RUSSIA & TURKEY.

London, (Courier,) April 6.

- The advices from Constantinople, are to March 6th. The Divan assembled on the 28th of February to take into consideration the note of the Ambassadors. The result was a reply not so favourable to peace, as was expected. "The affembly unanimous." was expected. "The affembly unanimously resolved, that the propositions contained in the Russian ultimatum were of a nature that could not be accepted." Subsequently repeated interviews took place petween Lord Strangford and the Reis Effendi, which terminated abruptly—and, on the 3d, a note was delivered to the English and Austrian Ambassadors, of which the following has been given as the substance:

"The Divan witness with pleasure the efforts which its friends, the Ambassadors of England and the Austrian Internuncio, make to adjust the differences which have arisen between the Sublime Porte & Czar arisen between the Sublime Porte & Czar of the Muse wites—but the Divan views, as useless to the proposed object, all farther discussion of the propositions contained in the Russianultimatum—propositions which are incompatible with the sovereignty of his Highness.

Highness, "It would be desirable that the above mentioned ambassadors wouldmake known to their Courts the subjects of complaint which the Porte has against the Muscovites viz.—That the Russian consuls, chosen from the Greek wation, thinking themselves secure under their Baral (or Russian letter of naturalization) have openly taken part in the plots which have been concerted at Smyrna and in the less of the Archipelago, to insurrectionist he Rajafs (subjects of the Porte;) that a Russian ship laden with arms and ammunition, has been seized in the Gulf of Smyrna, when on the point of saling for Ispara; that the merchants of Odesas sent to the Greek insurgents money and corn, supplies of which were seized in the streights of the Bosphorus—that Alexander Ypsilanti, styling himself as "agent of Russia," and attired in Russian uniform, came to Bucharest at the head of a troop composed of Greeks and Russians, seized the which the Porte has against the Muscovites posed of Greeks and Russians, seized the public coffers, put to death the Musselmen merchants established in Wallachia, and posted proclamations exciting the subjects of the Porteto insurrection, and promising them the aid of Russia—that in truth the Court of Russia had declared that all this was the work of particular individuals, who acted in opposition to the will of the Empeacted in opposition to the will of the Emperor—but that not withstanding this declaration the traiter his sae! Suzzo, after having opened the gales of Jassy to Ypsilanti, and after having department of Jassy to Ypsilanti, and after having department of Suzzo, after having the partment of William and Suzzo of William and Suzzo of William and Suzzo of Su whilst his majesty the Emperor of Austria, faithful to treaties, caused those to be arrested who fled into his dominions, and e ven confined Ypsilanti in a state prison.

"From these facts the courts of England and Austria will judge whether it is Russia or Turkey which has provoked war. The Porte demanded no satisfaction whatever for these hostile circumventions on the part of Russia, the result of which only disturb-ed the peace of the Ottoman empire but an

"But the Porte will not suffer that a foreign court, the known supporter of all the rebellions against the authority of his High-ness, should come and interfere in the domestic affairs of the empire. If some Christian temple had been unlawfully demolished it shall be restored after tranquility shall have been completely re established. His Highness will grant an amnesty to his Greek subjects of the Archipelago and Morea, when they shall have laid down their arms.

Ottoman troops shall continue to occupy Wallachia and Moldavia so long as the Divan shall consider those provinces as menaced by the Cossacks and Hetarists as-sembled on the eastern banks of the Pruth. With respect to the nomination of the Hospodar, the Sublime Porte acknowledges that Treaties, among others that of Bucharest, prescribe it: Hence she has no intention to refuse it, nor to make any change in the form of Government, guaranteed by conventions to those two Principalities, as she has declared to the Wallachian and Moldahas declared to the Wallachian and Molecu-vian Boyars: only Russia having violated the Treaty of Bucharest (as has been men-tioned above) has no right to claim the ex-ecution of that Article. His highness having besides by this Treaty liberty to name as Hospodar, the person who shall deserve that besides by this Treaty liberty to name as Hospodar, the person who shall deserve that favour, has already decided, that in future no Greek can be Hospodar either of Wallachia or Me the fa; for the Greek Princes elevated to the pot for a century, instead of shewing the packets grateful and faithful, have accepted the pay of Russia, and have framed conspiracies, without reckoning that several of them, after having pillinged the people of Wallachia and Moldavia, have fled into Clinch countries with the unjust treasures, as units of their rapacity and tyranny. It is the swill name as Hospodar either a Turk or a Wallachian, as he has made known to the Boyers.

"Finally, it is not for the Porte to send Commissioners to the frontiers to negociate peace; she is hot, at war with Russia, not withstanding militate provocations; and if the Muscovite armies shall begin hostilities, she has taken measures to repel them."

A new Turkish army is assembling in the environs of Nyssa, and another dashe frontiers of Bosnia. The troops in the environs of Sophia have set out for the Panube It is expreced that the Turk will should be the province of the state the Turk will should be the province of the panube It is expreced that the Turk will should be the province of the panube It is expreced that the Turk will should be the panube in the countries of the panube is a state of the panube in the panue in Sophia have set out for the Danuha is expected that the Turks will shortly en-ter Servin, and the situation of Prince Mi-losch, when hostilities break out, may be-come very craigal.

An extraordinary contier had arrived from Pampeluna, with intelligence of the 20th, which unfortunately proves but the hopes conceived of the restoration of tranquility were fallacious. On the 19th some disturbances took; place, 7 persons were killed, and 25 wounded.
