The University of Maryland.

ST. JOHN'S AND WASHINGTON COLLEGES.

The reputation and welfare of Maryland have been deeply afflicted by the fall of this University; and although it is the common duty of every man in the state to endeavour to re-construct it, there seems to be something more than an ordinary obligation upon those, who claim to be the Alumni of the Institution, to co-operate, and to make one vigorous, united effort, to rescue it and to restore it to its ancient usefulness and fame, that may be the special means of transmitting to their descendants, and to posterity generally, the benefits of an Institution which the wisdom of their forefathers had created for them.

It is therefore respectfully suggested to the Alumni of this University, wherever residing, to hold a meeting on the first Friday in December next, at St. John's College in Annapolis, (by permission of the Visitors and Governors,) to take into consideration the practicability of reviving this University, the plan, and the ways and means necessary to effect it.

As the Chancellor of the state is upon the spot, and is always one of the Visitors & Governors of the University, it is also suggested that he be invited to attend as President of the Convention.

Should this proposition meet with the approbation of those to whom it is directed, it may be useful to insert short paragraphs in the several newspapers of the state, and of the District of Columbia, favourable to the plan, and urging a general attendance at the Convention—as it is not only desirable that our once distinguished and venerable "Alma Mater," should be re-animated and restored by her Sons, but particularly so that they should form a Brotherhood of every surviving member of the family to undertake the noble work, to which gratitude and duty equally invite.

P. S. The Editors of newspapers throughout the state, and in the District of Columbia, are requested to give this publication a few insertions in their respective Journals. May 16. t1D.

A Farm for Sale.

The subscriber offers for sale a tract of land lying in South River Neck, containing upwards of 300 acres. This land, (from the subscriber's own experience) is susceptible of being brought to a high state of improvement, by the application of clay, and plaster; a considerable part of this land is adapted to the growth of wheat, and other grain, and other parts to the cultivation of tobacco. There is a small dwelling house upon the premises, (which will receive an additional tenant, to accommodate a large family by the expiration of the present year, at which time possession will be given; also other out houses suitable for the purposes of farming; and planning.

It is deemed unnecessary to give a further description of this land, as it is presumed that persons wishing to purchase will survey the premises before they determine to buy. This land will be sold on very accommodating terms; the purchaser, by paying a part in cash, can have the remainder to pay the balance of the purchase money. Persons wishing to purchase will please to make application to the subscriber at Williamson's Hotel, Annapolis. Mr. R. Thome, the present tenant, will show the land to those wishing to purchase. Should the above land not be sold at private sale before Wednesday the 4th day of September next, it will on that day be offered at public auction on the premises, and will positively be sold to the highest bidder. STAR OF BETHLEHEM. By J. G. Percival. Brighter than the rising day, Brighter than the glory shines, Brighter than the diamond's ray, Sparkling in Golconda's mines, Beaming through the clouds of wo, Smiles in mercy's diadem. Brighter on the world below, The Star that rose in Bethlehem. When our eyes are dimm'd with tears, This can light them up again, Sweet as music to our ears, Family warbling o'er the plain. Never shines a ray so bright From the purest earthly gem, 'Till there is no soothing light Like the star of Bethlehem. Grief's dark clouds may round us roll, Every heart may sink in wo, Gloomy conscience rack the soul And sorrow's tears in torrents flow, Still, through all these clouds and storms Shines this purest heavenly gem, With a ray that kindly warms— The Star that rose in Bethlehem. When we cross the roaring wave That rolls on life's remotest shore, And when we look into the grave, And wander through this world no more; This the lamp, whose genial ray, Like some brightly glowing gem, Points to man his darkling way— The Star that rose in Bethlehem. Let the world be sunk in sorrow, Not an eye be charm'd or blest; We can see a fair to-morrow Smiling in the rosy west; For this beacon Hope displays, For its Mercy's diadem Shines with Faith's serene rays The Star that rose in Bethlehem.

BLIND ALLAN. [From the Lights and Shadows of Scottish Life.] Allan Bruce and Fanny Raeburn were in no respect remarkable among the simple inhabitants of the village in which they were born. They both bore a fair reputation in the parish, and they were both beloved by their own friends and relations. He was sober, honest, active, and industrious,—exemplary in the common duties of private life,—possessed of the humble virtue becoming his humble condition, and unstained by any of those gross vices that sometimes deform the character of the poor. She was modest, good tempered, contented, and religious,—and much is contained in these four words. Beauty she was not thought to possess,—nor did she attract attention; but whatever charms resided in pure health, innocence of heart, and simplicity of manners, that belonged to Fanny Raeburn: while there was nothing either about her face or figure to prevent her seeming even beautiful to the eyes of a lover. These two humble and happy persons were betrothed in marriage. Their affection had insensibly grown without any courtship, for they had lived daily in each other's sight; and, undisturbed by jealousy or rivalry, by agitating hopes or depressing fears, their hearts had been tenderly united long before their troth was solemnly pledged; and they now looked forward with a calm and rational satisfaction to the happy years which they humbly hoped might be stored up for them by a bountiful Providence. Their love was without romance, but it was warm, tender, and true; they were prepared by its strength to make any sacrifice for each other's sakes; and, had death taken away either of them before the wedding-day, the survivor might not perhaps have been clamorous in grief, or visited the grave of the departed with nightly lamentations, but not the less would that grief, have been sincere, and not the less faithful would memory have been to all the images of the past. Their marriage day was fixed— and Allan Bruce had rented a small cottage, with a garden sloping down to the stream that cheered his native village. Thither, in about two months, he was to take his sweet and affectionate Fanny—she was to work with her needle as before—and he in the fields. No change was to take place in their lives, but a change from contentment to happiness; and if God prolonged to them the possession of health, and blessed them with children they feared not to bring them, decently up, and to afford sunshine and shelter
