

FOR FARMERS—A SONG.
Written by John J. Baker, of this city, and sung at the spring meeting of the Agricultural Society of New-Brunswick, on the 24th April, 1821.

A Farmer's life's the life for me;
I own I love her dearly;
And ev'ry season, full of glee,
I take its labour cheerily—
To plough or sow,
To reap or mow,
Or in the barn to truss, Sir,
All's one to me;

I plainly see
'Twill bring me health and cash, Sir.
To customer's the Merchant shows
His best broad cloths and satins;
In hopes to sell a suit of clothes—
But lo! they beg a pattern—
Which, pinned on sleeve,
They take their leave—
"Perhaps the'll buy since low 'tis"
And if they do,
The sale be'll rue,
When paid, Sir, with a "notice."

The Priest has plagues as undesir'd,
When flatter'd with a call, Sir;
For tho' he preach like one inspir'd,
He cannot please 'em all, Sir.
Some wanting grace,
Laugh in his face,
While solemnly he's prosing;
Some sneeze or cough,
Some shuffle off—
And some are even dozing.

The Lawyer leads a harass'd life,
Much like a hunted otter;
And 'tween his own & others' strife,
He's always in hot water:
For foe or friend,
A cause defend,
However wrong, must be, Sir,
In reason's spite,
Maintain 'tis right—
And dearly earn his fee, Sir.

The Doctor's still a gentleman;
But this I hold but humming;
For, like a tavern waiting-man,
"To ev'ry call he's 'ooming!"
Now here, now there,
Must he repair,
Or starve, Sir, by derving;
Like death himself,
Unhappy elf,
He lives by others' dying.

The Soldier, deck'd in golden lace,
Looks wondrous fine, I own, Sir;
But still I envy not his place,
When batter'd to the bone, Sir.
To knock my head
Against a cot lead,
I never had a notion;
If that's the way
To rank, I say,
Excuse me the promotion.

The Sailor live's bu'd in a gal,
With all the risk besides, Sir,
Of pillage, founder, and of gale—
This cannot be denied, Sir.
While I so snug
Enjoy my mug,
Or kiss my wife, and so forth—
When rain and storm
The nights deform,
His duty bids him go forth.

A FARMER'S life, then let me live,
Obtaining, while I lead it,
Enough for self, and some to give
To such poor souls as need it.
I'll drain and fence,
Nor grudge expense
To give my land good dressing;
I'll plough and sow,
Or drill in row,
And hope from Heaven a blessing.

From the New-Brunswick Times.
eral persons, weighing between two and three hundred pounds, raised 5 to 6 feet, whom it would be impossible to raise in the least degree with the fire fingers, if this system were not adopted. The effect will be very perceptible on the first experiment, but still more so after a little discipline.

Quere—Why does this system of breathing produce such an effect?
* It must be understood that the fore-fingers are to be placed under the arms and legs.

Singular and interesting occurrence.
From the Hamburg Correspondent.
A Judge of the name of Helmanotz, in the department of Zps, sent a young female peasant with a sum of money to Goelnitz, a small town, situated among the mountains; not far from the village a countryman joined her, and demanded where she was going?—The girl replied, that she was journeying with a sum of 200 florins to Goelnitz. The countryman told her that he was going there also, and proposed that they should travel together. At the wood the countryman pursued a path, which he told the girl would shorten their journey at least two leagues. At length they arrived at the mouth of an excavation, which had once been worked as a mine; the countryman stopped short and in a loud voice said to the girl, "Behold your grave; deliver me the money instantly."

The girl, trembling with fear, complied with his demand, and then entreated him to spare her life; the villain was inflexible, and he commanded his victim to undress herself—the unfortunate girl was soon stripped to her chemise; the monster commanded her to deliver to him even this last article of her dress—the poor girl fell on her knees and supplicated with uplifted hands, to have her chemise returned to preserve her modesty; the villain then turning round, the girl sprung upon him, precipitated him into the cavity, and then ran and announced to the village what had happened to her. Several of the inhabitants, provided with ladders, returned with her to the spot. They descended into the hole, and found the countryman dead, with the clothes and money which he had taken from the girl in his possession. Near him lay three dead female bodies in a state of putrefaction. It is probable that these were victims to the rapacity of the same villain. In a girdle, which he had round his body, was discovered a sum of six hundred florins in gold.

New Arrangement of Days.
THE STEAM BOAT
MARYLAND,
will continue to run as heretofore until the last day of the present month.—But afterwards she will take her routes as follows: On Sunday the first of April she leaves Easton at 8 o'clock, and will proceed to Annapolis, leaving there at half past 2 o'clock, for Baltimore, and arrive at 6 o'clock the same day; leaves Commerce street wharf, Baltimore, on Wednesday at 8 o'clock, and returns by Annapolis to Easton at 6 o'clock, the same evening; And so leaves Easton at the same hour, and by the same route, every Sunday and Thursday, and leaving Baltimore in like manner, every Wednesday and Saturday. In every route she will touch at Todd's Point, the Mills and at Oxford; if hailed, to take and land passengers. On Monday of every week she will leave Baltimore at nine o'clock for Chestertown, and arrive there in the afternoon; and on Tuesday morning leaves at 9 o'clock Chestertown and returns to Baltimore; touching in both routes at Queen's town, to take and land passengers. She will take freights from and to the respective places above mentioned, so as not to incommode the passengers, their Horses or Carriages. Passengers wishing to go to Philadelphia will find it the most convenient and expeditious route, as she meets the Union line of steam boats, when they can be put on board, and arrive in Philadelphia the next morning by 9 o'clock.

All baggage, of which due care will be taken, will nevertheless be at the risk of the owners as heretofore.

We have had occasion, to notice the "Mercury Advertiser" of Richmond, Virginia, who we copy an article from, which we recommend to the notice of our readers. Fed.
No. 1.

Political discord, for some time, appeared dormant. The operation, so freely bestowed upon the factious, seemed to have, at least in a great degree, subsided; the denunciations and recriminations, so lavishly showered upon the honourable men of both parties, by similar views, were sincerely hoped and fair to be not only ceased, but the suspicious moment had arrived, about the pleasing work, effected by the virulence of the press, and of some of the minds and conciliating efforts of all, by a mutual and honorable exertion, to this desirable end. By such a course, sincerely pursued, would be united as an impotent element, the virtuous, the patriotic of every sect, and a happy result would be the disaffected, the disorganizers and the seditious and ambitious, forming a motley group, so generous and discordant in character, that nothing weak and contemptible, wholly disarmed and incompetent to disturb the harmony of the great majority associated. Let us reflect on the incalculable benefits to the people, and the pleasing prospect, as individuals; we should be in a state so desirable, as to form a course of policy, based on reason and philosophy, carrying in its progress, individual glory and honor.

These generous feelings, solicited anticipations, though calculations, resting on the most momentous, and success recent—drawing in conclusion of, and deliberating their results, into one point, rest and focus of national feelings and action of a calamitously unfounded! no peace in Israel!—the gain divided. Is there no spirit? Is every tongue palsied, every tongue palsied, here are some yet who speak and to write—the majority of the nation—be informed and the victory are the patriotic. From causes easily exposed, circumstances merely fortuitous, natural in relation to the strength of the free press of the Union, the republic unnumbered, and for the most part, in the background, not despair—they have even in their side requisite to success, although the process slow as to require an exercise of their virtues—patiently, equanim, lasting a few years, his fond expectation of parties, have both again, and lately too, do they stalk at large the land—the momentary tor which its choice spirits were, seems to have reinvigorated whole corps—the press, with their effusions, in length, never before. To answer them, singly, require a Briarion as a pen, not a plurality of heads, to any thing like egotism, orator, but I am permitted to remark, that the sensible of the want of all powers, so much necessary to the success of political subjects, it is most consolatory, to have writers condensed into words, when it is thought, actions upon this subject.
