Departed this life, on Sunday last, in the 41st year of his age, the Rev. John V. WEYLIE A, Menro-fersor of the Latin and Greek languages in St. John's College y'a ples and upright conduct command ed the respect of all who knew him. He was born in Cecil county in this state, and was indepted for his education to the benevolence of the virtuous Washington, and is mentioned in terms of respect in one of the biographical memoirs of that illustrious man. At an early period of his life by d-voted himself to the study of divinity, and was ordained to the office of Deacon in the P. E. Church, by Bishop Madison of Virginia. His learning and his talents promised to render him a valuable equisition to the church, and afforded pleasing hopes of his future usefulness in the Christian ministry But these hopes were frustrated by an unfortunate impediment in his speech, which obliged him to relinquish the sacred profession in which he had engaged. Disappointed in his views of the ministry, he engaged in the instruction of youth, an employment the most consonant to his disposition and his feelings. He was for several years the principal of a respectable Academy in Frederick-town from which he removed, in Septem ber last, to take charge of the de partment which had been assigned him in St. John's. Short as was his continuance in this situation he fully manifested, by the manner in which he discharged the duties of it, that his character as a teacher was of the highest order; he was assiduous and attentive, and possessed the happy talent of conciliating the affections and commanding the respect of his pupils, more by the influence of benevolence than by the exercise of authority. His learning was solid and profound, and his mind was enriched with the choicest treasures of classic lore. As a man, and as a christian, he was exemplary in all the various relations and duties of life; the recollection of his virtues, while it the pain felt in announcing his dis-By order. solution, will afford to his afflicted
