The Gazette of Lausanne contains an in teresting account of some particulars relating to the interment of Madam de Stael, and to the latter periods of her life. The known intimacy of that lady with M. de Rocca, a young Swiss gentleman of talent and great personal beauty, had thrownsus-picion on the nature of their connexion, which by the opening of her will have been satisfactorily removed. It appears that Madam de Stael, without assuming his name had been for some years the wife of Rocca.

By her will she tauthorised M. de Stael,
and her daughter the Duchess de Broglie,
to proclaim their marriage to the world,
and to present it their relatives a son who was its offspring. We recollect to have heard that about three years since, when M de Rocca, as at now appears, in badinage, was before a company of familiar friends pressing Manam de Stael to make him her husband, afte replied, "Non, mon cher Rucca; vordriez vous que je vous sacrifie-rais un non vraiment Europeen?" "No, my dear locca; would you have me to sa-ccifice to you a name that belongs to Eutope?" This speech throws light on the conceasurent of her marriage. Madam de Stael Liu above a million of dollars.

Delphin inn, Cambrigh, England—

We have purposely farborn from giving any account of the remarkable sobterraneous treasure lately discovered in this place, in the hope that the working by whom it was brought to light, would be induced to give a faithful narrative of the transaction. Some part of this treasure, however, still remains consigned to the melting pot; we shall not, therefore, longer delay gratifying the curiosity of our readers.
On Saturday, August 23, as some workmen were digging for the foundation of a building, in the cellar of the Old Dolphin Inn, below the spot once occupied by the late Alderman Newling's coal yard, about four feet from the surface, they struck into soil of black mould, above which the round had been artificially raised, probaground had been arthreadly raised, proba-bly when the Dolphin Ion was exected. He was found the mouldered remains of a bather bag, out of which there fell jing-ling. Darcel of gold rings, containing pre-cious stones, in very ancient setting; also some old silver coins, and other articles of value, the whole of which will perhaps no be known. The workmen beginning after wards to quarrel about the booty, news o the discovery reached the owner of the estate, who has recovered a part of the property. It consists of curious reliques; which have remained buried five hundred and rifty years.

MERICAN MISSILE AT BUSINAY. Extract of a letter from the Rev. Horatio Bardwell, dated Bombay, Feb. 8, 1817. to the Rev. William Fisher, of Stamford, (Con.)

"Whether we shall ever see the fruit of our labours or not, God only knows; & we are willing to leave it in his hands. If good is done among this people, surely the excellence of the nower must be acknowledged. stane among this people, surely the excel-lency of the power must be acknowledged to be of God; for the strength of superstition and idolary is beyond description. Within a mile of our house there are probably thirey temples consecrated to idols. Almost very hour in the day may be heard the rayers and supplications of the multitude othese gods of wood and stone.

A few weeks ago I witnessed the swing

ing of two persons, as it is called, suspended

thooks thrust through the fleshy part of the back. The machine consists of a per-realicular post about twelve feet high. At the top of this was a pivot that sustained a orizontal pole; at one end of this the hooks exfastened, at the other end ropes were and to raise the hooks. The whole ma ore the first person was suspended, an old man, girded with a belt strung with little kells, and deformed with numerous badges of borrid superstition, seized a young kid hat was presented him, tore open the jugu-ar veins with his teeth, and like a mons er sucked the blood while the li tle animal was number of times round the car. They age, was quickly suspended on the hooks id the car was then drawn by the people a number of times round the yard, attended omtoms and shoutings of the multitude. After being drawn around about ten minutes, e was let down, and a woman suspended in esame manner. Neither of these persons covered the least signs of pain but see re-wholly at ease. When they are let down, emulitude passed around to touch them, the multitude passed around to touch them, is though some peculiar blessing or virtue was communicated. This painful ceremony was performed before a small temple, in conequence, and as the performance of certain ows voluntarily made by the performance of certain ows voluntarily made by the performance of certain ows voluntarily made by the performance of certain ows voluntarily made life the same are thus tormented. The next day two ther persons were suspended in the same and the persons were suspended in the same are arrived as a superformance of the same are the same as a superformance of the same are the s
