it, there seems to be something more than an ordinary obligation upon those, who claim to be the Alumni of the Institution, to co-operate, and to make one vigorous, united effort, to resuscitate and to restore it to its ancient usefulness and fame, that they may be the special means of transmitting to their descendants, and to posterity generally, the benefits of an Institution which the wisdom of their forefathers had created

It is therefore respectfully suggested to the Alumni of this University, whereever residing, to hold a meeting on the first Monday in August next, at St. John's College in Annapolis, (by permission of the Visitors and Governors,) to take into considerationthe practicabili ty of reviving this University, the plan, and the ways and means necessary to effect it.

As the Chancellor of the state is up on the spot, and is always one of the Visitors & Governors of the University, it is also suggested that he be in vited to attend as President of the Con-

And strew its turf with flowers; And strew its turn with Howers,
He was my lov'd and only one,
The charm of my lonely hours,
Of he was life in its freshest bloom,
He'cheer'd me many a day;
His smile and his beauty lit my gloom,
And chas'd its night away.

Day after day, like an opening flower, His mother's pride he grew; He seem'd like an infant germ of power, So bright he met my view; law in his gay exulting face,
The future greatness glow;
And I thought his light infantine grace To manhood strength would grow

I read, in every word and smile, The father's look and tone; and I hung on those dear eyes, the while, 'As when first our hearts were one: So bright a vision could not last, That dear illusion fled; Like a rainbow cloud it pass'd To the cold and voiceless dead.

And blend their innocent love; Where hours of happiness never fleet, in the peaceful world above. Where the links, that bind our souls, by death,
Shall never be broken more, But a better life, with its quick'ning breath, Shall every charm restore:

Butthere is a home where dear ones meet

Then, cease, ye bitter tears, to fall;
My heart its grief shall bear,
Till I hear from Heaven the tender call Of love invite me there.
