THE PLEASURES OF TIPE.

All fac at the fift of my door,

When the evening was veeping its tears,
I thought of those french, now no more,
Those french shar have faded with years! Time was, when I cagerly flow,

Toembrace each delight that prefented : But I ne'er thought of heaven, or you ... Who with tears at my Jolly relented! The phantom's bewitching attite,

So enraptured and first my fense, Fhat I follow'd with hally defire, Nor, halted on any pretence! As it went, I observ'd when it torn'd,

On its forchead was written defpair, Unt-relax Leould not, for I burn'd. and Piliought my Elyffan was there. To mosth'd, and I grasp'd, but it find— for it vanish'd in blackies of gloom; it led to the house of the dead, Then enter'd its honible tomb!

Now I turn'd to retrace back my way, But forrows lay firew'd o'er the ground! I.C. ight for the light of the day, Not'a glimmering taper was found!

I groped in darknet's and woe, Each obfiacle laid in my way; I pray'd-and my God deign'd to flrow, the reflection of light in a ray!

Oh! if ever I wander ogain
In the wide-ipseading maze of delpair;
M, feelings can never fulfain, Nor friendthip can folace me there ! Ah! the time that is loft, shall the thought Sall hang on the mind with fuch weight. Shall things that are here and are not, Such longing defires create. Let meever dereft the vain firm.

the nomp and the peatures of life; If the pleatures of life only flow, brome rruption, and felly, and frife! Tho' the night is far thent-yet I mourn, In force I werp and I figh;

I weep for the days that are gore.

From a Savannah paper. WENS.

Persons afflicted by this evil will find relief from the directions con tained in the annexed article. Simple as the remedy appears, it is nevertheless an effectual cure. We are informed by a gentleman now in this city, that within the last 12 months he was cured of a wen in the short space of twelve days, by the following application:

Effectual Cure for Wens,

Having had a wen of a large size and long standing upon the side of my face and below my right ear, h was informed by different people, that if I would apply common salt and water to it, I should get rid of it. In Auguts, 1799, I put a quantity of salt and water into a saucepan, and boiled it for 4 minutes, with which I bathed the surface frequently, while it continued warm, as also after it became cold, as often as ten or twelve times daily; always stirring up the salt deposited at the bottom of the basin, and incorporating it again with the water before I applied it. On the 11th day after the first application, while shaving, I observed a small discharge, which, assisted by a gentlepressure the whole contents were soon emptied without the smallest pain and without blood.

Being informed of some others who had been benefitted in like manner from the same simple applications and knowing myself of some late instances, under my own immediate direction, I feel it a duty thus to make it public; being convinced it can produce no bad effect, and every person having it in their power to make the trial, at the same time I beg leave to caution, that no one should be disheartened at the length of time it may be necessary to continue the application, as in some cases it has required 3 or 4 months, though in the last only 30 days; but in all without pain or inconvenience of any kind, or any previous notice of the discharge till it actually took place.

From the Philadelphia Guzette. CERTAIN CURE FOR THE BITE OF A MAD DOG.

Estract from a work of much cele brity in London, entitled the Medical and Chirurgical Review. It is attested that after an experience of thirty eight years, it was never known to fail of a cure.

A receipt of John Webb's for the bite of a Mad Dog, taken from the original by James Webb, son of the above John Webb deceased.

Take of the leaf of a tender bud of rue half a large tea cup full, when cut quite small, the cup to hold about a quarter of a pint beer measure, take the some quantity of large box, or common garden box, cut this small, add nine leaves of red sage, cut small, let them be without blemish. Take half a pint of new wheat meal from the mill, or good fine flour, and about one table spoonfull of yeast, mix it together as dough; take one third of it in new milk each morning.

This quantity for a man or woman; the same quantity for a sheep, hog or dog; -but for a cow or horse, take one cup full of rue cut small, and the same of box, but only nine leaves of sage; give this in milk or some other liquid.

Half this quantity will do of the rue and box for a cole or calf, but nine leaves of the sage.

My father has cured some men when mad, then he took one tea cup full of rue and one of box, and nine leaves of sage, boil it well a a pint of milk, and give it as quick as pos-

Half the quantity of rue and box for a small child, but in all cases no more or less than nine leaves of sage. Signed

JAMES WEBB.

Prevention of Hydrophobia .- We translate the following from the Journal de Commerce of May 17:

A new case is related which tends to prove that washing with soap has the efficacy of preventing the dreadful effects of canine madness. In 1736 a hound bit three dogs, at the moment when a person endeavoured to rescue a bitch from the furious tooth of the rabid animal, she was bitten, and the person was scratched in the hand, the skin was even torn. This gentleman threw the bitch into a reservoir of water, and washed her with plenty of soap, in such a manner that her whole body was covered with froth; & he performed the like operation on him. self. At the end of some days, the two other dogs bitten, and who had not been Washed, went mad, and were killed. The bitch experienced no harm, and died of old age, her master is still in exceilent health. This event happened in the parish of Vielle, canton of St. Sever, department of Lanues .- N. Y. Col.

From the Believer's Pocket Companion.
I am the Lord thy God which teacheth thee to profit, which leadeth thee by the roug that thou shouldst [Ps. xlviii. 17.]

The Prophet Isaiah, speaking of the Lord Jesus Christ, in chap. Ix, 6, justly styles him the wonderful counsellor; and this character he has sustained towards his people in all ages. If at any time thou art at a loss what steps to take, look, to Jesus he will direct thee how to proceed, and in his own time deliver thee out of all thy troubles, he rejoices to hear his children cry unto him, and is always more ready to give, than we are to ask. It hath pleased the Father that in him (Christ Jesus) all fullness should dwell; and that not for himself. but to communicate to his members when they need supplies. Dost thou want wisdom? apply to the Lord, he alone can furnish thee: nay there is no good thing, either for time or eternity, but Christ hath it to bestow; therefore, let not Satan, the world, nor thine own wicked heart, prevent thy applying unto him. He only can teach thee to profit, and lead thee by the way that thou shouldst go. Thus shall you pass this desert land, PRAYERS. Let them be as frequent as our wants; and our thanksgivings as oe disc! Our readers are already acquaint; ed with the fact, that beef, butter; and patatoes have been imported into New-York, Phitadelphia and Baltimore, in the course of the spring. It is an extraordinary fact; that these articles, notwithstanding the freight, insurance, duties, &c. have been sold lower than similar articles of domestic growth, and yet have yielded to the importer a handsome mercantile profit.

We understand, that a Company is now forming in this city to import a full cargo of butter from Ireland, for this market in the ensuing autumn. It is believed, that the Company will be able to supply our citizens with as good butter as is made in any part of our country, and at a considerably reduced price. And one of our most respectable Brewers has informed us that himself and others are now making arrangements to import their barley and hops from England.

According to Russian official accounts, the number of men and horses belonging to Buo aparte and his allies, which fell in battle, or perished from cold in different parts of Russia, were-

As ingenuity and perseverance, are traits peculiarly obvious in the native sons of America, it may not be uninteresting to the enterprizing Mechanics, and citizens in general, to publish the following fact, which occurred in Fitchburg. this day :

Captain Zachariah Sheldon, has hewed 300 feet of large pitch pine timber, complete; and taken off his own beard, "fleek and smooth," with the same broad axe he used in hewing, in the space of 8 hours. Fitchburg, July 11, 1816.

Stutgard, (Germany) May 26. On the 20th, a violent storm, with a water-spout, broke over the villages of Blockengen & Hendori. The water rushed in torrents from the mountains, upon the two villages. At Blockengen it carried off five houses, and all they contained, 18 were more or less damaged, and four persons drowned. At Hendorff one house was carried off, and four damaged; not only is the harvest destroyed, but the fields are covered with sand and gravel.

1500 houses have fallen down in the city of Szegeden, Hungary, having been undermined by the great rise of the river.
