C. HAYDEN, DENTIST,

(Late a Student of Mr. H. H. Hayden, of Baltimore.)

Respectfully offers his services to the Ladies and Gentlemen of Annapolis, in the line of his profession. In so doing, he forbears entering into a circumstantial detail of the various operations that are occasionally requisite for the preservation of the teeth, or for supplying their deficiencies when lost by premature decay, disease or neglect; suffice it to say that he performs every necessary operation that may be required in his profession, and in all of which he is regulated (and that with the most scrupulous attention) by the maxims and experience of his preceptor, which have been warranted by more than twenty years practice in the city of Baltimore.

If tenderness and care in the different operations—if beauty & elegance in the finishing and setting natural and artificial teeth, and most implicit candour in his advice, are inducements, those who may honour him with their confidence, may be assured of meeting with satisfaction. Any person wishing to be waited on at their residence, will please send a line or servant to his lodgings at Mrs. Robinson's.

"This will certify, that Mr. C. Hayden, having attended the necessary course of lectures at the University of Maryland, and having studied and practised under my immediate direction and instructions, for the purpose of acquiring a knowledge of the profession of a Dentist, is thereby considered fully qualified and competent both in theory and practice, to the various cases that may occur, and as such is recommended to the confidence and patronage of all such as may in any degree, require professional assistance."

HORACE H. HAYDEN, Dentist, Baltimore, August 2 1821.

By order, JOHN BREWER, Clk. April 18.

Valuable Land for Sale

By virtue of a decree of the high court of chancery of Maryland, will be disposed of at public sale, on Tuesday the 21st day of May next, at 11 o'clock, A.M. if fair, if not on that day thereafter, the farm of the late John Gibson, Esq. called

"The Seven Mountains." This property is situated in Anne-Arundel county, on the north side of Magdohy river, and immediately on the shore of the Chesapeake Bay, about seventeen miles from Baltimore, and eight from Annapolis. It is one of the most desirable abodes in Maryland either for one who derives his support from agricultural pursuits, or a man of fortune who is desirous of obtaining an elegant rural retreat.

The soil is fertile, and abundantly stocked with wood, and is peculiarly well adapted to the culture of Indian Corn and Tobacco, and all the products of a garden. It bears every variety of the best and earliest vegetables, and its proximity to Baltimore, and the convenient water transportation which its situation affords, give it advantages as a market farm that are possessed by few others. It abounds with delicious grapes, and the choicest of these have been collected with great care, and are now in the most flourishing condition. The water by which the place is almost surrounded, and a fish pond that has been made at considerable expense, afford during the summer season, fish and crabs in the most abundant; and in the winter the wild fowl which always throng the shores furnish a plentiful supply for the table of the proprietor, and at the same time a very lucrative article of traffic. The farm is well supplied with the ordinary crops of the country, Patridges, Pheasants, &c. and there is also on it a few fallow deer. Its situation is truly delightful. It commands a noble view of the Chesapeake on the east; and on the south & west the Magdohy river, and the country on the opposite shore, present a beautiful landscape. The improvements are a commodious frame dwelling house, servants' houses, the house, stables, &c.

This estate will, for the accommodation of purchasers, be divided into three parcels of about two hundred and fifty acres each, every part being bounded on one side by the water. Any person who is disposed to purchase may have an opportunity of viewing the property at any time previous to the day of sale, by calling on Mr. John Gibson, who at present resides on it, and who will point out the boundaries between the different parcels.

THE TERMS OF SALE Are, one fourth cash, and the remainder to be paid in four equal annual instalments. Bonds with approved security will be required for the payment of that portion of the purchase money for which credit allowed. On the payment of the whole of the purchase money deeds conveying the land will be executed. The sale will take place on the premises.

Addison Right, April 18.

The Editors of the Federal Republic and Baltimore Patriot are requested to insert the above notice for five weeks, and forward the accounts to this Office for publication.

BEAUTIFUL SPECIMEN OF NATIVE POETRY

The following verses, by Percival, are among the finest specimens of American poetry we have seen:—

I saw on the top of a mountain high, A gem that shone like fire by night; It seemed like a star that had left the sky, And dropped to sleep on the lonely height.

I climbed the peak and found it soon, A lump of ice in the clear cold moon. Can you its hidden sense impart? 'Twas a cheerful look—and a broken heart.

From the Charleston Courier.

Let us love while life is young, And the vital stream is glowing; When the heart is newly strung, And the tide of health is flowing.

Let us pluck the Paphian rose, When its bud is newly strung; Ere its wither'd petals close, In the misty darkness moulding.

Pluck it, when the morning dew Twinkles on the new-blown flower, And the vernal sky of blue, Opens through the melting shower.

Pluck it, when the air is sweet, And the winds no more are chilling; Now when life is all perfume, And the soft-eyed doves are billing.

Weave it in a wreath of bloom, Let it bind your hearts together; Now when life is all perfume, Warm and bright as April weather.

Now when life is dancing on, Like a brook, when the winds are blowing, Curling upwards towards the sun, Or in mirror'd beauty flowing;

Even those wailing looks of jet, By the touch of age, are thinning, While the cheek is blooming yet, And the eye is bright and winning.

Love, in life's delightful spring— You will find returning passion; Wait, till youth has taken wing— Love will then be out of fashion.

If you have a bosom, bright Longer than the form around it, Beauty never will require Love like that, but only wound it. P.

From the Commercial Advertiser.

TO SPRING.

BY WILLIAM RAY, Author of a volume of Poems, recently published.

So sweet—so pure—so calm and bright, Thy beauteous countenance appears, Thou must have sprung from heavenly light; Been born of some celestial sphere— Clothed by a rainbow richly gay, And nursed by yonder milky-way.

At thy descent creation smiles— Nay—hills and valleys laugh and sing; The rivers, like a thousand Niles, Their fertilizing tribute bring; Their clasp their hands— with joy to see The world from death like winter free.

Yet, oft, methinks, I see thee grieve, For thou hast dark and dismal hours— At noon—as noontide—and at eve— Weeping in dew-drops on thy showers, As if thy swelling heart would burst In floods, to quench all nature's thirst.

But cheering sun beams soon dispel The cloudy features of thy face; And on its smiling features dwell The bloom of beauty—charm of grace— The feathered minstrel chaut their lays, In 'wild—devout—unconscious praise.

To 'Spring, the bird of heaven's own blue, Her feeble anthem pours along; O bolder notes and brighter song; Myriads of warblers catch the strain; While grazing beasts in hoarse strains, Roar acclamation from the plains.

There's not on earth—there's not in air A creature by the Almighty made, That feels not—owns not—sees not there, His bright beneficence displayed;— Creative wisdom—mercy—power— Glow in the skies—fall in the showers.

Nature inanimate—if such In vast creation can be found, Unites to show his love as much, And spreads his mighty wonders round, As those possessed of living souls, Where thought expands, and vision rolls.

The humblest flower that decks the vale— The gloomiest cypress of the grove— The breath of heaven their leaves inhale, And whisper back that "God is love." Stream speaks his praises as they flow, And winds soft hallelujahs blow.

But man—God's image—where art thou— Lost in the world's bewildering maze? Come forth—a grateful heart avow, And join the vocal song of praise— The boundless Lord of Lords adore, And King of Kings—forevermore.

"The floods clap their hands—Psalms.

SPRING—A PICTURE OF THE FRAILTY OF HUMAN LIFE.

At this season, we need not go far to seek for images of frailty and death. They present themselves to us on all hands; being connected with almost all the beauties of nature. Undoubtedly it was the divine intention in this respect, to remind us of the uncertainty of this thing, and to place our affections on eternal objects. In this spring, the plants receive a new life; and it is also the spring that the greater part of them perish. Through the days of spring appear ever so many that are often covered with
