To the Electors of the Congressional District, composed of the counties of Stafford, King George, Westmereland, Richmond, Northam ton and Lancaster.

fellow-citizens! I declare myself a candidate for the honour of representing you in the next congress. As I am actuated by no sordid motive, I shall not attempt, by pretensions, to glide into your confidate, or to overreach your good sinse. I profess what I feel a deire to advance your welfare, an abition to be distinguished by your reference, and a devotion to the the principles of our constitution. Between my competitors and mytelf, judge as citizens of one common country, not as members of adverse parties. I ask no more. If you inberit the freeborn spirit of your faers; if your bosoms beat with the pere patriotism which created this republic, and by which alone it can be preserved, you will extend this junice to me, and discharge this dity to your country.

Every well organized government depends for its duration, upon the hee exercise of its functions. The state is kept sound by the brisk action of its constitutional powers throwing off external, and expelling intestine griefs. The maxim dedutible from this proposition acquires force in proportion to the distresses of the community to which it is applied. How impressively then sust a reference to the situation of our own country, urge us to its ob-But let us not look back. Let us laget the policy, which in spite of our valour, our victories and good nune, robbed war of its glories, ad stripped her blessings from face. Let us close the annals of misgovernment and if possible arrest practice. To get a clear innight the tondition of a country, the eddiest way is to examine its fiwaces can nothing tonehes in so am points, ithe interests, feelings and habits of a people, or so fully sticte the sprit and character of their man An enormous public absenting an immense reve-

a degraded currency—aid to this, that the demands of the general government this year amount to the prodigious sum of forty-two millions, and you have an impurfect view of our finances. Remember too, that the farmer is bowed down with a weight of bounties, to foster premasure and pernicious manufactures. Can you behold with indifference this scene of ruin? Wastede by war, scourged by pestilence, overrun by the troops of the treasury; and threatened with famine, will you still be the dupe of demagagues -the prey of stockjobbers?

That a nation may be poor, and yet free, is true. Greece, Italy & Switzerland, afford exampels. But can that nation be said to be free, whose poverry is not the effect of nature, but of Legislative obstruction, and complicated fiscal extorti-on? The cterms of the question convey its answer. You will be told that these grievances are temporary, and rour complaints will be lulled with are mises relief. It is of one of the aris of dominion to suspend oppression, and of its parasites to persuade, that relenting tyranny is reviving freedom, and that misgated rapaci-ty is actual justice. In republican governments, the right of the people to elect their enief magistrate, is essential to the commonwealth, and dear to the citizen. But of this right, as if dangerous from its importance, we have been deprived by the strata-gems of faction. Our presidents are no longer elected—they are ap-pointed by caucuses. Even the other day, a conventicle of this sort, a fragment of Congress, proclaimed a successor to Mr. Madison. Yes, fellow-citizens, the right of filling the office in which the dignity, the power, and the mercy of the nation is represented, is usurped by the very men who have since, in the wilds of the west, begged pasdon for an act of public roopery. Thus they fasten on the heart of the constitution, and shoot and ramify corruption thro every member of the nation. From the American people their proudest privilege is torn. The eagle of the empire s unplumed. Where is your respect for right; your love of virtue, the vital air of liberty ?-where your consciousness of sovereign power? Is it to sleep for ever, like a sword in its scabbard? The best way to prevent evil is to remove its cause. You need not be told, that party spirit is the source of all our woes. Arouse from its domination, and with the favour of heaven, they vanish. The occasion calls for diligence, as well as decision. Cases soon run anto rules; and examples of folly in one administration, may become precedents for crime in another. Open your eyes and your hearts to the public good. When men are equally honest and patriotic, employ the services of the most capable. A new administration approaches. A judicious choice of representatives by the people, may make it a pros-perous one. Disdained contribute to the disastrous triumphs of a party. There can be no doubt that the whole strength of the advocates of the caucus nomins tion was brought out. They omitted neither threats nor persuasion, they made their appeal to passion and to prejudice, and yet of this vast population they were able to bring but 1139 voters to the Poll!—Yet the mouth piece of this diminutive faction has had the miblushing impudence to assure his credulous dupes that he and they were sure of success, and boasted of a glorious victory before the battle had begun They are fallen, never, we hope, to rise again. A gentleman just from that state, informs us, that the distinguished stand made by the Aurora against caucusers and corrup-tion, and tyranny and hypocrisy, and the whole system of Machiavelian fraud and Walpolean deception, &c. is rewarded not only by an immense increase of patronage to that establishment, but by new era of correct thinking and inde pendent conduct on the part of the republicans. The votes of that state have or years been regularly betrayed to or purchased (secundum artem) by the Virginia managers. He was raised the property of Nicholas Carroll, esq. late of the city of Annapolis, and sold to a Mr. Geo. Howard of Baltimore, from whom I purchased him. Sam is about 30 years of age, 5 feet, 7 or 8 inches high, slender made, narrow between the shoulders, rather of a yellowish color—and long face. His under jaw rather longer than the upper one, and eyes having considerable white in them, His feet are ill shaped with large lumps on the inside of them, by some called the pudding or gut foot. He makes some pretensions to religion—but being an uncommonliar, may be easily detected on that head. Is a great coward. It is quite likely he has obtained a pass but without the county seal I should suppose this would have no weight; his cloathing was country tow linen shirts and trowsers, and a long snuff colored cloth coat. It is expected he is lurk-ing about the city of Baltimore, or at the farm of Mr. George Howard, a-bout 13 miles from the city of Balti more, or at the farm of Nicholas Carroll, esq. called the Caves, or in the South River. .
