All that now remains to be accomplished is, to obtain the countevance and the aid of the National Government, in such manner and to such extent as Congress, in its wisdom, may think expedient. Independent of the unanswerable reason urged publication. by the committee of the flouse of Representatives, in their report of the 18th April, 1818, in favour of colon-zation, it may be well ques- | chosen: tioned, whether the humane p to y of the Government to suppress the slave trade, and particularly whether the act of the 3d March, 1819, authorising the President to send beyond the limits of the U. States all captured negroes, and to appoint agents, residing on the coast of A. frica, to receive them, can be exe cuted in the spirit of the Legisla ture, without establishing a settie ment on some part of the Atican coast, to which captives may be sent, and where they may be receiv ed, supported, and instructed in the arts of civilized life. To land them on the coast, and to leave them ex posed to a repetition of those outrages which had originally destined them to a life of slavery, would seem to accomplish very imperfectly, if at all, the humane & enlarged views of the Government. I submit it, therefore, to the consideration of the Society, whether it may not be proper to appoint a committee to bring this subject to the consideration of the present congress, and to advocate the claim which the unfortunate class of men in whose cause we are engaged, have upon the justice, the bumani ty, and the magnanimity of the National Government.

The present moment is auspicious o our hopes-public expectation is directed towards it -the sentiments of our fellow citizens throughout the United States, favour our views, and the prayers of the pious are ofered to the throne of the Most High, for a blessing upon our endeavours. Let us, then, press forward to the great object to which we are associated; and if the xalted work of benevotence in which we are enits accomplishment; let us exonerate ourselves from the imputation of med, as it now is, by particu-ad extensive enquiries, since a defect of seal in our exertions to procure it."

Illegal Introduction of Slaves. etter from the Secretary of the Navy to the Speaker of the House of Representatives. Navy Department, Jan. 6th, 1820.

In obedience to aresnittion of the Hous of Representatives of the 31st December last requiring the Secretary of the Navy to furnish in relation to the introduction of slaves into the US. with a statement of the measures adopted to prevent the same; I have the honour, to transmit sundry extracts of letters, numbered 1 to 4 inclusively; comprising all the information communicated to this department since 1816, in relation to the introduction of slaves into the U. States.

I have the honour to refer, the house of representatives to my report of the 9th of Jan; 1819, on this dubject; and I transmit, herewith, paper marked A. which contains hat part of the instructions from this Department'to the commanding nayal officers in relation to slave ves-

Whatever gan be done to prevent their being brought clandesrinely into the country, will have to be p rformed by the bosts, which sir, shall be actively employed the moment we arrive on the ground."

No. 3. Extract of a letter from Capt, John D. Henley, to the Secretary of the Navy, dated

US ship John Adams, Amelia Sound, Jan. 24, 1818 "I yesterday detained the Eng lish brig Neptune, of London, for a violation of the slave act: by her papers it appears that she cleared from Jamaica for this port, with a small quantity of rum and eight convict slaves, sentenced to transpor tation for various offences. It is evident that their object was to sninggle them into the state of Georgia, thus making a Botany Biy of the United States. I shall send her to Savannah for trial."

> You will perceive, from the gene-, rality of the provisions in these laws, you are authorised to take and bring in all ships or vessels of the United States, which may have been in any manner employed or intended to be employed in the slave trade; or any other vessel anding against the provisions of any of the laws you have enclosed. You will articularly notice the two provisos to the hist section of the act of 1819; the first of which directs in what manner you are to keep and dispose of the slaves which may be found on board of any ship or vess seized by you. If brought w thin the United States, they are to be delivered to the marshal of the district where brought in, and transmit the evidence of such delivery to this d partment. Upon the capture, therefore, of any vessel, having slaves on board, you will immedistely proceed to the Island of Sherbro, on the coast of Africa, and deliver such staves to the agent' appointed by the President to receive them, pursuant to the provisions of the act, or to any other agent so appointed, at any other place on the coast of Africa. The second proviso relates to the disposition of the officers and crews of such vessels so captured by you,—Great vigilance will be expected from you, in the safe keeping of all such offi ers and crews, until they shall be handed over to the civil authority, to be proceeded against according to law."

"P. S. No provision having as yet been made for the reception of slaves upon the coast of Africa, you will for the present, and until ordered otherwise, consider the foregoing orders relative to the disposition of such slaves as you may capture, so far molified, that you will deliver them on Smith's Island, at the mouth of the Chesapeake Bay, to such agents as may be appointed by the President to receive them there."
