JAMES F. BRICE,

Attorney at Law, has just published A Familiar Explanation of the Law of Wills and Codicils, and of the Law of Executors and Administrators, and the Rules whereby estates both real and personal descend, and are to be distributed, in case they be made, with instructions to every one who makes his own will, the necessary forms for that purpose, and the forms of other instruments relative to the estates of deceased persons. The whole written as plain as possible without the use of legal words or terms.
The original work, whence this compilation is derived, was, as this author chiefly intended for the benefit of those who are unacquainted either with the doctrine or the forms of law, and who wish to be instructed how to act, and who are desirous of understanding the necessity of communicating the knowledge of their private concerns to any other person. This, among other considerations, has induced the author to compile this treatise, that a book may be always at hand, to which immediate application may be had in those cases of emergency, when every moment is precious; and by which the mistakes and errors now daily committed, may be prevented, and the necessary family business secured. The compiler, in connexion with the original work, has had the honor to render the present system more complete, by inserting therein that portion of the law of this state which is applicable to the estates of deceased persons, and has joined thereto a digest of the legal provisions.
This work may be had at this office, at Mr. George Shaw's book store in this city, and at the book store of Coale, Baltimore.

The editors of the American General Gazette are requested to insert the above in their respective papers once a week for the space of one month, that they should not in-

MARYLAND GAZETTE.

Annapolis, Thursday, Nov. 27.

The trial pending in Baltimore county court since Friday morning, was an action brought by the Rev. GEORGE DASHFIELD against CHAS. WORTINGTON and WIFE, for certain words alleged to have been spoken of the plaintiff, tending to injure him in his professional character as a minister of the gospel. The defence in effect was, that the words charged to have been spoken were true; and that they were not spoken with any malicious intent. The pleadings of the counsel were concluded about half past two o'clock; and the jury, after retiring about ten minutes, returned a verdict for the defendants. The other actions commenced at the same time with the above for similar charges, by the same plaintiff, have been discontinued. The above brief notice of the result of the several actions has been suggested, for the purpose of rendering unnecessary any other publication on the subject.—Gaz.

ANOTHER DUPE.

On Thursday, a Mr.  and a Mr.  in compliance with the proclamation of his Excellency the Governor, went to the sacred ground of Hoboken, to make their offerings at the shrine of the goddess of duelling.

In perfect good nature they fired two rounds; on the third,  fell. The ball entered his right side, lodged in his left. His life was at first despaired of; but there is now said to be a prospect of his recovery, and of his being able to shed more blood in so noble a cause! The origin of the dispute is said to have been as trivial as usual. In short, every part of the affair was conducted in a style truly worthy of "men of honour." They now receive the meed of their heroic action—public notice—notice as men of unquestioned and unquestionable honour! The heart of an amiable partner is indeed agonized at the sight of her husband's living martyrdom to this barbarous custom—

But he bids her remem'ber the blood she sees flowing washes away every vestige of dishonour; and to his son, who witnesses the scene, he says in prospect of what may await him, "I leave you an invaluable legacy, a father's reputation, spotless in the eyes of the world." The boy asks, "is it honourable in the sight of God?"
No answer.—To present arguments against duelling to a sober minded man, would be to insult both his understanding and his heart; and can there be no chain forged, to bind those madmen who practice it? Is the repetition of these foul blots on the human character attributable to the defect of the law, or its execution?—If the existing laws are not adequate to the prevention of this practice, in mercy to society, let there be a law enacted, which shall hang every man that shall, in any way be accessory to a duel. DREADFUL HURRICANE IN THE WEST INDIES.

From captain Williams, of the brig Louisa, from Antigua, we learn that a dreadful hurricane arose on the 21st ult. in the West Indies, the violence of which was particularly felt at St. Lucie, Barbadoes, Dominique, Martinique, and St. Vincent, where considerable damage was sustained by the snipping and raves generally.
At St. Lucie, the gale was more particularly severe. All the vessels in that port were entirely lost; the government house was blown down, and all within its walls, including the governor, his lady, and child, his staff, secretaries, servants, amounting in all to about 50 persons, were buried in its ruins. Not one survived the dreadful catastrophe. And still more horrible relate, the officers and soldiers' barracks, were, by the same pitiless blast, demolished, and all within its walls, at the time, about two hundred souls, were precipitated into eternity. All the estates of the island rendered a heap of ruins.
At Dominique, nearly the whole was inundated, and the destruction of property immense. Some few lives were lost. The island nearly desolated, and not learn of any vessels were lost.
At Martinique, about 50 sail of vessels were driven out to sea from Pierrefort principally Americans, and having no ballast, provisions, or other necessaries for a voyage, have probably been wrecked. Only one of the above vessels had been heard of (A French ship, which got in St. Barthelemy)—The estates here also were greatly damaged.

At St. Vincent, ten sail of vessels went on shore, and were nearly all lost.
Capt. Williams could not with certainty recapitulate all the horrors which marked this awful visitation. At Dominique and St. Vincent, as well as at St. Lucie, the devastation was so complete as to amount almost to annihilation. It will be many years at least, before those islands can be restored to their former condition.
A schr. from Philadelphia, bound to St. Barths. with wine and brandy, was lost on Barbuda reef, the crew and part of the cargo saved.
It was reported at Antigua that H. M. ship Antelope of 50 guns, Rear Adml. Harvey, was lost in the gale.—She sailed from Pigeon Island for Barbadoes, the night previous to the gale.

Augusta, (Geor.) Nov. 3.

We have no recent information from Gen. Gaines. The last accounts of his contemplated expedition against the hostile Florida Indians, left his whole regular force on their march for Fort Scott, which is in the vicinity of the unfriendly savages. It is not improbable but his approach will inspire such dread as to cause them to sue for peace, and thus prevent the effusion of blood.

From the Madrid Gazette.

Tunis, July 26.
The Tunisian sloop of war commanded by the admiral of this regency, Mustapha Rais, which went on a cruising on the 16th of March last, with another sloop and a schooner, came back on the 13th inst. having presumed to push as far as the Catagat, and to capture, on her return, 2 Hamburg ships within a short distance of the British coast.—The masters, and 6 men of their crews, whom Mustapha Rais kept on board his sloop as prisoners of war, were immediately confined by the Bashaws order, in the citadel of this city, called Gasp, where they remain altogether wretched and forlorn.
On the 22d and 24th inst his Britannic majesty's brig Satellite, and frigate Myrmidon, from Palermo & Malta, successively came in with dispatches for the consul. On the morning of the 25th, the captain of the frigate waited on the bashaw, and in the name of the prince regent, claimed the Hamburg prisoners (the ships having been recaptured, without the stricts, by the English frigate) — upon the ground that they had been taken within sight of the British coast; and at the same time called upon him to direct his corsairs henceforth to abstain, like the Algerines, from cruising in these waters.

Unawed by these demands, the bashaw answered the British consul, that, with respect to the Hamburg prisoners, he would not release them until after the arrival of the ships captured by his cruisers, and unjustly detained by the British government; and that, as to the limits which is wanted to be set to his corsairs, they had never cruised within sight of the British isles, and that therefore the injunction was useless—an evasive answer, which cloaks his sinister intentions!
The British consul, seeing the impossibility of prevailing upon the bashaw to comply with the prince regent's wishes, called for an ostensible and categorical note, which H. E. immediately gave him; and the consul delivered it to the commandant of the frigate, which directly sailed for Malta.

Proposals Required,

For deepening the navigation at the mouth of Severn River.

A bar that appears to be entirely of sand and mud, extending from Greenbury's point, interrupts the passage of large ships to the harbour of Annapolis—the channel required to be deepened will be about 1000 yards in length, and to be deepened from 19 feet water which it now averages at low tide, to 26 feet which is understood to be sufficient; no current obstructs the proposed work or threatens to injure it when done.
Written proposals from persons willing to undertake the work, specifying in what manner it is expected to be effected—on what terms, and in what time—who specifying the probable cost of the machinery to be employed, and if the same is to be provided for the purpose by the employers, will be thankfully received by
