The University of Maryland.

ST. JOHN'S AND WASHINGTON COLLEGES.

The reputation and welfare of Maryland have been deeply afflicted by the fall of this University; and although it is the common duty of every man in the state to endeavour to reconstruct it, there seems to be something more than an ordinary obligation upon those, who claim to be the Alumni of the Institution, to co-operate, and to make one vigorous, united effort, to resuscitate and to restore it to its ancient usefulness and fame, that they may be the special means of transmitting to their descendants, and to posterity generally, the benefits of an Institution which the wisdom of their forefathers had created for them.

It is therefore respectfully suggested to the Alumni of this University, where ever residing, to hold a meeting on the first Monday in August next, at St. John's College in Annapolis, (by permission of the Visitors and Governors,) to take into consideration the practicability of reviving this University, the plan, and the ways and means necessary to effect it.

As the Chancellor of the state is upon the spot, and is always one of the Visitors & Governors of the University, it is also suggested that he be invited to attend as President of the Convention.

Should this proposition meet with the approbation of those to whom it is directed, it may be useful to insert short paragraphs in the several newspapers of the state, and of the District of Columbia, favourable to the plan, and urging a general attendance at the Convention—as it is not only desirable that our once distinguished and venerable "Alma Mater," should be re-animated and restored by her Sons, but particularly so that they should form a Brotherhood of every surviving member of the family to undertake the noble work, to which gratitude and duty equally invite.

ALUMNUS.

P. S. The Editors of newspapers throughout the state, and in the District of Columbia, are requested to give this publication a few insertions in their respective Journals. May 16.

Notice is hereby Given,

That the subscriber has obtained from the Orphans Court of Anne Arundel county, short letters testamentary on the personal estate of Elizabeth Battee, late of said county, deceased. All persons having claims against said estate are requested to present them, properly authenticated, to Thos. Franklin, in Annapolis, and those indebted to make immediate payment.

FOR SALE,

The property in Annapolis formerly occupied by the late Dr. James Lloyd & support from an Almighty power, ought to be cherished as the most valuable treasure, far more desirable to a thinking mind, than the jewels of the brightest diadem in the universe. Yet how little is this treasure valued in the busy walks of pleasure, avarice and ambition! The most useful allurement of the world will induce men to postpone or dismiss all thoughts of God and their dearest duties.

At the evil day of sickness, or old age, affliction of spirits will come, and come peculiar horrors to those who have made no religious preparation. Then, will they appear in a shape and colour totally different from that which they deceitfully assumed, before the evil day comes, and mitigate the evil by securing a retreat in the arms under the wing of the Deity.

BRICK DWELLING HOUSE,

MISCELLANEOUS

From the Charleston Courier. LOVE ASLEEP.

Waken him not—no dreams of bliss, His lips put forth to kiss; His arms entwined in virgin grace, Seem link'd in beautiful embrace.

His smiles, and on his opening lip, Anguish refresh and angels slip; His stanzas—'tis the very light, That burning wears on leaving night.

He sighs—'tis not the sigh of wo, His only sighs that he may know, For mutual sighs are signs of love, He whispers—'tis his dear one's name— The impress'd accents strive in vain, They murmur through his lips again.

He wakes—the silly little boy, To break the mirror thus of joy! He wakes to sorrow, and in pain— Oh! Love! renew thy dreams again.

SACRED EFFUSION.

O God, create my heart anew, Bid unbelief and fear depart, Let holy sanctifying dew Descend and cleanse my longing heart.

Father, I wait thy will to prove, Thy sanctifying power to see; To triumph in thy perfect love, And all my powers devote to thee.

O, let me hear thy cheering voice Pronounce me, Saviour, wholly thine; Thy strength will I rejoice, And all my soul to thee resign.

'Tis thou wilt—I feel the quick'ning power, Thine everlasting love is mine! Thine art my life, my strength, my tower, And I, my God, am wholly thine.

THE NATURE OF MAN.

If one can suppose a man never to have seen the face of the earth, but in the month of May, one may conclude that he would naturally be able to form an idea of its dead appearance in December. So men in the midst of youth, health, reducing pleasures, riches, honours, flattery, and the obsequiousness of all around them, can with difficulty conceive the evil day which nevertheless awaits both them and all the sons of men.

The misery of man is a topic on which it is unnecessary to enlarge. All men are convinced of it at some time in their lives by experience, but all men do not sufficient reflect upon it, nor prepare an antidote against it, nor alterations under it.

Men ascend to the skies, and dive into earth in pursuit of knowledge; but they descend not into themselves. They examine not their own nature.

If they courted an acquaintance with themselves, they would find their own frailty and misery the most distinguishing parts of their character; and they would be led by its sight to seek strength and comfort, where alone it can be found, in the favour of the Creator.

In a state in which we are liable every day, to be deprived of all our souls hold dear, of relations, friends, fortune, fame, health, our senses and our peace; and religion which offers but a hope of comfort and support from an Almighty power, ought to be cherished as the most valuable treasure, far more desirable to a thinking mind, than the jewels of the brightest diadem in the universe.

Yet how little is this treasure valued in the busy walks of pleasure, avarice and ambition! The most useful allurement of the world will induce men to postpone or dismiss all thoughts of God and their dearest duties.

At the evil day of sickness, or old age, affliction of spirits will come, and come peculiar horrors to those who have made no religious preparation. Then, will they appear in a shape and colour totally different from that which they deceitfully assumed, before the evil day comes, and mitigate the evil by securing a retreat in the arms under the wing of the Deity.

PICTURE OF HAVANNA.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in Havana, to his friend in Mobile.

The first things which strike the attention of an American on his arrival at this city, are the great number, strength, and activity of the fortifications: the city at first appears to be almost impregnable, but being a short time on shore, he will find arsenals and armories, ordnance, and the like, are all but a show in comparison with the people in afloat and warlike—soldiers and sailors are, undoubtedly the most numerous, and both money and soldiers are daily here, but among the latter, there is a great scarcity of the former.

The Jews of Judah and Israhel will never be the same people cannot be the lion's share, who are ass between burdens—soldiers who are not paid well, will not fight.

The merchants, with some few honourable exceptions, are mercenary. The whole nation is devoted to one object. Get money by all means get it—for money is the principal thing—the God of the country is Mammon. In the language of Burke, "The people are not to be despised, and have a right to be so." (A) transgressors will be poor, with cold civility and contempt respect. The African merchant is not like the present constitutional government, so well as they did the monarchy of the man of pedicots.
