The University of Maryland.
ST. JOHN'S
AND
WASHINGTON
COLLEGES.

The reputation and welfare of Maryland have been deeply afflicted by the fall of this University; and although it is the common duty of every man in the state to endeavour to re-construct it, there seems to be something more than an ordinary obligation upon those who claim to be the Alumni of the Institution, to co-operate, and to make one vigorous, united effort, to resuscitate and to restore it to its ancient usefulness and fame, that they may be the special means of transmitting to their descendants, and to posterity generally, the benefits of an Institution which the wisdom of their forefathers had created for them.
It is therefore respectfully suggested to the Alumni of this University, wherever residing, to hold a meeting on the first Friday in December next, at St. John's College in Annapolis, (by permission of the Visitors and Governors), to take into consideration the practicability of reviving this University, the plan, and the ways and means necessary to effect it.
As the Chancellor of the state is upon the spot, and it is always one of the Visitors & Governors of the University, it is also suggested that he be invited to attend as President of the Convention.
Should this proposition meet with the approbation of those to whom it is directed, it may be useful to insert short paragraphs in the several newspapers of the state, and of the District of Columbia, favourable to the plan, and urging a general attendance at the Convention—as it is not only desirable that our once distinguished and venerable "Alma Mater" should be re-animated and restored by her Sons, but particularly so that they should form a Brotherhood of every surviving member of the family to undertake the noble work, to which gratitude and duty equally invite.

ALUMNUS.
P. S. The Editors of newspapers throughout the state, and in the District of Columbia, are requested to give this publication a few insertions in their respective Journals.

MISCELLANEOUS

From the Connecticut Blirior.
TO THE MARGUIS LA FAYETTE.
The only surviving General of the Revolution.
We'll search the earth, and search the sea,
To pull a gallant wreath for thee;
And every field for Freedom sought,
Of Liberty can yet be found,
Shall be our blooming harvest ground.
Laurels in garlands hang upon
Thermopylae and Marathon—
On Bannockburn the thistle grows—
On Runnymede the wild rose blows—
And on the banks of Boyne, its leaves
Green Erin's shamrock wildly waves:
In France, in sunny France, we'll get
The Flee de lys and mignonette,
From every consecrated spot,
Where lies a martyr'd Hugenot,
And e'en here from many a field,
And many a rocky height,
That our vales and mountains yield,
Where men have met to fight
For law, and liberty, and life,
And died in Freedom's holy strife,
The Atlantic's seas—below
The waves of Eric and Champlain,
The rocks and the corals grow,
In coral trophies round the slain,
And we can add, to form thy crown,
Sun-burnt branches worthy thy renown.
May thy chapel flourish bright,
As borrow from the Heavens, its light
With a cloud that circles round
A star, when other stars have set—
With glory shall thy brow be bound,
With glory shall thy head be crown'd,
With glory—starlike, tinkered yet
In earth, and air, and sky, and sea,
Shall yield a glorious wreath to thee.

From the Charleston Courier.
By J. G. PERCIVAL.

Two flowers were budding on one stem,
Imbued with fragrance, fresh with dew,
And bent with many a trickling gem,
That trembled as the west wind blew,
And softly shone their crimson through
That veil of crystal purity,
And as the thrush around them flew,
He clearly piped his melody.
Two fledglings in a ring dove's nest,
With tender bill, and feeble wing,
Sat brooding on their downy breast,
And they had just begun to sing,
And as they saw their mother bring,
With tireless love, the food she bore,
They made the woods around them ring,
The infant note they had carol'd o'er.
I saw, along the ocean sail
Two barsk, that flew before the wind;
The canvass, swelling to the gale,
They left a foaming wake behind,
And low the keeling sheet inclin'd;
As freshly blew the sweeping blast:
But still the pilot kept in mind,
There was a peaceful port at last.
I saw along the cloudless sky,
Two stars adorn the brow of night;
They shone serenely on my eye,
With pure and unoffending light;
The beam was mellow than bright,
Like gems that twinkle in their mine;
A soothing and tranquilizing sight,
And seem'd a spark of love divine.
I saw two sisters—they were one
In beauty, sweetness, age and soul;
Their bosom was the stainless throne,
Where virtue held supreme controul,
Their hearts were pointed to the pole,
By God to erring mortals given,
The bright, the pure, the happy goal,
That waits the fair and good in heaven.

From the Philadelphia Advertiser.
THY WILL BE DONE.

When sorrow casts its shade around,
And pleasure seems our course to shun;
When nought but grief and care is found,
How sweet to say, "Thy will be done."
When sickness lends its pallid hue,
And every dream of bliss has flown;
When quickly from the fading view
The joys that once were known:
The soul resign'd will still rejoice,
Though life's last hour is nearly run;
With humble faith and trembling voice,
It whispers soft, "Thy will be done."
When call'd to mourn the early doom
Of one affection held most dear;
While o'er the closing silent tomb,
The bleeding heart distils the tear:
Though love its tribute sad will pay,
And early streams of sorrow shun;
Still will the humbled soul will say,
In lowly dust, "Thy will be done."
What'er, O Lord, thou hast design'd
To bring my soul to thee in trust,
If weals or afflictions, kind,
For all thy dealings, Lord are just,
Take all—but grant in goodness free,
That love which we'er thy stroke would
"Thy will be done."
Support this heart, and strengthen me
To say, in faith, "Thy will be done."
PROVERB.
There is no better looking glass than an old tree friend.
