

POETS CORNER.

LONG LIFE.

Bino, with tripping, nearly dead, His stomach sick, an aching lead, The aid of old Sangrado prays. The Doctor comes—"abstain from wine."

"And water drink, which I opine. "Will tend to lengthen, Sir, your days."

"Ay, by degrees," the patient cried, "I've no objection it be tried; 'But not at once, Sir, if you please; 'Yes Sir, at once!—would you desire, 'Were you to tumble in the fire, 'To be extracted by DOCTORS?"

Again he called—"Doctor," said he, "Is very well, and there's your fee—" "Prescribe no more, for I dissent—" "And yet I own your doctrine sound. "Three days I've tried, and these I found. "The longest days I ever spent!"

THE REFLECTOR.

The following wise and ingenious sayings of the poet, ought to be engraved as with the point of a diamond, and in legible characters, in the parsonage of every house in christendom.

"Who steals my purse, steals trash; 'Tis something, nothing; 'Twas mine, 'tis his, and has been slave to thousands; But he that filches from me my good name,

Who steals my name, steals nothing, And makes me poor indeed."

Most people when convened in social circles around the lighted hearth, dining board and tea table, occasionally talk of their absent friends, acquaintances and neighbors. They in common conversation serve for topics, together with winds, weather, and the news of the day; and if they esteem their fellow beings and love their souls, they will be very careful to not say ought to their disadvantage; but should the sly, obscure insinuation, or ill natured whisper be heard, they will always remember their short-comings and frailty; that they also have the frailties, & may yield to temptation in an unguarded hour; therefore ought not to judge hastily, nor to impute upon vile accusations, but adhere strictly to the holy injunction of our blessed Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, who taught his disciples to go in a brother, by telling him his fault alone, and not to treat him as a heather or a publican, until he refused to hear the church. O ye who profess the benign doctrines of the gospel of peace, and who have so often taught others the lovely lesson of humanity, christian benevolence, &c. and therefore are under the strongest ties to exemplify it in practice, have you, like good and faithful disciples, let yourselves be constrained by the love of God and your fellow men to expostulate with a calumniated brother, when the viperous tongue of slander raised false accusations against him, and strove to rob him of the immediate jewel of his soul? Is the spirit of true religion has actuated and prompted you to fill your stations, and your consciences whisper peace within, then all is well; for our happiness chiefly depends on the approbation of our consciences, and the advancement of our eternal welfare in the world to come—where flattery shall not be believed, & slanderers shall receive countenance from none but from him, who by way of eminence, is called the father of calumniators. Would to heaven that I could infuse into the hearts of my kind readers, that ardour I feel for the injured cause of humanity; but alas! I fear the dictates of reason, justice, humanity and religion, will scarcely be heard by the vile calumniator, who gratifies his appetite with false accusations, and afterwards makes an agreeable feast on the murdered reputation of his fellow beings—His "viperous tongue outvenoms all the worms of N. A.," his poisonous breath oft corrodes the warmest bosoms, and causes the innocent sufferer to answer severe and groundless charges, brought by those who have no right, either by the laws of God or man, to disseminate throughout a whole community, an unprovoked and wanton accusation, without the least shadow of truth; and no man is so virtuous as not to have those who envy a defect to despise him. Hence no societies can repel the blow; no innocence shield us from the assault; no virtue produce caution or generosity, can escape the tongue of the slanderer, which oft injures their sensibility, destroys their interest, and impedes their advancement in life. Sometimes a pious father, friend or benefactor is discarded, or suspected as a treacherous wretch, unworthy of love or confidence. Thus the hearts of parents, friends or benefactors, are oft wrung with grief, and their gray hairs brood down to the grave in sorrow. Sometimes the needy stranger, who is providentially cast among his brethren in a foreign land, is immediately assailed by the calumniator, stigmatized and represented as a vile impostor, or debauchee, not worthy the smiles of a humane and civilized community. Thus the streams of benevolence are frequently dried up, unassisted by the living fountain of Emmanuel's love, which affords a clearer light than that of nature, and is necessary to give a steady operation to the feelings of humanity, which ought always to keep pace with civilization in all countries; the idea which christianity inspires its real votaries with, is wonderfully adapted to promote universal hospitality and social love. Under this benign influence we should consider all men as our brethren, & of course receive the stranger within our gates with cordial kindness; but alas! the cruel insinuations of calumny oft causes the needy stranger to dwell in the vale of adversity, beside the bitter waters of affliction; his cup dashed with gall; his pillow planted with thorns, gleaned scanty and precarious bread in a land of freedom and plenty. Can all this be cherished by a civilized, christianized, independent, patriotic, sensible and philanthropic people, who truly value their liberty, and who possess sense enough to take the most efficient methods for its security? Every man will find among the various dispositions of which mankind are composed, some malignant persons, who, if they are not enemies, view him with an envious and jaundiced eye, and are often highly gratified at the view of a tender and delicate mind, whose sensibility they have wounded by their calumny. Can the man who is guilty of this violation of every social law, think himself, and be thought by others, an honest man, a man of veracity, and even a patriot—while he who takes from me my purse, and the little trash which it contains, is doomed to drag miserable days in a goal? O that virtue and philanthropy were popular! then universal benevolence would reign, and calumny, and every other hateful passion which agitates the human breast, would be made subservient to love exercised towards the Deity, and our fellow citizens. Know then, that the greatest luxury of a christian's life, consist in doing good to the souls and bodies of mankind; doing as we would be done by, purity of heart, and benevolence of conduct.

Anne-Arundel County Court, September Term, 1818.

On application to Anne Arundel County Court by petition in writing, of Larkin Hammond, of the said county, praying the benefit of the act of Assembly for the relief of sundry insolvent debtors, and the several supplements thereto on the terms mentioned in the said acts, a schedule of his property, and a list of his creditors, on oath, as far as he can ascertain them, being annexed to his petition; and the said court being satisfied, by competent testimony, that the said Larkin Hammond has resided in the State of Maryland two years immediately preceding the time of his application; it is therefore ordered and adjudged, that the said Larkin Hammond, (by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in one of the public newspapers in the city of Annapolis, for three months successively before the third Monday of April next,) give notice to his creditors to appear before the county court, to be held at the city of Annapolis, on Friday the twenty third day of April next, for the purpose of recommending a trustee for their benefit, on the said Larkin Hammond then and there taking the oath by the said act prescribed for delivering up his property, and to shew cause, if any they have, why he the said Larkin Hammond should not have the benefit of the several acts of assembly for the relief of insolvent debtors.

THE MORNING CHRONICLE A NEW DAILY PAPER TO BE ESTABLISHED IN THE OR BALTIMORE.

It is with unfeigned reluctance the subscriber has been obliged to solicit the aid of the Public to a New Daily Paper, he proposes with all possible expedition to establish in Baltimore, to be denominated THE MORNING CHRONICLE.

With regard to the political character of this publication, he avers that it will be decidedly of the Federalist. That federalism, which was known and established in the days of Hamilton—that federalism, for which Hamilton wrote, and for which Montgomery fell—that federalism, which, with a large and comprehensive view, embraces all classes, and they augment the prosperity and the dear of their country, and which has been the most transcendent disqualification, despically mean personal litigation for office at federalism, which raise, ennoble, and aggrandize the character of our dear and beloved country, opposition to that detestable, man-hood federalism, whose only aim is to raise and grandize private families—that federalism that exults in the spectacle of our country's greatness; that delights to behold the spangled banner glittering over every corner of these of the ocean; that federalism, that cherishes the honest husbandman, the mechanic at his desk, and the grove too near, for the scurrilous turn an apostate now; to lend himself to the scurrilousness of individual ambition, to mistake his own welfare for the welfare of his country. These are the federalist tenets of the Editor, and such as he is governed by until the hour of his dissolution. He seeks not individual patronage, he looks for support on his countrymen's love—if he fails in this appeal to their confidence, he is content to remain unnoticed and forgotten.

PAUL ALLEN, Late Editor of the Federal Telegraph and Baltimore Telegraph.

TERMS.

THE MORNING CHRONICLE will be printed daily, at eight dollars per annum. For the patronage I readily offer, and new flattering prospects held out. It is expected the publication will be commenced the 1st of October next. Although the Editor tends it shall be a new paper, it is not wish nor his interest, to disregard the fine and noble talents, in the management of a commercial paper.

It is intended to issue from the Morning Chronicle office, as soon as a sufficient number of subscribers are obtained, a paper for the County, to be published twice a week at four dollars per annum, which will contain all the news matter of the daily paper. Every attention will be given to forward the paper to subscribers at a distance without delay.

Letters addressed to the Editor, 50 North Frederick street, will be attended to. Baltimore, Sept. 1818.

Williamson's Hotel.

J. WILLIAMSON, Having rented that large and commodious building on the Church Circle, in the City of Annapolis, forms the public, that he has taken possession of the same, and will receive, without any charge, those who may favour him with their patronage. He has also a comfortable and airy house, in the same date of the 1st of October, for the accommodation of the public. Ladies and Gentlemen who are desirous of boarding by the day, week, or year, will find the most comfortable accommodations at the said Hotel, with the delicacies of the season. Annapolis, November 4, 1818.

THE VISITORS

Of Saint John's College are desirous of obtaining a Professor of Languages for that Seminary. The present salary is $800 per annum, to which an addition will be made as soon as the number of pupils shall be sufficient to justify the increase. Comfortable apartments are also provided in the College building for the residence of the Professor, and his family. Applicants for this situation are requested to address their letters to Samuel Ridout, Annapolis, Maryland. October 29, 1818.

The Editors of the National Intelligencer, the United States Gazette, the New York Evening Post, & Baltimore American, are requested to publish the above advertisement twice a week for the space of four successive weeks, and forward their accounts to this office for collection.
