more congratulations, and my best wishes for the success of your administration, which has commenced under circumstances peculiarly favourable to yourself and to our beloved country. I have the honour to be, with the highest personal respect, and esteem,
Dear Sir,
Your most obedient servant,
WILLIAM PLUMET,
James Monroe, President of the U. S. now at Concord, N. H.
MONTPELIER, (Ver.) July 29.
ARRIVAL OF THE PRESIDENT.
On Thursday morning last, at 11 o'clock, the President of the U. S. with his suite, entered our little village, and received, with apparent satisfaction, the respectful congratulations of a large concourse of the citizens of Washington County. At 10 he was met and welcomed by the Committee of Arrangements, Mr. Stiles in Berlin. The procession was then formed, under the direction of the Marshals, and proceeded to Montpelier in the following order:—
Cavalry,
two companies, under Capt. Bailey and Young,
Officers in uniform,
Committee of Arrangements,
Marshal, (Col. James H. Langdon.)
PRESIDENT and SUITE,
Marshal, (Col. Andrew Dewey.)
Carriages
Citizens on Horseback.
A little before 11, a discharge of artillery announced the near approach of the Chief Magistrate of the Nation. On entering the village, he was greeted with the most cordial and delighted with his carriage, and proceeded with the cavalcade, on horseback, to the Academy, through the main street, lined on each side by citizens, under direction of Joseph Howes, Esq., returning to the head of State street, the President dismounted, was received by the First Light Company, commanded by Lieut. E. P. Walton, & conducted to the State-house under national salute from the Washington Artillery.
In front of the State-house, between three and four hundred Messrs and Misses, Students of the Academy, & members of the schools in the village, dressed in neat uniforms, each tastefully decorated with ribbons from the field of nature, were arranged in two lines facing each other, in perfect order. Precious to the arrival of the escort, the two companies of cavalry, with an expedition and regularity which did them honour, had placed themselves at a proper and convenient distance on the left of the juvenile procession.
The President walked through the assemblage of youth, uncovering his head, and bowing as he passed, entered the State-house under a fanciful arch of evergreens, emblematic we trust, of the duration of our liberties: on one side of which are these words—"July 4, 1776," the other—"Trenton, Dec. 26, 1776." When in front of the house, the portico of the second story, the Hon. James Fisk, Chairman of the Committee of Arrangements, presence of the military and a great concourse of assembled citizens, delivered the following ADDRESS.
The citizens of Montpelier and vicinity, have directed their committee to present you their respectful salutations and bid you a cordial welcome.
The infancy of our settlements, and our progress in the arts and sciences something behind most of our sister States, but we shall not deny some claim to a share of the ardent love of liberty, and the rights of Man, that attachment to the honour and interest of our countrv, which now so distinguish the American character; while the hills of Hubbardton, the heights of Balls Bluff, and the plains of Saratoga, are admitted to witness our favour.
Many of those we now represent, their lives in the Revolutionary contest, and permit us, Sir, to say, the value of this opportunity is greatly enhanced, by the consideration, that we now tender our respects to one who shared in all the hardships and dangers of that eventful period, which gave liberty and independence to our country; and we are unmindful that from that period until now, every public act of your life evinces an unalterable attachment to the principles for which you then contended.

With such pledges we feel an unlimited confidence, that should your measures fulfil your intention, your administration under the guidance of Divine Providence, will be as prosperous and happy as its commencement is tranquil and promising; and that the honour, the rights and interests of the nation will pass from your hands unimpaired.
JAMES FISK,
For the Committee.
To this address the President made an affectionate and appropriate reply, which was received with three times three animated cheers by the citizens.
The President then, with his suite, Committee, Marshals and Clergy, visited the schools in the Representatives room, which was adorned with maps and globes drawn by the scholars—while, the front of the gallery and chandelier displayed a beautiful variety of vines and ornaments. The scholars received him by rising, and Mr. Hill preceptor of the Academy, by saying, "I present to your Excellency the finest blossoms and fairest flowers that our climate produces"—he replied "They are the finest nature can produce." After inspecting the maps and globes, with approbation, he retired—was received at the door, by the Washington Artillery, commanded by Capt. Timothy Hubbard, and escorted through a line of citizens extending from the State-house to the dwelling of Willis I. Caldwell, Esq. where he partook of a cold collation served up with admirable taste and elegance.
The schools then formed a procession preceded by the First Light Company, with instrumental music, & moved to the Academy. In passing the President's quarters they saluted him, the masters by uncovering their heads, the misses by lowering their parasols.
The president having signified his pleasure to dispense with the escort of cavalry, after taking an affectionate leave of the committee of Arrangements, ascended his carriage and resumed his journey to Burlington.
From the North American Review.
Preamble to a letter from the Dey of Algiers to the President of the United States—translated from the Arabic.
[This curious specimen of the modern regal style of the East, was sent to us from the Mediterranean, by a gentleman who was at Algiers soon after the Dey's letter was written, and who was acquainted with our consul at that place. We can vouch therefore for its genuineness, and the accuracy of the translation.]
With the aid and assistance of Divinity, and in the reign of our sovereign, the asylum of the world, powerful and great monarch, transactor of all good actions, the best of men, the shadow of God, Director of the Good Order, king of kings, supreme ruler of the world, emperor of the earth, emulator of Alexander the Great, possessor of great forces, sovereign of the two worlds and of the seas, king of Arabia and Persia, emperor, son of an emperor and conqueror, Mamood Khan, (may God end his life with prosperity and his reign be everlasting and glorious) his humble and obedient actual sovereign, governor, and chief of Algiers, submitted forever to his imperial majesty's noble throne, Omar Pasha (may his government be happy and prosperous):—
To his majesty the Emperor of America, its adjacent and dependent provinces and coasts, and wherever his government may extend, our noble friend, the support of kings of the nations of Jesus, the pillar of all christian sovereigns, the most glorious amongst the princes, elected amongst many lords and nobles, the happy, the great, the amiable James Madison, emperor of America, (may his reign be happy and glorious, and his life long and prosperous.) wishing him long possession of the seat of his blessed throne, and long life and health amen; hoping that your health is in good state, I inform you that mine is excellent (thanks to the Supreme being,) constantly addressing my prayers to the Almighty for your felicity, &c.
Slavery of the Christians at Algiers.
In a letter to a member of Parliament, by Walter Croker, Esq. of the Royal navy, published in London, 1816, there is the following description of the horrible treatment of the christian slaves, by the Algerine pirates.
"The bani, or bagnio which is in one of the most narrow streets of Algiers, has nothing remarkable in its outside appearance, but inside it is the most remarkable house of misery imagination can conceive. On entering, the gate there is a small square yard for the slaves to walk about in; there they are on every Friday locked up, and as they do not work there, that day, they are allowed nothing but water from the Algerine government. We then ascended a stone stair case, and round the galleries were rooms with naked earthen floor and damp stone walls. They have an iron grated window and a strong door; two of these rooms have in each of them twenty four things, like cot frames with twigs interwoven in the middle. These are hung up one above another, round the room, and those slaves, who are able to pay for the luxury of such a bed, are alone admitted."

"I am happy in wanting a comparison in any part of the world, where I have been, for this abominable prison, and those deadly cells, but if they had a little more light, I think they would most resemble a house where the negroes of the West India Islands keep their pigs. I must add that the pestilential smell made Mr. Stansbury so ill that he nearly fainted; and Dr. McConnell and myself were not much less affected."
The food of the slaves consists of two black loaves of half a pound each which is "their daily bread." Neither meat nor vegetables do they ever taste, those excepted who work at the Marino, who get two olives per day with their bread, and others at the Spanish hospital, which the Spanish government to this day supports, as well perhaps as it is able. In visiting this hospital, the floors of which were covered with unhappy beings of every age and either sex, I saw some few men, who looked almost sixty, and some children who could not be more than eight years old; the whole of them had their legs swelled and cut in such a manner, that we all thought they could not recover.— There also we saw some Sicilian girls, and some women. One poor woman burst into tears; told us, she was the mother of eight children and desired us to look at six of them who had been slaves with her for thirteen years. We left these scenes of horror, and in going into the country, I met the slaves returning from their labor. The clang of the chains of those who were heavily ironed called my attention to their extreme fatigue and dejection: they are attended by infidels with large whips.

LAND FOR SALE.
The subscriber will dispose of at Public Sale, on Monday the 5th of September next (if not previously disposed of at private sale,) Two Valuable Tracts of Land, lying in South River Neck. The first tract, the one called Colliersby; and the other Brower's Change Upheld, being connected, contain 300 acres more or less, making a fourth sufficiently extensive for the generality of farmers or planters in that neighbourhood. The quality of this land is equal to most of the lands in South River Neck, and may, by the application of clover and plaster (the latter of which is particularly adapted to this soil) be made in a few years inferior to none in the county. The improvements upon said farm have been very good, and it possesses every necessary building except a dwelling house, which was destroyed by fire last Spring, and may be rebuilt at an inconsiderable expense, as the cellar walls and gable end remain uninjured. There is an abundance of oak, chestnut and pine wood, the latter of which is principally large enough for cord-wood, and there is almost an inexhaustible quantity; there are also two very fine young apple orchards which yield in the greatest abundance, likewise a variety of other choice and valuable fruits. The said land enjoys the advantages of the navigable waters of both South & Rhode rivers, it being bounded by the former, and contiguous to the latter, within a quarter of a mile. As it is presumed that those wishing to purchase will examine the above lands, before the day of sale, the subscriber deems it unnecessary to give a more minute description of the advantages and improvements of the same.
The terms of sale will be one half of the purchase money cash, and a liberal credit, with a good security for the balance, with interest from the day of sale.
JOSEPH MAYO.
August 14.
N. B. It would be most agreeable to the subscriber to sell the above land at private sale, as it may save the parties some trouble.

PROPOSALS FOR PUBLISHING BY SUBSCRIPTION, AN ORIGINAL WORK, TO BE ENTITLED, A JOURNAL of the loss of the BRIG COMMERCE, of Hartford (Ct.)—Capt. RILEY: OF THE CAPTIVITY OF CAPTAIN RILEY, who was for two months a slave; AMONGST THE ARABS; and of the Slavery and Sufferings of the Author FOR NINETEEN MONTHS; Among the same People; with accounts of the MANNERS, CUSTOMS, & HABITS, and a DESCRIPTION OF THE COUNTRY OF THE ARABS.
BY ARCHIBALD ROBINS.
THE narratives and journals of Travellers, Adventurers, the Shipwrecked and Prisoners, are often told with exaggerations, and not unfrequently condemned as deceiving, rather than informing the world.— The author of the proposed JOURNAL is a citizen of Connecticut, and one of the suffering crew of Captain RILEY. He has seen life in a sphere uncommon to his countrymen—he has endured miseries uncommon to human nature. By the blessings of a merciful Providence he has survived to detail his sufferings to the world. If truth will excite astonishment, and even occasion incredulity, he cannot help it: but he is resolved to tell a plain unvarnished tale of extreme suffering—of the manners, customs and habits of the extraordinary people among whom he endured it. He will submit it to the world, hoping that the liberality of the public will, in a small degree, compensate him for his suffering, by reading the tale of it.
TERMS.
I. The work shall constitute a duodecimo volume of about three hundred pages, to be handsomely bound.
II. The price to subscribers will be one dollar.
III. Those who procure twelve subscribers, and become responsible for the payment, shall have a third part gratis. Subscribers on papers to be returned to William S. Marsh, Hartford, by the first day of October next.
Subscriptions received at this office.
