Hair Restorative And Preservative Vegelittle Cerate, FACTS ARE STUBBORN THINGS.

I have now in my possession a cer-tificate from a gentleman to whom reference will be given to those whe wish positive proof of the powerful of fect of the Hair Cerate. In this case fect of the Hair Cerate. In this case a large space on the head was perfectly bald, but now, wonderful to behold it is covered with a beautiful, strong thick crop of hair; and this rapid vege tation came to perfection in about two months by the use of not quite two boyes of the Vegetable Hair Corate bought at my shop I therefore, in full confidence recommend it to the public, that by attending to the method prescribed for using it, they will not be disappointed in their expectations.

Sole Agent for the state of Maryland March 22.

More proof of the wonderful effects of the Vegetable Hoir Restorative Cerate, which I have just received in the following certificates from New York, &c. ! Northampton county, Penn. Jan. 23, 1824.

Having observed in the Baltimore and Philadelphia papers the wonder-ful effects the Vegetable Cerate his produced on numbers of persons, and having the misfortune to lose my hair about two years ago, I purchased some of the article and made use of it according to the directions, and in a. bout four months I had an elegant coat of hair, and I can safely say it is one of the greatest discoveries ever made as it respects restoring the hair.

JAMES WOOD. Long Island, March 25, 1824. I saw in the New York Patriot . remedy for the hair, called the Vegetable Cerate, and being bald on the top of my head, I purchased a box, and after using about three quarters of it, I perceived my hair coming out; I sha. ved it off-according to the directions still using the Cerate, and in about three months I had a fine head of hair; I have, therefore, no hesitation in re-commending it to the public.

J. GARDNER. New York, March 20, 1824, As I had heard from numbers of persons the great benefit they had received from the use of the Vegetable Cerate, and having lost nearly all my hair, and tried every thing to restore it without effect, I purchased some of the Cerate of Dr. James II. Hart, and continued its use about three or four months, and found it answered the most salutary effects. To those who are desirous of preserving and restor-ing their hair, I therefore cheerfully recommend it to the public in general in the highest terms.

WILLIAM PATTEN. North-Moore street, March 1, 1824.
With the greatest satisfaction, I do recommend the Vegetable Cerate. Having lost almost all my hair, by its falling off, I made use of the Vege-table Cerate and found the greatest benefit, it has cured my hair not only that, it softens the hair, and gives it a most elegant glossy appearance.

Dr. James H. Hart of New York, is well acquainted with me, and can

TO THE PUBLIC.—In justice to the discoverer of the celebrated Hair Restorative and Preservative Vegetable Cerate, [which is advertised in this paper] as well as for the benefit of such as may be afflicted with the loss of hair, I feel it my duty to give publicity to the following facts. About four years ago my hair all came out and left my head entirely bald; I used a great variety of means, among which were all the imported oils that are generally used for restoring the hair, to restore it again, without effect. Having seen the Vegetable Cerate last summer, I procured some of it, and, after using it about four months, night and morning, my head is now covered with a beautiful and vigorous growth of hair. It has had the desired effect with me, and I earnestly recommend it to those who have unfortunately lost their hair, as being'the only effectual restorative now in use.

WILLIAM SMITH,
Of Burlington county, N. J. Newark, March 12.

TO THE LADIES. New York, Varick st. Feb. 20, 1824.
As it respects the Vegetable Cerate that has been published in our New York papers for this sometime past, and the many benefits it has produced on various persons, I therefore purchased some of the article to try its effect, and I can safely say, it is the only thing that has ever been of benefit to me, it not only prevents the hair from falling off, but gives the most stubborn hair a most beautiful natural curl, and I highly recommend it to all the ladies in the highest terms.

The original copies of the preceding satisficates, can be seen at the store of Dr. James H. Hart, copier of Chamber street and Broadway, N. D. York.

MISCELLANEOUS

From the London Literary Gazette. SKETCHES OF SOCIETY. CHELSEA HOSPITAL.

And little of this great world can I speak, More than pertains to feast of broil and bat-

On advancing to the gates, I observed my friend Pat with four or five little urchins drawn up in a line. each with a broom-stick or a mophandle, going through the various evolutions of the drill ground. He was in the first position for facing to the right, and the youngsters, with mouths and eyes wide open, were watching the motion .- Though seventy winters had spent their storms upon his head, he stood erect and firm, and at that moment would have been a fine study for the artist. ·To the right face!' said he. It brought it full in my front: his hand was flourished in his hat in an instant, and from a countenance expressive of command, it changed to one of the most lively pleasure. Oh, joy to the hour that I see your honour again! Faith, but delight is bateing the roll upon the drum of the heart, and every swate sensation is answering the muster.' The children were now charging each other in front and rear, which annoying the veteran, 'Arrah be aisey, and don't you be after making such a hubbaboo-double quick time, march!' and off they sat, as wild as young colts. Are any of these yours' inquired I. Oh no, your honour; when the turf covers poor ould Pat, his name will become 'stinguished. But see at you gasson; oh. it makes my heart ache to look at him, for he has niver a friend in the world, no, in Ireland eather, save and beside myself, your honour. Sure isn't he a darling of a boy, and the very image of my own dare Norah. Come here, Casey and spake to the gentleman; don't stand rubbing your pate there. Run off, you ragged rascal, and let his honour alone; don't stand grubbing there with your ten toes, like a pig in a pratee garden. Faith, but he's off; and now, perhaps your honour would like to know a little of his history, seeing that it makes a figure in my own. But first I'll go back to the end, and so tell you straight forward in a circuitous manner, that Video that you left me last? And faith I might have staid there till death, and longer, but they ordered us up for Bonney's Airs. Oh that was a terrible consarn, so it was, and many brave fellows lost their billet, for these Spaniards had an ugly knack of knocking the wounded upon the head after they were kilt.—Sure wasn't I one of the party that stormed the Pizzelaro del Tel-row, where the bulls fight; for how could we get at em, your honour, seeing there was not even the spoke of a ladder by way of stair case? Ah, then poor Pat tumbled down with a wound I got in the breast; and then I thought of dare little Ireland and Norah; and so I struggled to get up again; but all was to no use till I was fainted with the loss of blood, and there I lay as speechless and as comical as possible. Well when I awoke I heard a soft swate voice, spaking to me in broken English—it was just like Norah's your honour—and so I opened my day-lights to take a peep at the angel, for I thought it was her own dare self came in a phantomical way to cheer my spirit about to quit this world of trouble-only I couldn't make out the brogue; but not a soul did I see, saving and except a young officer, in the uniform of a Spanish hussar, kneeling by my side and faloing my pulse, which was now bateing the dead march. The crature started when I show'd my peepers, and the cap flew from its head. Oh, I shall niver forget to remember that same; for it was a woman, your honour, and a noble one, too; and though French by birth a countryman of my own, seeing that she had married a son of the sod.* Long life to her, whether she's dead or alive, for her kindness to poor Pat! for did'nt she have me carried by the Viceroy's servants to snug quarters, where my wound was dress'd and the ball distracted; faith and she did your honour, and many more beside me, for after the battle, having a regard for the poor brave soudger, and knowing that many lay bladeing on the ground, she put on the regimentals of a captain of hussars, as one of the general's aid de camps, and rode through the scenes of carnage to stop the murderers' hands. Ob wasnt she a darling of a soul! Ax General B --- , your honour for he knew her well, by token-but that's none of my business to notice, only 'twas whispered as soft as a pale of bells, that they found his image in wax-work all alive and kicking, your honour. But the worst of it was the loss of our colours, that hung dangling in the church of San Nicholas, where the brave Sir Samuel A ---- ty had suffered so much; but that was a bad job, to make the most of it, and all through treachery and cowardice, your honour, bad manners to his powther'd fiz-hog. But the colours! oh dida't they stick in my gizzard, sure! and so I spoke a word or two about it to my ould comrade Corporal Blacketer-him as puckey loved the saints. 'What's to be done!' says he. 'Arrah dacently walk off with them,' says I.—

'How's that?' says he. So seeing he'd no liking to the matter, I was obliged to close my chatter box, and soon after we sailed down the river. Well, about two years afterward an ill wind blow'd me there again, and I could'nt help going to take asly peep. Oh didn't I get into a big rage, sure, when they struck like a blight upon my eyes. Oh

Paddy, says, I, twig'em, and take shame to yourself for not dislodging them from their height! And so it bother'd me night and day, your honour, that I couldn't slape a wink, nor ever cease to think of it forward in a circuitous manner, that we may'nt set out in a round about Jerry Driscol and myself were way. Sure and wasn't it at Monte | ashore taking a sup of the crature; Jerry was a broth of a boy, knew that two and two made five when his own ugly mug was shoved in to balance the account. He was a blue jacket your honour, belonging to a sloop of war. 'Arrah, Jerry, (says I) shall we do the thing? Faith and we will, (says he) and the more by token that they have stuck the bunting up;' as indeed they had your honour, with R. M. B. on it, for Royal Marine Battal lion. So when night came, off we set, and got safe into the middle of the centre of the church, and clapp'd ourselves in ambush out of sight, where no body could see us. About midnight, 'now, (says I) Jerry's, the time; you must mount-a-reeve-o. only take care the rope don't get round your neck,'-Well, just as we was going to begin, we heard e most terrible noise, and what could it he but one of the padres, > box-the confessional-box I mane. Bad manners to him for stretching his day-lights, and prying into other men's affairs! Oh, your honour, he roared like a Pope's bull, but he was as big as three moderate-sized aldermen. 'Arralı bo aisy, (says who had been sipping the supernaculum and fallen asleep in the sentry rot-underty, which would have held a cathedral)-Can't you behave yourself, jewel?'-Thump he went again; it sounded like a big drum, or a chinese gong. 'Tuzzy muzzy wow, and be quiet then, says Jerry, fetching him another poke in his middle aisle, that made the steeple tother. The sentry peop'd in, Jerry twig'd him, and cotch'd the friar round the neck, and down they roll'd together both roaring with all their might. It struck me comical—I could'nt tell what to make of it. 'Arrah, Jerry, (says I) don't you mane to get up?' 'Oh the murthering rascal! (says he) don't you see how he is using me!' and indeed your honour, the padre was belabouring him with both his fists. I ran to assist, but a sargeagt and suard entered. Arrah, Prody, (says I) it's all over with you now; we shall both be hung for felo de see. What's the matter here? (says the sargeant -for he was a countryman, your honour, that had desarted from Whitelocke's army, as indeed there were hundreds more)—Oh, by my conscience. (says Jerry, jumping up and touching his hat.) Mr. Sargeant, but that same fellow is a thumping rogue, so he is.' Be alsey,' says the sargeant; and so he spake to the Padre in broken Spanish, and tells him to get up, and the sol liers levor'd him up with their firelocks. And then he tells them a long story about being asleep, and dreaming that somebody was trying to stale the Virgin Mary, and that San Nicholas tweak'd his nose, and cotch'd us at it. . Do you hear that?' says the sargeant .- Faith and I do, (says Jerry) but sorrow the silly bull do I understand at all at all: all I know of the matter is that we were passing by, and heard the poor jontleman hallowing; so we ran in, and thinking he'd got the cramp in the stomach, I rubb'd his eminence a little, when the ungrateful rascal knock'd me down, and threw himself on the top of the outside of me, and I'm almost mumm'd to a jammy-arrah no, jamin'd to a mum-my, I mane.' But what's that rope?' says the sargeant, pointing to it. 'Oh the sinner! (says Jerry,) and sure he was going to hang himself, but didn't like it. Faith but it's all evident now, Mr. Sargeant, and we've saved his life.' However, your honour, they march'd us off to the guard house, Jerry and I, and there we staid till morning it our hearts bateing the tatroo all the time, for we'd no great relish to the mines for life.-But joy betide the friar, he made it out to be a merrykill, and so we were released for the honour of San Nicholas, spite of the thwacks he got in his corporation that would have held all the common council in London; and sothe colours hang there till this time, unless they've taken them down, Jerry's in Greenitch and here's poor Pat in Chilcea. God bless his Majesty and the country for such a

We find the following paragraph in the last number of the Edinburgh Philosophical Journal.

"It is a remarkable circumstance, that, since the great earthquake of 1687, no wheat will grow on the coast of Peru. In some places, indeed, a little is raised; but it is very unproductive. Rice, on the contrary, yields a great return. Be-fore the earthquake, one grain of wheat yielded 200 grains."
