

From the Connecticut Journal.

Names.—Mankind have usually been as much distinguished for diversity of taste as of character or personal appearance, and they not unfrequently exhibit it, much to the amusement of each other. This is sometimes done in giving names to children. Some parents select for their child the name of some distinguished hero, statesman, or divine—thinking, perhaps, that a possession of the name is a sure pledge for resemblance in talents and character. Some hand down their own names, without regard to any contingency, but from mere pride to give them perpetuity. Some have given names from local circumstances, in modern as well as ancient times; hence, a child born at sea is called Ocean, or perhaps Neptune, in honour of his Majesty of the Trident. Some, in selecting names for their children, suppose themselves actuated by uncomon patriotism; hence a hopeful child in Virginia, not many years since, was called Embargo. Some prefer short names, of a single monosyllable, as John or George, as a matter of convenience. Some prefer names of several syllables, or even double names, as being "not quite so common." Some prefer romantic names, and hence they make their selections from a favorite novel. Some prefer Scripture names, and one good old lady is said to have thought Beelzebub a "very pretty name" for a favourite little grand child! But what should have given preference to the following name, which is the real name of a citizen, or of one who has been a citizen, we are unable to say. It is given without further comment.

Mahar Snalal Hashbush Polycarpus Nelson Schofield. The last is the surname.

Method of cleansing Silk, Woolen and Cotton Goods without damage to the texture or colour.

Take raw potatoes, in the state they are taken out of the earth; wash them well, then rub them on a grater over a vessel of clean water to a fine pulp, pass the liquid matter through a coarse sieve into another tub of clear water; let the mixture stand till the fine white particles of the potatoes are precipitated; then pour the mucilaginous liquor for use. The article to be cleaned should then be laid upon a linen cloth on a table, and having prepared a clean sponge in the potatoe liquor, apply the sponge thus wet upon the article to be cleaned, and rub it well upon it with repeated portions of the potatoe liquor, till the dirt is perfectly separated; then wash the article in clear water several times, to remove the loose dirt; it may afterwards be smoothed or dried. Two middle sized potatoes will be sufficient for a pint of water.

The white feculo which separates in making the mucilaginous liquor, will answer the purpose of tapioca, will make an useful nourishing food with soup or milk, or serve to make starch or hair powder.

The coarse pulp which does not pass the sieve is of great use in cleaning wadded curtains, tapstries, carpets, or other coarse goods.

The mucilaginous liquor of the potatoes will clear all sorts of silk, cotton, or woollen goods, without hurting the texture of the articles or spoiling the color.

It is also useful in cleansing oil, paintings, or furniture that is soiled.

Dirty painted wainscots may be cleaned by wetting a sponge in the liquor, then dipping it in a little fine clean sand and afterwards rubbing the wall with it.

Let a family of children be put regularly in possession of a newspaper—and let another family, though possessing the same advantages with regard to scholastic acquirements, be deprived of it, and the difference between them will be discernable to the slightest observation.—Lynchburg Gaz.

Another State Defaulter.—Major Gordon, the late treasurer of New-Jersey, on an examination of his accounts, has been found deficient in upwards of $16,000, which has been expended "he does not know how." His sureties, liable for $10,000, have petitioned the legislature to be released from their responsibility, which reasonable request has been refused.

The account of an extensive fire at Zanesville, (Ohio.) on the 12th November, is without foundation.

For the accommodation of the Members of the Legislature, and those having business with it, will, on the first Monday of December, in addition to her present route, commence running from Baltimore to Chester-Town, by the way of Annapolis.

THE STEAM BOAT MARYLAND,

Leaving Baltimore every Monday morning at eight o'clock, touching at Annapolis, and from thence to Chester-Town. Fare as heretofore.

Sept. 20, 1821.

Considering it will be more agreeable to passengers in the Steam Boat Maryland to arrive at Baltimore and Easton before dark, it is intended that the first of November ensuing, that the shall start from Easton and Baltimore at 7 o'clock in the morning, instead of 8 o'clock as heretofore; leave Annapolis at half past 1 o'clock on her passage up, and at half past 11 o'clock on her passage down. Breakfast will be provided on board.

The Editors of the Federal Gazette, National Intelligencer, Bowditch's Boston Gazette, will insert the above notice in their papers, and forward their accounts to this office.

A Valuable Mill.

At 12 o'clock on the 12th day of December next,

If fair, if not, the next fair day thereafter, I will offer at public auction, on the premises, with a suitable quantity of adjoining land, situated on the north side of Severn River, about three miles from Annapolis, and at the head of a navigable creek. She has been very lately put in complete repair, has one pair of Burr, and one pair of Cologne stones, new and good of their kind, and is in all other respects well fitted up for manufacturing wheat and corn. There being no other mill within nine miles of the above on the north side of Severn, she has constant employment, and is an object of speculation. The terms will be liberal, and made known on the day of sale. Persons inclined to make a private purchase, are requested to apply in the interval, to Nicholas, or Henry Brice, in Baltimore.

CRIST MILL,

Edmund Brice.

50 Dollars Reward

Will be given for securing in the gaol of Baltimore county, a coloured man named Tom Johnson, formerly the property of Mr Maxcy of West River. He ran away from the Alum and Copper Works of Cape Sable, on the River Magothy, about the 15th of October last, and is supposed to be lurking about Baltimore, Annapolis, West River, or Upper Marlborough—at the latter place he has a woman who passes for his wife, and when he was about going away, he said he should go there. He is about 5 feet 3 or 9 inches high, not of a very dark complexion, aged about 40 years, chews a great deal of tobacco, is extremely artful and cunning, and professes to be very religious. Apply to P. G. LECHLEITER, Abandoned from the farm of Mrs. Sarah Clements, on the South side of Severn River, near Annapolis, on the 8th instant, a negro man named

JACOB,

He is about 5 feet 9 or 10 inches high, and his person though slender is muscular; his colour is not remarkably black nor lighter than usual; he has a stern, sulky, bold expression of countenance; speaks promptly when spoken to, and is rather more intelligent than plantation negroes generally are; his motions indicate considerable activity and strength, and he walks remarkably fast and with great ease to himself. He has large nostrils and a flat nose; has lost two of his front teeth, and has a small scar on his left hand just below the third finger. He has a wife living in Baltimore named Velilah, the property of Mrs. Cave W. Edelen, whether it is likely he has gone. The above reward will be paid to any person who will deliver the said slave to the subscriber at the before mentioned farm, or who will secure him in the Annapolis gaol.

will continue to run as heretofore until the last day of the present month.—But afterwards she will take her routes as follows: On Sunday the first of April she leaves Easton at 8 o'clock, and will proceed to Annapolis, leaving there at half past 2 o'clock, for Baltimore, and arrive at 6 o'clock the same day; leaves Commerce street wharf, Baltimore, on Wednesday at 8 o'clock, and returns by Annapolis to Easton at 6 o'clock, the same evening; and so leaves Easton at the same hour, and by the same route, every Sunday and Thursday, and leaving Baltimore in like manner, every Wednesday and Saturday. In every route she will touch at Tedd's Point, the Mills and Oxford, if loaded, to take and land passengers. On Monday of every week she will leave Baltimore at nine o'clock for Chester town, and arrive there in the afternoon; and on Tuesday morning leaves at 9 o'clock Chester town and returns to Baltimore; touching in both routes at Queen's town, to take and land passengers. She will take freights from and to the respective places above mentioned, so as not to incommode the passengers, their Horses or Carriages. Passengers wishing to go to Philadelphia will find it the most convenient and expeditious route, as she meets the Union line of steam boats, when they can be put on board, and arrive in Philadelphia the next morning by 9 o'clock.

All baggage, of which due care will be taken, will nevertheless be at the risk of the owners as heretofore.

MISCELLANEOUS

DR. LATHROP'S SERMON.

The following passage is extracted from the interesting memoir of the life of the late Doctor Lathrop, of West Springfield, written by himself and prefixed to a posthumous volume of his sermons:

"My steady aim in preaching has been to promote real religion in temper and practice, and to state and apply the doctrines of the gospel in a manner best adapted to this age. Keeping this in view, I have avoided unprofitable controversy.—I have been careful not to awaken disputes, which were quietly asleep, and not to waste my own and hearers' time by removing imaginary evils or indifferent customs. Among these I have reckoned the fashion of dress. I was once requested to preach against prevailing fashions, remote inhabitant of the parish, apparently in a serious frame, called upon me one day, and pressed the necessity of bearing my testimony against this dangerous evil. I observed to him, that as my people are generally farmers in middling circumstances, I did not think they would lead in fashions; if they followed them, it was at a humble distance, and rather to avoid singularity than to encourage extravagance, at least as long as people were in the habit of wearing clothes, they must wear some fashion or other, and a fashion that answered the end of dress, and exceeded not the ability of the wearer, I considered as innocent, and not deserving reproof. To this he agreed; but said, what grieved him was to see people set their hearts so much on fashions. I decided that, as modes of dress were trifles compared with our eternal concerns, to set our hearts upon them must be a great sin. But I advised him to consider that, to set our hearts against such trifles was the same sin as to set our hearts upon them; and, as his fashion was different from those of his neighbours just in proportion as he set his heart against their's he set his heart upon his own. He was, therefore, doubly guilty of the very sin he imputed to others; and I desired him to correct his own fault, which he could not but know, and to hope that his neighbours were less faulty than himself, and less faulty than he had uncharitably supposed them to be. I could not but reflect, how easily men deceive themselves, bestolding the mote in their brother's eye, and considering not the beam in their own.

ON DEATH.

The most sensible motive to avert the passions is death. The tomb is the best course of morality; study avarice in the coffin of a miser; this is the man who accumulated heap upon heap, riches upon riches—see a few square inches of earth contains him! Study ambition in the grave of the enterprising man; see his noble designs, his extensive projects, his boundless expedients, all shattered and sunk in this fatal gulph of human projects! Approach the tomb of the proud man, and there investigate pride; see the path that pronounced lofty expressions condemned to eternal silence, the piercing eye that contemplated the world with fear; covered with a midnight gloom! the formidable arm, that disturbed the destinies of mankind, without motion or rest! Go to the tomb of the noble man, and there study quality; behold his magnificent titles, his royal ancestors, his flattering inscriptions, his learned genealogies, are gone, or going to be lost with himself in the same dust! Study slothfulness at the grave of the voluptuary; see his senses are destroyed, his organs broken to pieces, his bones scattered at the grave's mouth, and the whole temple of natural pleasures subverted from its foundation.
