PROPOSALS

THE MARYLAND GAZETTE AND

STATE REGISTER.

The Editor of the Maryland Gazett, designs making a considerable change in the plan and charecter of his page, "The reasons which induce him to, edopt this masons which induce him to, edopt this masons which induce him to, edopt this masons which, and they shall be briefly

sure are various, and they shall be briefly stated.

The Maryland Gazette was sitablished in the year 1745, by one of the ancestors of the present editor. It was preceded in its publication, but he stress other gapers on the Continent, all of which it has survived. It is therefore at present the oldest paper in Atheritor's at present the oldest paper in Atheritor's at the period of its establishment, until the year 1813, it preserved the same character, and the same tile; anterior to this period, it was strictly a vehicle of general intelligence—it was not devoted to the views and objects of any particular party, but its columns were accessible to all. At the commencement of that year (a most momentous period in the history of our country,) it was deemed necessary to give to it a new character; and the cory of our country,) it was deemed necessary to give to it a new character; and the better to designate its future course, an additional title also; it was henceforward called the Maryland Gazette and Political Intelligener. At this period great political excitement prevailed, and party spirit raged with uncoutroled violence—our country men were divided into two great parties the one approving, the other condemning the measures of the general government. Being forced by this state of things to take a part in the political contests of the day, the editor, after the maturest deliberation, and with the fullest conviction of his understanding, resolved to advocate, exclusively, that policy which was recommended by the federal party. If he differed from a majo rity of his countrymen, he differed honest-ly; and whether his views and sentiments were erroneous or not, they were the dic tates of the purest patriotism, and proceeded from an ardent desire to promote, what he conceived to be, the best interests of his country. But these scenes have passed away times have changed -& the situation of our commerce, our agriculture, and our manuel of the following—we are not only exempt from the horrors of war, but we are every where blessed with plenty and abundance. Our commerce, our agriculture, and our manuel features are comparatively flourishing—far factures are comparatively flourishing-far more so perhaps than in any other quarter of the glube. But above all, the demon of party spirit is now laid, and we trust for ever; the "era of good feelings" has now, we hope, indeed a rived, when the only contest will be, who can do his country most. service; and when in appointment to office, the only questions asked will be, is he ho-nest? Is he capable? Is he virtuous?" To Air. Monroe much praise must be accorded

Mr. Monroe much praise must be accorded for that state of harmony, which has for some time past pervaded our country —so wise has been the course of policy that he has pursued, that he has satisfied all parties, and left us nothing to dispute about. So great then has been the change of circum stances which a few years have produced, not only in our own country, but in Eutope also, that the distor deems it no longer necessary to change his paper as the advocate of any particular political party. Its columns will henceforth be open to all who may choose to avail themselves of them, without any other restrictions than requirwithout any other restrictions than requiring decency of language, the avoiding of personalities, and correctness of composition. But it will be the peculiar object of the Editor to render his paper subservient to the best interests of his own state—He wishes to make it emphatically a State Paransa name. per. By this expression, he means a paper, whose province it will be to uphold and maintain the honour and dignity of the maintain the nonth of the prosperity by diffus-ing such information with regard to her resources and her means of internal im-provement, as he may be erabled to obtain As an indication of the future character of As an indication of the future character his paper, he has given to it the new title of State Register. It will in future become the repository of all state documents, and of such other information as may tend to elucidate the history of the state, or promote its improvement and prosperity.

It will also be the object of the Editor to present his patrons with the earliest intelpresent his patrons with the earliest intelligence, foreign or domestic; and he will be particularly careful to devote a due portion of his paper to the interests of Agriculture, Manufactures, and Domestic Economy.—
With this statement of his objects and his views, the Editor submits' his plan to the patronage of the public —Should it be fawith their support, he will endeavour not to disappoint the expectation that may be excited. may be excited.

If sufficient encouragement be afforded, the paper will be enlarged to an imperial size, and printed with a new type.
