A GOOD THING.

The following presentation is made by the Grand Jury of Putnam County, Georgia:

"The grand jury present, as a grievance of considerable magnitude, the practice indulged in by the bar, of vilifying without sufficient cause, the characters of witnesses during examination, more especially young and inexperienced men; and the jury ask of the court a correction of these abuses."

"The practice complained of, is not only a shameful departure from common feeling, but is in direct hostility to the end and aim of justice. Nay, more, it sinks the dignity of the bar, to the very kennel of Billingsgate, and subjects the feelings and reputation of good and honest men to every shallow pated quibbler, whose legal acquirements go no farther than memorizing the introduction to Blackstone's Commentaries."

Augusta Chron.

Washington, May 20.

We understand that Commodore Charles Stewart, of Pennsylvania, recently returned from the command of the Mediterranean squadron, in the Franklin 74, has been appointed by the President, with the consent of the senate, a member of the Board of Navy Commissioners, vice Commodore Stephen Decatur, deceased.

[The salary authorized by law, for this office, is 3,500 dollars per annum.]

Commodore Rogers and Porter have left this city on a trip to Norfolk. It is suggested that arrangements be making preparatory to definitive fixing on a site suitable for a naval depot.

BOSTON, May 16.

Very Late From England. By the ship Herald, capt. Fox, arrived here in 24 days from Liverpool, Mr. Toppliff has received papers of that date to the 21st April, inclusive, containing London dates to the 18th.

The Liverpool Courier of April 19, says—"In Yorkshire and Scotland, the experiment of a simultaneous insurrection has been attempted, and even yet the tumults are unallayed."

A Glasgow paper of the 11th, states that no further disturbances had taken place, and the city remained quiet. There were 40 state prisoners in confinement.

Thislewood, and the other Coventry conspirators, had been removed from the tower to Newgate prison. A strong military guard attended to prevent any disturbance during the removal. A body of the London militia were to attend during their trials.

The usual alarm from movements of the populace, and reports of plots, &c. continued in England. It was stated on both that a conspiracy for a simultaneous insurrection had been formed—that Huddersfield was to have been taken—the mail coaches stopped, and revolution commenced, &c. A local meeting was held at Huddersfield, and measures of energy and precaution adopted.

London, April 12. The Paris Paper of Saturday arrived yesterday. A circular has been addressed by the Duke de Richelieu to the Lieut. General, commanding military divisions, &c. calling for the actual designation of the regiments which were to be sent, and for the detection and frustration of machinations and conspiracies.

Conflicts, (Eng.) April 18. This town is at this moment in a state of great agitation, owing to contradictory reports regarding some fresh disturbances which broke out at Huddersfield last night. Lord Harewood the lord lieutenant, has just arrived here, and an orderly dragoon bearing intelligence of a riot at Sheffield.

New York, May 18. LATEST FROM FRANCE. By the Belle, capt. Huntington, from Havre, whence she sailed 14th ult.

Paris, April 4. A traveller arrived yesterday from Milan, who had passed through Italy informs us that the minds of the people are in a state of ferment in that beautiful country. Every one desires and prays for political alterations, which have become necessary and inevitable. The news from Spain has produced a great sensation every where.

April 5. Some letters from the north speak of an approaching war between Russia and the Ottoman Porte. The emperor Alexander is at the head of 100,000 soldiers, and the time is perhaps arrived when he will boldly accomplish the vast designs of his illustrious grandfather. England is not in a situation to oppose projects which ought to alarm her. Prussia, a prey to real fears, and to an interior fermentation, can oppose no obstacles to them. Austria cannot attack the Colossus, without exposing herself to lose Galicia, and to see Italy freed from foreign domination; and France, the ancient ally of Turkey, is certainly not in a position to defend the empire of the crescent.

The Madrid Gazette of March 30, contains the following decree by Ferdinand.—

"As the constitution to which I have sworn is the fundamental law which rules the rights and duties of Spaniards towards the throne and nation—considering that those who refuse to recognise the law of the land, thereby renounce the protection which it grants them, and the advantages which society acknowledges, as also the privilege of living in the territory of the country. I declare, conformably to the decrees of the General and Extraordinary Cortes of Aug. 17, 1812, that every Spaniard who refuses to acknowledge the political constitution of the monarchy, or who, in swearing to it, does so with restrictions contrary to the spirit of this charter, is unworthy of being regarded as such, that he be legally deprived of honorary distinctions, civil employ, emoluments and prerogatives, and separated from the territory of the monarchy; and if he be an ecclesiastic, he shall be deprived of his living. I enjoin, under the strictest responsibility, on all the political chiefs and other constitutional authorities, the execution of this my decree.

"Given at the Palace, March 26, 1820."

Extract of a letter from Maj. Marston, of the 5th Infantry, commanding Fort Armstrong, on the Mississippi, 180 miles above St. Louis, to a gentleman in Boston, dated March 30, 1820.

Dear Sir—I have had a hard time of it here this winter, in consequence of the hostility of the Winnebagoes, and the business of my command. As yet I have been able to keep my own scalp on my head, but two of my poor fellows have not been so fortunate. Yesterday sergeant Beltzenberger and private Rigg, who passed out of the garrison unarmed, were shot, scalped, and otherwise mangled, in a most shocking manner, by a party of that nation. I trust that prompt and energetic measures will be adopted by the government to put an end for ever, to such tragical scenes in this quarter. I have but a moment to write, therefore excuse this scrawl.

CHARLESTON, May 13.

THE EXECUTION. OF GEORGE CLARK, and HENRY ROBERT WOLF, convicted of acts of Piracy on board the Buenos Ayrean ship LOUISA, fitted out at Baltimore, was carried into effect yesterday, at noon, agreeably to their sentence, on board the U. S. schooner Tartar, lying in the stream.—James Griffin and Thomas Bralls, may be seen in the papers of the day, and are recommended to every citizen of the United States, for two months.

Preparations having been previously made on board the Tartar, at an early hour, a yellow flag was displayed at the fore-topmast head, the usual signal for an execution.—

A short time before eleven o'clock, the solemn procession moved from the jail. Major A. Waring, esq., whose province was, as Marshal of the District, to attend the Execution in force, accompanied by Francis G. Delicasselle, esq. the Sheriff of Charleston District, with their respective deputies, mounted on horseback; led the way, they were followed by the two prisoners, with shal-ters about their necks, in a carriage; in which also were the Rev. Mr. Bachman, and the Rev. Mr. Munds, the coach being surrounded on all sides by the City Guard. The procession moved through some of the principal streets of the city, on its way to the wharf, from whence the prisoners were conveyed in one of the Sullivan's Island packet boats on board the Tartar. Shortly after arriving on board, they mounted the Scaffold, still attended by the Rev. Gentlemen before mentioned; when the Rev. Mr. Bachman, standing between the two wretched culprits, made a most eloquent and fervent prayer; the prisoners, and all on board, standing uncovered. The conduct of both the prisoners, during this affecting scene, was firm and collected. Clark addressed them in a short speech, in which he solemnly denied ever having been guilty of the crime of which he was accused, but admitted that he had with others been deluded into a service which eventuated in Piracy—for which he was about to pay the forfeit of his life; while those who projected the scheme are now walking at large in the country, with impunity. He expressed a fervent hope, that his sins would be forgiven him; and declared that he forgave all his enemies, and died in peace with the world. Wolf, though he evinced much penitence and resignation, both before and at the time of his execution, did not make any observations upon the subject during his last moments.

These awful ceremonies having been finished, at about ten minutes past 12, the fatal signal gun was fired—and they were run up to the respective yards arms, in the smoke. This operation was not performed as is frequently the case, by the sea-

Maryland, Anne-Arundel County, to wit.

On application to the subscriber, in the recess of the court, as Associate Judge of the third Judicial District of the State of Maryland, by petition, in writing, of Jeremiah Merrill, of Anne-Arundel county, stating that he is in actual confinement for debt, and praying for the benefit of the act for the relief of insolvent debtors, and the several supplements thereto, on the terms therein prescribed, a schedule of his property, and a list of his creditors, on oath, so far as he can ascertain them, being annexed to his petition; and being satisfied that he has resided two years within the State of Maryland, immediately preceding his application; and having also taken the oath prescribed for delivering up his property, and being enjoined to appear before the judges of the said court, on the third Monday in September next, to answer such allegations as may be made against him—I do therefore hereby order and adjudge, that the said Jeremiah Merrill be discharged from custody; that he give notice to his creditors, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in one of the newspapers printed in the city of Annapolis, once a week for the term of three months, before the next September term, for them to appear before the said court, on the third Monday, for the purpose of recommending a trustee for their benefit, and to show cause, if any they have, why the said Jeremiah Merrill should not have the benefit of the said act and its supplements. Given under my hand this seventh day of April 1820.

RICHD. RIDGELY. May 11.

The constitution of this country, has been the subject of much discussion, and it is believed that from the impulsive character of the people, they may attempt some enterprise.

The number of the jurors summoned for the trial of Thislewood and the other conspirators, amounts to 161.

The Elections are not completed. The whole number of Members of Parliament for Great Britain and Ireland, is 658. The number elected is 579—leaving 79 yet to be chosen. 457 members of the Parliament, have been re-elected and 122 new ones.

The account of the Revenue for the last quarter, is very flattering, surplus being 1,047,000. In the corresponding quarter there was a deficiency of 1,82,000. So the receipt this quarter is better above one million sterling than it was in the corresponding quarter last year.

On the 2d of April, the magistrates of Leeds were apprised of a plot of the Radicals to attack the town the following night, at a signal. The military and artillery were immediately put in motion. About 2 o'clock in the morning the signal, a sort of fire-work, was observed in the direction of Castle Hill, near Almondsbury, and several parties of men in military order, were seen in different directions, approaching the town. A division came so near as to be within a short distance of the New Church. None of them, however entered the town, and it is supposed, received intelligence of the preparations made by the Magistrates.

The same night a company of men were returning from Almondsbury, and on their way they were surprised to see a number of men sitting under a hedge or wall, armed with a pike or spear, and there was a quantity of the weapons, about 200 heaped on the ground. The gentleman, who separated from his companions, saw one of the pikes and was proceeding to examine it, when one of the men struck him, and he was seized by several others. At that moment a number of persons armed with sixties, came over an adjoining wall armed in the same manner.

The gentleman felt alarmed at his present situation, and attempted to make off—while so doing a pistol was discharged after him, and all of which whizzed close by his head. In the mean time the men of the party were attacked and killed. One of them named Toliver received several pike wounds, particularly one on the left side, and is now under the care of a surgeon. Early the next morning information was given to the Magistrates, and one of the men whom they were able to identify, a blacksmith, was apprehended, and is now in custody.

The accounts from Spain are very contradictory, and we begin to be apprehensive, that affairs are not so quiet as we have been led to suppose.

The papers contain (from Madrid and Gazettes,) a series of despatches addressed to the government by Gen. Freyre, from the 10th of March; and also a communication from the Captain-General of Andalusia to the Minister of Madrid, dated Cadiz, 11th March, relative to the movements in that quarter. The documents are published as a manifestation of the anxiety of the government, to lay before the people all the details which it has received relative to the deplorable scenes, which have taken place at Cadiz; but so far from being what profess to be, the massacre of the 31st is merely noticed by general terms, in a despatch dated the 10th, from Port St. Marys, as follows:—"The garrison of Cadiz, faithful to his Majesty, cried, 'Long live the King!' and dispersed the populace, which had assembled in a square of St. Antonio, and were shouting, 'Long live the constitution!' and thus tranquility was restored!" He concludes by saying, "the garrison and the battalions of Lealstad and that of Guayas, still in an unfurled state; the tantamount regard them with horror."

The Captain-General of the Province writes, that amidst the general confusion, the above battalion fired amongst the assembled multitude who dispersed to avoid the which menaced them. The troops committed the greatest ex-
