

The Montgomery (Alabama) Republican of the 3d inst. says:—“We this day announce the arrival of a boat, [the Tennessee Patriot, King, from East Tennessee, with flour and whiskey] the history of which will no doubt seem almost incredible to strangers. She is a keel-boat, 50 feet long, 6 feet beam, 6 feet deep, and is capable of carrying near 100 barrels. She was built at West-Point, in East Tennessee, where she was loaded for this place, and proceeded 100 miles down the Tennessee river, to the mouth of the Hiwassee, thence 65 miles to the entrance of the Wocoo, up the latter to a certain distance, when she was transported (with her cargo) 10 miles by land to the Conasauga, thence to and down the Eastonulla, through the Cross into the Alabama river—a distance of near 1000 miles from the interior.”

EDITION OF WOMEN IN INDIA.

The following letter is written by one of those excellent men [Rev. W. Ward] who have devoted their lives to the evangelization of our fellow subjects in India. It is addressed to the Ladies of the United Kingdom. There are in Hindoostan seventy millions of your sex who can neither read nor write, and thirty millions of these are British subjects. Every country not enlightened by Christianity, the state of women is always most deplorable; the Hindoo legislators have abominably made their acquisition of knowledge of letters a curse, they are, by a positive prohibition, denied all access to their scriptures. Being thus degraded, even their sacred writings, women in India are in a state of ignorance and superstition, which has no parallel in the history of tribes the savage and barbarous.

A female is despised as soon as she is born; she comes into the world amidst the iron frowns of her parents and friends, disappointed that she is not a boy. Every month among the tribe of Rajpoots, her female child to death as soon as born. While I was in Bengal I was informed of the case of a girl who had spared one of her sisters, and she lived till she attained the age when India girls are marriageable. A girl in the house of a Rajpoot was, however, so extraordinary a circumstance, that no one chose to permit his son to marry her. The father then became more for her chastity and the honour of his family, and he thereupon took her aside one day, and gave her a hatchet cut her piece by piece, these are the circumstances into which your sex enter into life in India.

Childhood and youth they have no education, no cultivation of any kind whatever. There is not a single girl's school in all India; and another, being herself entirely ignorant, and being the devoted daughter of a dark and cruel superstitious utterly incapable of improving her child. The first days of her life, therefore, spent in an ignorance which prepares her for a life to be spent in superstition and vice.

The age of comparative childhood is united in marriage, without any knowledge of or having ever known her husband; when they meet for the first time, they are bound together for life. Thousands are thus married in a state of ignorance, lose their husbands without having ever lived with them, and are doomed to a life of widowhood for the law forbids them to marry. Parents in some cases have fifty or sixty daughters to one son, that the family may be able to honour by a marriage relation to this man. These females live with the husband, but in the houses of their own parents, or leave the houses in which they have been thus sacrificed for the good honour of the family, and the abodes of infamy and ruin. The female, however, who has been united to a person who becomes attached to her, what other without a knowledge of the alphabet! Wholly unacquainted with mankind, and with all the employments of females in a civilized country, unable either to make, to mend, or to wash the clothes of her husband! She never sits to her husband, but prepares his food, waits upon him, and partakes of what he leaves. If a friend, of either sex, calls upon her husband she retires. She is veiled, or in a covered palanquin, if she goes to the house. She never mixes with the public company. She derives no pleasure from the other sex, except from the stories to which she listens from the mouth of a religious mendicant. She is, in fact, an animal, kept for burden or for slaughter, in the house of her husband. She is rarely observed in the streets, a girl being buried with her husband, and the funeral pile with the body of the youth with whom she
