,
When the evening was weeping its tears,
I thought of those scenes, now no more,
Those scenes that have faded with years!
Time was, when I eagerly flew,
To embrace each delight that presented;
But I never thought of heaven, or you,
Who with tears at my folly relented!
The phantoms bewitching attire,
So enraptured and blind my sense,
That I follow'd with hasty desire,
Nor halted on any pretence!
As I went, I observ'd when it turn'd,
On its forehead was written despair,
But alas! I could not, for I burn'd,
And I thought my Elysian was there.
I approach'd, and I grasp'd, but it flew—
For it vanish'd in blackness of gloom;
I led to the house of the dead,
Then enter'd its horrid tomb!
Now I turn'd to trace back my way,
But furrows lay strewn'd o'er the ground!
I sought for the light of the day,
Not a glimmering taper was found!
I groped in darkness and woe,
Each obstacle laid in my way;
I pray'd—and my God design'd to show,
The reflection of light in a ray!
Oh! if ever I wander again
In the wide-spreading maze of despair,
My feet shall never be hid,
Nor friendship can I lose there!
Ah! the time that is left, shall the thought
Swell hang on the mind with such weight!
Shall things that are here and are not,
Such longing desires create.
Let me never desire the vain flow,
The pomp and the pleasures of life;
If the pleasures of life only flow,
From corruption, and folly, and strife!
That the night is far spent—yet I mourn,
In fret I weep and I sigh,
I weep for the days that are gone,
I think of the day that is nigh!
There's pleasure I find in a tear,
And a dear friend when alone;
There's solace in holy and dear
That's conceal'd 'neath a sigh or a groan.

WENS.
Persons affected by this evil will find relief from the directions contained in the annexed article. Simple as the remedy appears, it is nevertheless an effectual cure. We are informed by a gentleman now in this city, that within the last 12 months he was cured of a wen in the short space of twelve days, by the following application:
Effectual Cure for Wens.
Having had a wen of a large size and long standing upon the side of my face and below my right ear, I was informed by different people, that if I would apply common salt and water to it, I should get rid of it. In August, 1799, I put a quantity of salt and water into a saucypan, and boiled it for 4 minutes, with which I bathed the surface frequently, while it continued warm, as also after it became cold, as often as ten or twelve times daily; always stirring up the salt deposited at the bottom of the basin, and incorporating it again with the water before I applied it. On the 11th day after the first application, while shaving, I observed a small discharge, which, assisted by a gentle pressure the whole contents were soon emptied without the smallest pain and without blood.
Being informed of some others who had been benefited in like manner from the same simple applications and knowing myself of some late instances, under my own immediate direction, I feel it a duty thus to make it public; being convinced it can produce no bad effect, and every person having it in their power to make the trial, at the same time I beg leave to caution, that no one should be disheartened at the length of time it may be necessary to continue the application, as in some cases it has required 3 or 4 months, though in the last only 30 days; but in all without pain or inconvenience of any kind, or any previous notice of the discharge till it actually took place.

Cure for the Tooth ache.—Take a nut-gall, break it, put a small piece of the inside into the hole of the tooth, and after being there for half an hour or an hour, it may be removed, when it will be found to be covered with a white matter; and a fresh piece of nutgall is to be put into the tooth so long as any matter shall be found to come away; and when that ceases to be the case, the cure will be found to be effectual.

The Elder Tree.—This tree possesses the following properties.—1. Saving tornips from the fly.—2. Preserving wheat from the yellows.—3. Preserving fruit from the blight.—4. Preserving cabbage plants from caterpillars.—5. Preserving peach trees, &c. from worms.

The world's elder has the best, no doubt, and it requires no other trouble than to stretch the leaves over the ground, or to strike fruit-trees with a twig.

COMMUNICATION.
CERTAIN CURE FOR THE BITE OF A MAD DOG.
Extract from a work of much celebrity in London, entitled the Medical and Chirurgical Review. It is attested that after an experience of thirty eight years, it was never known to fail of a cure.
A receipt of John Webb's for the bite of a Mad Dog, taken from the original by James Webb, son of the above John Webb deceased.
Take of the leaf of a tender bud of rue half a large tea cup full, when cut quite small, the cup to hold about a quarter of a pint beer measure, take the same quantity of large box, or common garden box, cut this small, add nine leaves of red sage, cut small, let them be without blemish. Take half a pint of new wheat meal from the mill, or good fine flour, and about one table spoonfull of yeast, mix it together as dough; take one third of it in new milk each morning.
This quantity for a man or woman; the same quantity for a sheep, hog or dog;—but for a cow or horse, take one cup full of rue cut small, and the same of box, but only nine leaves of sage; give this in milk or some other liquid.
Half this quantity will do of the rue and box for a colt or calf, but nine leaves of the sage.
My father has cured some men when mad, then he took one tea cup full of rue and one of box, and nine leaves of sage, boil it well in a pint of milk, and give it as quick as possible.
Half the quantity of rue and box for a small child, but in all cases no more or less than nine leaves of sage.
Signed JAMES WEBB.

Execution of Hydrophobia.—We translate the following from the Journal de Commerce of May 17:
A new case is related which tends to prove that washing with soap has the efficacy of preventing the dreadful effects of canine madness. In 1726 a hound bit three dogs, at the moment when a person endeavoured to rescue a bitch from the furious tooth of the rabid animal, she was bitten, and the person was scratched in the hand, the skin was even torn. This gentleman threw the bitch into a reservoir of water, and washed her with plenty of soap, in such a manner that her whole body was covered with froth; & he performed the like operation on himself. At the end of some days, the two other dogs bitten, and who had not been washed, went mad, and were killed. The bitch experienced no harm, and died of old age, her master is still in excellent health. This event happened in the parish of Velle, canton of St. Sever, department of Landes.—N. Y. Col.

From the Believer's Pocket Companion.
I am the Lord thy God which teacheth thee to profit, which leadeth thee by the way that thou shouldst go. [Ps. cxliiii. 17.]
The Prophet Isaiah, speaking of the Lord Jesus Christ, in chap. ix, 6, justly styles him the wonderful counsellor; and this character he has sustained towards his people in all ages. If at any time thou art at a loss what steps to take, look to Jesus he will direct thee how to proceed, and in his own time deliver thee out of all thy troubles, he rejoices to hear his children cry unto him, and is always more ready to give, than we are to ask. It hath pleased the Father that in him (Christ Jesus) all fullness should dwell; and that not for himself, but to communicate to his members when they need supplies. Dost thou want wisdom? apply to the Lord; he alone can furnish thee: nay there is no good thing, either for time or eternity, but Christ hath it to bestow; therefore, let not Satan, the world, nor thine own wicked heart, prevent thy applying unto him. He only can teach thee to profit, and lead thee, by the way that thou shouldst go.
Thus shall you pass this desert land, Pressing, with zeal towards the prize,
Till you receive the glad command To dwell with Christ above the skies.

PRAYERS.
Let them be as frequent as our wants; and our thanksgivings as our blessings.

Our readers are already acquainted with the fact, that beef, butter and potatoes have been imported into New-York, Philadelphia and Baltimore, in the course of the spring. It is an extraordinary fact, that these articles, notwithstanding the freight, insurance, duties, &c. have been sold lower than similar articles of domestic growth, and yet have yielded to the importer a handsome mercantile profit.
We understand, that a Company is now forming in this city to import a full cargo of butter from Ireland, for this market in the ensuing autumn. It is believed that the Company will be able to supply our citizens with as good butter as is made in any part of our country, and at a considerably reduced price. And one of our most respectable Brewers has informed us that himself and others are now making arrangements to import their barley and hops from England.

According to Russian official accounts, the number of men and horses belonging to Russia, and their allies, which fell in battle, or perished from cold in different parts of Russia, were—
213,516 men,
93,816 horses,
Exclusive of many others, either burned or buried, of which no account was taken.

A FACT!
As ingenuity and perseverance, are traits peculiarly obvious in the native sons of America, it may not be uninteresting to the enterprising Mechanic, and citizens in general, to publish the following fact, which occurred in Fitchburg, this day:
Captain Zachariah Sheldon, has hewed 300 feet of large pitch pine timber, complete; and taken off his own beard, "sleek and smooth," with the same broad-axe he used in hewing, in the space of 8 hours.

Stutgard, (Germany) May 26.
On the 20th, a violent storm, with a water-spout, broke over the villages of Blockengen & Hendorf. The water rushed in torrents from the mountains, upon the two villages. At Blockengen it carried off five houses, and all they contained, 18 were more or less damaged, and four persons drowned. At Hendorf one house was carried off, and four damaged; not only is the harvest destroyed, but the fields are covered with sand and gravel.
1500 houses have fallen down in the city of Szegeden, Hungary, having been undermined by the great rise of the river.

Proposals for Publishing,
A FAMILIAR, PLAIN AND EASY EXPLANATION OF THE LAWS OF WILLS AND CODICILS, AND OF THE LAWS OF EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS.
And also the Rules whereby Estates, both Real and Personal, Descend &c. are to be Distributed, in case no Will be made. With Instructions to every one to make his own Will; the necessary Form for that purpose; and the Forms of other Instruments relating to the Estates of Deceased Persons. The whole written as much as possible without the use of Law Words or Terms.

The original work whence this Compilation is derived, was, as this is chiefly intended for the benefit of those who are unacquainted either with the doctrines or the forms of law, and who wish to be instructed how to act, without being under the necessity of communicating the knowledge of their private concerns to any other person. This, among other considerations, has induced the author to compile this treatise, that a book may be always at hand, to which immediate application may be had in those cases of extreme necessity, when every moment is precious; and by means whereof many at least of those mistakes and omissions, now daily committed, may be avoided, law suits prevented, and the peace of families thereby secured. The compiler has in connexion with the original work, and in order to render the present system the more complete, incorporated therein that portion of the law of this state which is applicable to the estates of deceased persons.
