CDE POR CHRISTMAS . 1816.

Hark, from Heaven in joy descending, . Swells the scraph's glowing song, With the hymned triumph blending Warm from man's enraptur'd tongue! Hark! the glad hosanna soaring Kindles on the answering sky. Wide o'er earth in gladness pouring Notes of love and harmony !

Hail the morn, in beauty blooming, Bright with heav'n's refulgent blaze, Night's unfathom'd caves illuming With its renovating rays; When with loveliness resplendent, Judah's star of glory shone, When, in purity transcendent Jesus left his Father's throne!

Hov'ring o'er the shepherd's slumbers Angels told the joyful news. As their soul entrancing numbers Linger'd on the midnight dews; Glorious, as to heav'n returning, Rose the choir from mortal sight, Lovely in the east was burning, Christ's triumphant morning bright Guiding to the hope of ages From the orient realm afar, Sweetly to the eastern sages Shone a heav'n directed star With unearthly splendor gleaming Flam'd its bright and biessed ray, Nations hail'd its radiance beaming-Star of an eternal day!

To the lands of sorrow weeping Shone the Saviour's soothing light, Man, before in darkness sleeping. Furn'd to him his raptur'd sight. Earth's wild waste of desolation Bloom'd anew with heavenly flow

As the tidings of salvation Roll'd along the blissful hours.

Brought again to life and heaven, Man lifts up his drooping head, Paradise again is given.

Verdure blooms beneath his tread. Heav'n expands its massy portal To receive him exil'd long. There to swell the strain immortal Mingled with the angelic throng.

Loud the joyous authem raising, By his Saviour's side he sings, Mid the pomp celestial blazing, Borne upon seraphic wings ; There the endless chorus pealing Sweeps thro' heav'n's extended reign-

Countless saints and angels kneeling Echo the triumphant strain!

Mortals! join the authem glorious! Nations! swell the lofty cry ! Sing the Lamb of God victorious Beaming from his Father's sky! Oh! your high salvation prizing, Mingle in the rapturous lay, Hail the morning's lovely rising.

Hark! from Heav'n in joy descending, Swells the scraphs' glowing song, With the hymned triumph blending Warm from man's enraptur'd ongue!

That proclaims the Saviour's day !

Hark ! the glad hosanna soaring Kindles on the answering sky. Wide o'er earth in gladness pouring Notes of love and harmony! Bristol, R. I. Dec. 25, 1816.

> From the Phil. True American. Retrospection of the Year.

. This day another year commenccs, and bids us remember that time on his rapid pinions, is swiftly bearing us from the phemeral stage of existence, to the solemn silence of the grave. Yet a few more years, yes, perhaps a few days, and the spot that now knows many of us, shall know us no more. The last sad obsequies shall be paid; & save among the little circles of friendship, our memories shall be handed over to oblivion, and the world for get that we have ever been. We do not wish to awaken gloomy sen sations in the mind, upon the day when men are wont to receive congratulations. We sincerely congratulate our patrons on this New Year's morn, and wish them a continuance of every blessing they can desire of receive; but we may be suffered to invite the attention for our fellow greatures to a retrospection of the departed year, and when we look inward upon all the laulte. which during that period, we may morality and resolve upon amendment. Let him who has rioted in dissipation, look with sincere abhorrence on, his revelings and resolve to forego his midnight orgics for a nobier life ; let the mind enfeebted by intoxication, be restored to vigour by future forbearance, and him who has been lost in the deceitful wiles of the wanton, remember that her ways are the road to death and her steps take hold of ruin. He wife would stake his all opon a cast and stand the hazard of the die; may calt a retractive observation, and from the ruin attendant on such a course, learn to forego the dice-box, the billiard and the faro. Strange nfatuation! Such gain as this profuces is obtained by robbery! Not by the common robber, who seeks the spot where undefended, wealth becomes an easy prey, but by the wily thicf, who watches the moment when the admonitions of reason are lost in the wortex of passion, tolead his victimio the gaming table, where every thing is staked, and in a moment lost forever! Honout, wealth, domestic peace and all the social virtues are trampled upon, till the deluded wretch closes the eventful tragedy in saicide! Let us avoid it as we wish to prosper. In short, by a review of the past, men are made better, for the vicious cannot reflect on vice without abhorrence, and the good man by retrospection is confirmed in his determination to abstain from evil. May we, then, this morning resolve on future emendation, and be enabled to hope, ere the opening of another year, that our hearts have been made better, and the principles of religion and morality implanted more firmly in our boious.

20 Dollars Reward.

The above reward will be paid for lodging in gaol, or bringing home ne gro Sophia, a bright mulatto woman. about eighteen years old, well grown, she has large grey eyes, and her hair rather light. NOTICE

A malicious lie having been indes triously propagated, that I had been as low as Huntingdon, in Calvert county, endeavouring to purchase to county, endeavouring to purchase a corn; that I had stated, that it was for Col. Mercer's family, and that I had actually agreed with one man for the barrels, but afterwards insisting that it should be delivered at the core he hargain was broken off. I do hereby ertife, that the above report is in all its parts untrue. I have not been in Calvert since July last, and then only for 36 hours, and that for a very of ferent purpose, nor have I ever offered to purchase corn of any person in Cal-vert, or any where else, for nine years

Thomas Leitch

West River, Jan. 6, 1817. I should not have noticed the above contemptible and groundless falsehood had it concerned myself only; but at the desire of Mr. Leitch, whom it my be intended to injure at this time when an alarm exists from a real scarcity, I readily certify. that I never gave him, or any one else, any authority or direcion to purchase corn for me, either directly or indirectly, for several year John F. Mercer.
